CRAVEN COLLECTION 01: Letters

The Craven Collection is comprised of materials from the estate of Harriet Ruth Craven.

Folders 1 - 49:

Civil War letters written by John H. Mills to his family in Mooresville. The John Mills letters were written between August 1862 and June 1865. John Mills was in the 12th Regiment Indiana Volunteers. Most men were mustered out of the Mooresville, Indiana area. His letters come from several notable locations, including Chattanooga, TN; Grand Junction, TN.; Jackson, MS; Scottsboro, AL.; Atlanta, GA.

Folder 12 is a letter from Andrew Harshbarger to William Mills on May 28, 1863 from Falmouth, VA.

Folder 46 is a letter from the Mills Family to John Mills on June 8, 1865.

Folders 50 - 90:

Letters written mostly by John H. Mills back to his wife Hattie and daughter Lula. He is working in Illinois on the railroad, hoping to make money to go west and join his brother Charles in New Mexico. Some letters are from Illinois. He then comes back to Indiana for a short while, and then heads west to Skull Canyon, New Mexico where he and his brother Charles start mining ore. He writes faithfully back to Indiana and tells his wife and family about all that is going on in New Mexico. He writes that their claims look favorable and both he and Charles hope to sell them once the assay report is done. His letters start in August 1881 and stop in October 1882. According to the census records, he and Hattie have a baby girl in February 1883, so it's likely that he went home partially because of that.
