TODAY

Today is a time of reapportionment, guerrilla warfare, and Telstar communications, of school re-organization and revised education with emphasis on our modern world and its scientific advances. Today the P.H.S. way includes crowded halls, rained-out baseball games, too much homework, and long-awaited phone calls. It is filled with chemistry experiments, literature notebooks, and final exams which consume most of our time and energy. Today may bring a sectional parade, a class election, or a formal dance. And occasionally today is a day with nothing to do. These todays which once were future will soon be past. Now they are present; they are today the P.H.S. way.

THE P. H. S. WAY

In Our Classes

The nucleus of any class is the teacher. P. H. S. teachers enjoy the many informal meetings around the office counter that take place almost every morning. Here they discuss their classroom projects and problems.

Burt Mills, Carolyn Schultz, and Joyce Hadley look at a scrapbook of clippings about past activities of some of the organizations. As presidents of active organizations, they are interested in the events of the past that made headlines.

Our Organizations

Our Sports

A letter sweater, a football jersey, a baseball glove -- all these and more characterize P.H.S. sports. Not only does the athletic program train boys in sports skills, team-play, and sportsmanship, it also provides the basis for school spirit.

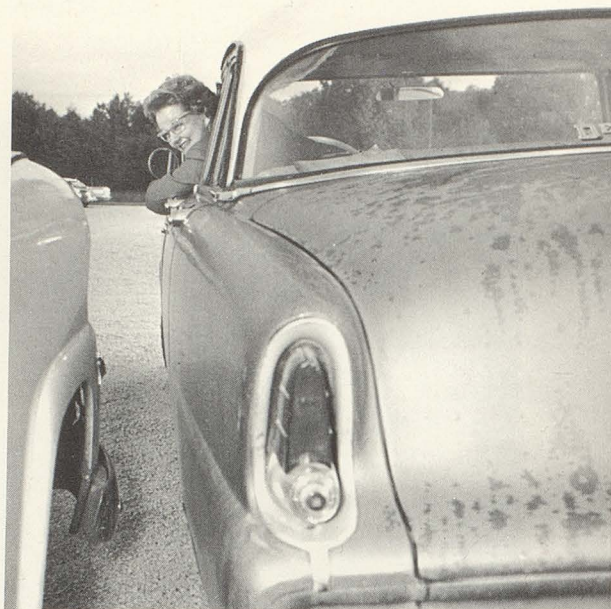

Perhaps the most typical scene at P. H. S. is that of our long, crowded hall, our trademark. The hall is seldom empty; it is usually filled with the talk and the laughter of the people who make P. H. S. live.

And Our Lives

A typical P.H.S. day:

Picking up absent slips is only one of several jobs that Pam Muench has to do when she helps with the office work during her free period.

Judy Watts seems to have problems even before she enters a classroom. However, parking problems have been reduced by the re-surfacing of the lot.

Where do girls like Peggy Lewis, Judy Richardson, Beth Agan, and Virginia Hayes go at noon? They disappear to comb their hair and powder their noses.

our students work, play and learn together

The day the Quaker Shaker comes out is a red letter day for P. H. S. Students can be seen up and down the hall pouring over current news. Above

Dave Hunter, Dave Wethington, Carole Fulkerson, Donna Hobbs, and Carolyn Schultz seem to be having trouble reading their papers fast enough.

From before the first bell until after the last, the long hall at P. H. S. is seldom empty. It is usually crowded with students and teachers, talking, walking, and laughing. Finally when the hall is empty, the custodians clean up and prepare for another crowded, busy day.

Sophomore float

Floats, fair queens, and football make up

Senior float

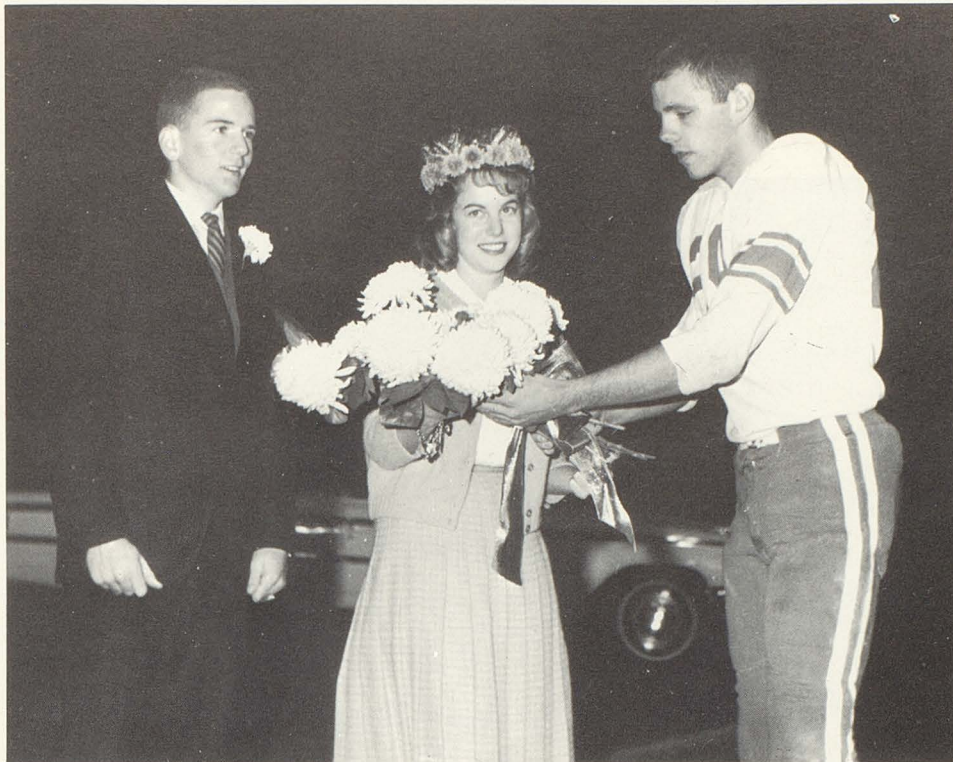

Junior float

For weeks before the big night, P.H.S. students are busy planning and working. Float committees meet to decide where and when and what to build; home rooms elect queen candidates, and boys try to decide whom to ask to the dance.

Then finally the night is here. The band struts out, followed by floats and queens, and Homecoming 1962 has started.

The parade, the game, and the sock hop fly quickly by, and all too soon Homecoming and the weeks of working and planning and hoping are over for another year. In their places are the memories of the fun and feeling that make Homecoming a favorite P.H.S. tradition.

Lovely Sue Brock, 1962 Homecoming Queen, receives her bouquet from Student Council President Dave Corrie. Chuck Crews, Sue's escort, looks on.

the fun, frills, and feeling of Homecoming

As their first Homecoming queen candidate, the sophomores chose Jenny Meyers.

Carol Hensley was the nominee from the junior class in the queen contest.

Stars suffer shakes as curtain rises on

As Jill Hamblen opens the curtain, Mary Screes can't resist a peek at what's happening on stage. Whenever Speech Club is presenting a play, there's bound to be excitement, confusion, and fun.

This fall the club presented "Men Are Like Streetcars," an inside view of a girl's "line" to men. The trials and tribulations of owning a chicken farm were the plot of last spring's play, "The Egg and I."

"Men Are Like Streetcars" and "Egg and I"

Mrs. Niles gives last minute instructions to the cast of "Men Are Like Streetcars." Pictured above are (ON FLOOR): K. Williams, M. Hodson. (SEATED): M. Swinford, M. Wucher, A.

Happel, J. Piper, S. Castleman, R. Niles. (STANDING): K. Arnold, K. Yager, N. Graham, M. Davis, S. Lowery, S. Brown, D. Skirvin, P. Hardin.

The final curtain call of "The Egg and I" showed cast members (ON FLOOR): S. Lowery, S. Castleman, M. Ross, C. Neal. (SEATED): M. Hodson, L. Walls. (STANDING): K. Arnold,

M. Gilbert, B. Mills, S. Brown, R. Bolen, L. Leach, J. Thomas, P. Hardin, C. Jenkel, B. Jones, B. Smith, D. Stone, L. Leach, B. Porter.

Snowflake Fantasy Ball transforms teens

The anxious king and queen candidates pose for pictures in the lobby before the crowning. They are Ed Bell, Donna Hobbs, Joe Ewbank, Ann Whitmire, Jim Frederick, Tyna Sering, Brenda Vaughn, Mike Mason, Carol Price, George Stone, Jackie Trotter, and Phil Wubbolding.

With smiles of surprise and pleasure, King Jim Frederick crowns Ann Whitmire.

Christmas at P.H.S. is many things. It's a decorated tree; it's a long vacation, and this year, it was a Snowflake Fantasy Ball.

Through the combined efforts of F.H.A. and Sunshine Society, couples danced to the music of Bernie Wiemer under a shower of snowflakes in the beautiful Public Service Auditorium. Just before intermission, the king and queen candidates were introduced, and Ann Whitmire and Jim Frederick were chosen to reign over the winter wonderland.

As the clock struck eleven the dance ended, but P.H.S. has high hopes of making the Snowflake Fantasy Ball a Christmas tradition.

into Cinderellas and Prince Charmings

Eight o'clock sharp, and Suzie Barr and Paul Hardin arrive at the beautifully decorated Public Service just as the music starts.

Under sparkling snowflakes and to the dreamy music of Bernie Wiemer, Paul and Suzie dance the evening away.

Nine-thirty found the basement cafeteria full when punch and cookies were served. As the evening drew to a close, Suzie and Paul agreed that it had been a perfect dance.

Young sophisticates sail on a smooth sea

With P.H.S.'s administration, faculty, and upperclassmen aboard, the juniors took the helm last May and sailed the "Columbian Cruise" onto a sea of sophistication.

Last year's reception was held in the beautiful tenth floor ballroom of the Columbia Club in Indianapolis. After a formal dinner, the evening was spent in dancing, talking, and exploring the club.

At twelve midnight, the cruise ended, and the passengers reluctantly left the dream ship with fond memories.

as the "Columbian Cruise" comes into dock

Above Millie Hodson and Larry Bellville participate in the after-dinner program.

P.H.S. teens find their after-school hours

A lazy Saturday? Not hardly! Jane and Carol Weber, like most students, spend their Saturdays doing odd jobs around their home, jobs which give them a "practical education."

In addition to school work, Nora Swindler, like many others, works at a part-time job.

Nora finds one of the greatest satisfactions of her job is being able to spend her "own" money.

And Weekends Are Full, Frantic, And Fun

Of course, weekends are never all work. There are always dances, plays, parties, or ballgames.

One of the favorite traditions of many girls is before-game dinners.

Often students like Ed Bell and Judy Richardson enjoy spending a quiet evening at home.

Today's Classes

The P.H.S. Way

Today's Logical thinking in modern mathematics +

Look over the shoulder of any plane geometry student, and what do you see? You probably see angles, circles, triangles, and squares, all of which have a special meaning to these students.

In trigonometry students study various phases of surveying. Here Allan Kellum and Larry Bellville practice using the transit.

With the precision instruments, accurate readings of a wide variety, and complicated formulas of this "scientific space age," mathematics plays a very important part in students' daily lives.

In order to keep pace with "modern math," P.H.S. offers a wide variety of courses in mathematics. Students can learn about plane, visible figures in plane geometry, solid, tangible figures in solid geometry, logarithms and intriguing equations in Algebra II, sines, cosines, and tangents in trigonometry, and sets, matrices, and functions in college algebra.

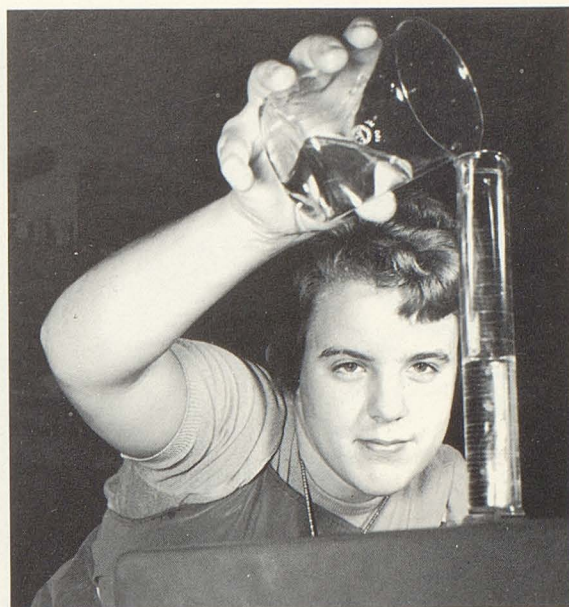

By solving math problems in a well-organized fashion, students learn valuable training that can be applied to other situations in their everyday living.

organized work in science = today's teens

In today's growing world, there is an urgent demand for science and its applications. Our expanding population and complex mode of living present problems that must be solved.

Men need to construct miles of roads and hundreds of buildings in limited space. Ways must be found to preserve our natural resources or to create substitutes for them. Our prestige among other nations rests on our scientific ability. These and other needs of our modern society depend largely on today's student.

P.H.S., recognizing this challenge, has made significant strides in meeting it by providing a good scientific foundation for our students.

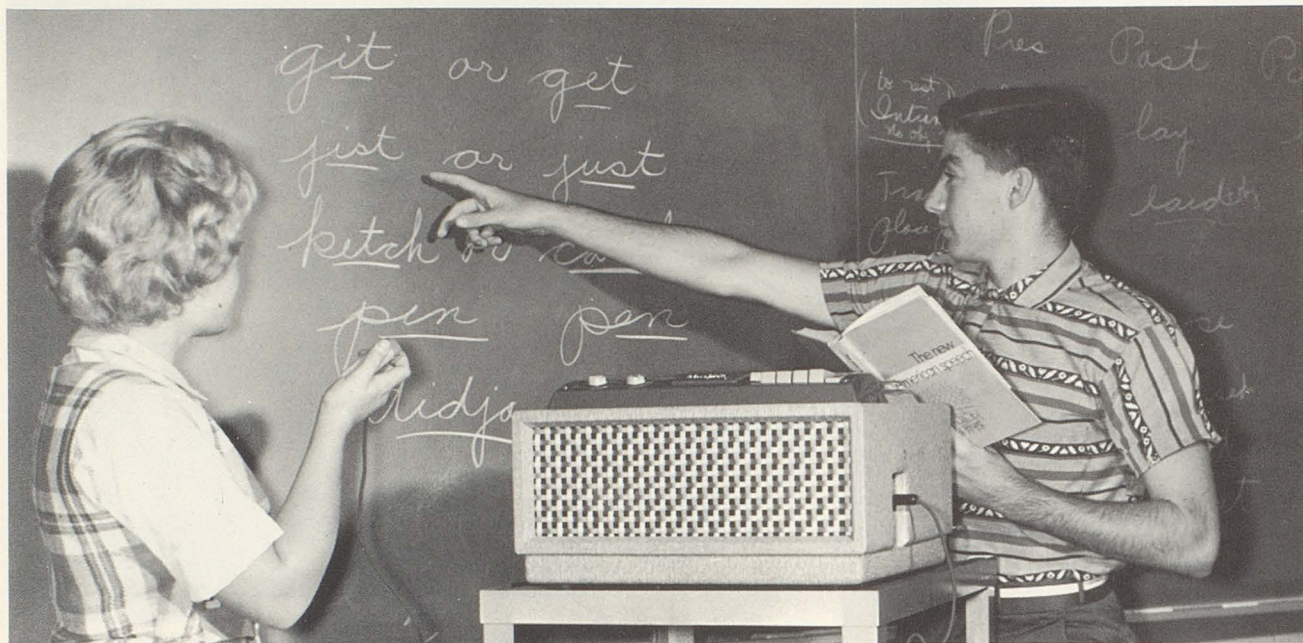

Measuring accurately is an essential part of any experiment. Peggy Smith checks carefully to be sure she is adding the proper amount of  $\text{H}_2\text{SO}_4$ .

Bob Grosskreutz explains the difference in the electron configuration of two different atoms. His demonstration won a first place in the chemistry division of the 1962 Science Fair.

Language Arts courses introduce teens to

In addition to writing and giving various types of speeches, speech students also study enunciation. Here Dave Lynch helps Kenci Yager as she practices words which are often mispronounced. By using the tape recorder, students have an opportunity to analyze their own speech habits.

Learning to speak and write correctly is the main objective of the P.H.S. language departments. Not only do students learn about English, but they also have the opportunity to enroll in Latin, Spanish, or French.

The Language Arts program includes speech, journalism, composition, and literature. Speech, the basic element for conveying thoughts and ideas, is important because students learn to express themselves in conversation. After learning to express their thoughts orally, students learn in composition classes to put them down on paper. Along with learning to express their thoughts, students learn in literature to interpret the thoughts of others.

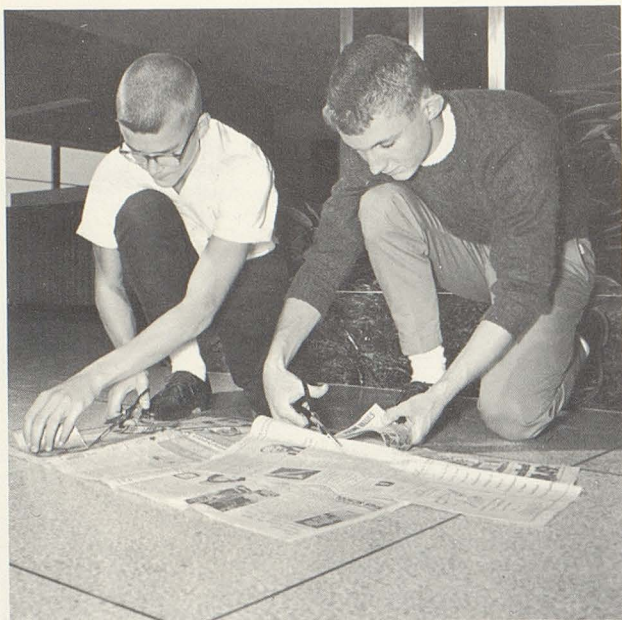

Susan Oliphant finds that the hardest part of writing her term paper for composition is organizing her materials and information.

the ideas, customs and languages of others

Ruth Ann McKibben, Vicki Morgan, and Becky Littell model costumes representing the three foreign languages offered to P. H. S. students -- Spanish, Latin, and French.

Teens travel from Dark Age to New Frontier

Larry Clunie and Ron Bolen are "cutting up" for an assignment in history where students study current events as well as past happenings.

Today, when we have such close contact with other people and other nations, we need to increase our understanding. We have seen the difficulties which arise from misunderstandings.

Through the social studies department at P.H.S., students can acquire much knowledge about the behavior of others. Two new courses, Sociology and American Problems, have been added to the curriculum to foster better world relations.

In some classes, students learn why people act as they do. In others, they study the past and relate it to the present. The study of our own government and nation goes a long way in helping us recognize our own problems and shortcomings. In every respect, social studies classes create understanding.

Girls' Staters Nancy Graham, Millie Hodson, and Judy Ginn listen as Steve Graham relates his experiences at Boys' State to a joint meeting of the

through their classes and their homework

Since many of P. H. S. 's courses require outside research, students like Martha Praay and Barbara Bell make frequent use of the Public Library.

Above Joan Alfred adds her stack of homework to Walt Wiseman's. Like most students, they find they must complete their studies outside of classes.

Another source of information is the school library which many students, including Toni Armantrout, find helpful.

Courses providing training and experience

Office Machines offers commercial students an opportunity to learn by doing. Above Susie Caldwell practices using the Mimeograph.

The training gained in the classes offered by the commercial department is invaluable whether a student goes on to college or attains employment immediately after graduation.

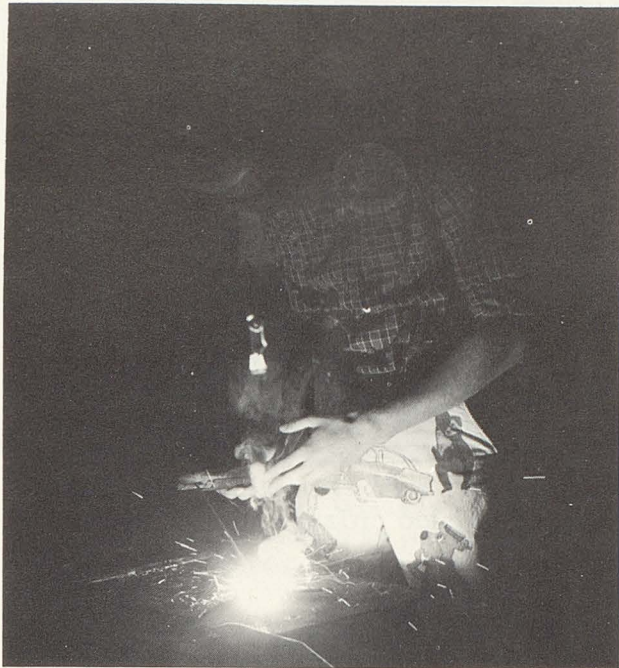

Dexterity of hand and quickness of mind gained in typing and shorthand are of great value in any pursuit. The deliberate analytical approach acquired in bookkeeping will ease the complexity of future life. The mechanics of general business, business arithmetic, and office machines fits the student for finding his place in the business community.

Business courses perpetuate the free enterprise system for which our country is known.

Although typing classes are full, Mr. Pike has time to give students individual help. Both commercial and college-bound students find typing a helpful asset.

prepare vocational majors for future jobs

Students learn skills, methods, and safety in metal shop. Welding is only one of the many fields these students explore.

Whether cooking a light dessert or a full meal, Marilyn Cokain and Miriam Domroese have learned that there are always dishes to wash.

Another department which helps both career and college-bound students is P.H.S.'s Vocational Department.

Metal shop and drafting offer valuable training to boys interested in mechanics, designing, and engineering. Students in these classes spend much time actually working with the tools and machines they study.

To girls, the Home Economics Department offers training in cooking, sewing, home nursing, and child care, which provide a basis for establishing a home, the center of our American life.

These vocational courses furnish skills and training which are useful throughout our lives.

Home Economics girls are free to choose the type of clothing they wish to make. Above Jan Calbert works on a summer outfit.

The intricate parts of the human ear are no longer a puzzle to Martha Rhody after studying them in Miss Snider's health class.

Along with major subjects the P.H.S. curriculum offers a few electives. Although these require preparation just as other courses do, most students agree that they provide fun and entertainment as well as useful information.

In what required course can a student paint pictures, play the drums, sing at the top of his lungs, drive a car, or have an informal discussion of personal hygiene? Yet these things take place in the elective subjects of art, band, chorus, driver education, and health and safety.

Besides teaching students valuable knowledge, the electives can provide future artists, musicians and singers, competent, well-trained drivers, and safety minded citizens of tomorrow.

Electives develop training, talents, and

After six-weeks of studying the rules of the road and the operations of the automobile, students like Sue Vickers are ready for the twelve weeks of training "behind the wheel."

Sara Thweatt and Don Skirvin look through the files of musical arrangements for possible numbers for the chorus to rehearse.

Art student, Mary Beth Johnson, finds sketching outdoor scenes one of the most enjoyable assignments that the art class has.

techniques helpful both today and tomorrow

In addition to practicing and performing, band students have to keep their instruments in good condition. Above Rod Darrah and Bob Fox struggle with their tubas in an attempt to clean them.

Student Council campaigns for school spirit

Members of Student Council are (FRONT ROW): J. Piper, P. Smith, C. LaRoche, C. Rosenberger, M. Wucher, V. Abell, S. Mills, J. Ewbank, S. Castleman, D. Chitwood, N. Hardin, B. Poillion, J. Newman, Mrs. Haines, sponsor. (BACK ROW): P. Wubbolding, F. Wilson, P. Hardin, M. McCollum, D. Corrie, S. Housefield, A. Kellum, M. Dunigan, B. Mills, D. Skirvin, J. Johnson, A. Whitmire, D. Eggers.

Selling popcorn may be a profitable business, but it's also a messy one. Here Phil Wubbolding, Paul Hardin, and Jerry Newman sweep the gym after a game.

"Popcorn! Popcorn! Get your fresh, hot, buttered, popcorn," is the cry of the energetic Student Council members as they sell popcorn at the basketball games.

The Council's big project this year was to increase school spirit. Sponsoring school color days and fan buses helped accomplish this project.

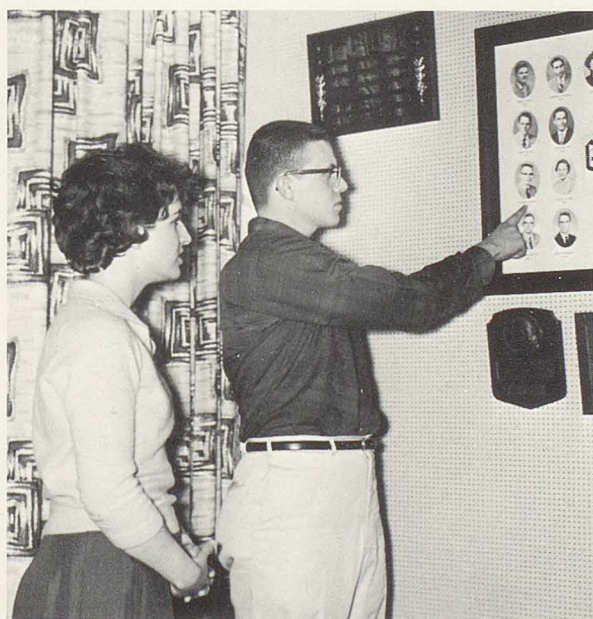

Improving faculty-student relations is an important aspect of the Student Council. It also has the responsibility of providing the students with an adequate safety program. Among its other activities, the organization decorates the school at Christmas, sponsors Homecoming and provides convocations.

Honor Society stresses scholastic success

Members of Honor Society are (FRONT ROW): Mrs. Masten, sponsor, S. Castleman, C. Schultz, J. Ginn, D. Hobbs, J. Vickers, J. Scholl, C. Hensley, S. Lindstrom, N. Graham, J. Schnakenberg, K. Arnold, M. Hodson, C. Reger, J. Alfred, C. Muncy. (ROW TWO): B. Colescott, J. Piper, N. Swindler, S.

Lowery, E. Bell, W. Wiseman, L. Bellville, L. Clunie, B. Mills, J. Ruel, S. Brown, B. Grosskreutz, M. Gilbert, J. Johnson, A. Whitmire, J. Hamblen. (BACK ROW): Mr. Livingston, sponsor, D. Abplanalp, A. Kellum, M. Dunigan.

Julia Schnakenberg and John Ruel discuss the Honor Society's Girard Award for the highest average in four years of mathematics.

Based on the principles of scholarship, character, leadership, and service, Honor Society recognizes the academically outstanding students.

To encourage participation in mathematics, Honor Society each year presents the Girard Award to the student with the highest average for four years of math.

Each spring the club sponsors a Sample Fair in which participating manufacturers contribute samples of their products.

President Larry Bellville heads the organization, assisted by vice-president, John Ruel; secretary, Joan Piper; treasurer, Julia Schankenberg; and historian, Janet Scholl. Honor Society is sponsored by Mrs. Masten and Mr. Livingston.

Senior F.H.A. offers a tempting recipe

Members of F.H.A. are (FRONT ROW): Mrs. Truax, sponsor, C. Rosenberger, M. Screes, P. Fields, B. Littell, V. Morgan, J. Williams, B. Colescott, J. Good, T. Armantrout, J. Hamblen, J. Newton, J. ## for becoming a successful honor chapter

Take 180 active members, add eleven capable officers, spice with two helpful sponsors, simmer slowly for one year, stirring occasionally with worthwhile projects, garnish with lots of school spirit, and the finished product will equal one successful Future Homemakers of America chapter.

Plainfield's F.H.A. seems to be a good example of just how successful the finished product can be. During the year, it sponsors such events as Workday, Daddy Date Night, and one formal dance. Homemade candy furnished by members is sold at noon, and the proceeds are used to help a needy child. These activities and many others help the F.H.A. obtain the national goals of the organization which enable the local chapter to become an honor chapter.

Members of F.H.A. are (FRONT ROW): K. Dowden, J. Knotts, G. Lamberth, J. Trotter, P. Harrington, N. Sering, B. Bell, J. Hardin, A. Happel, C. Harley. (ROW TWO): S. Hale, K. Goodrid, C. Carroll, L. Dwinell, B. Hessler, M. Praay, B. Wilkerson, J. Simmonds, J. Meyers, A. Castetter, T. Price, P. Smith, M. Rhody, M. Sabo, V. Andis, N. Lee. (ROW THREE): D. Skelton, S. Milhon, C.

Glover, C. Ray, C. Pittman, L. Bowman, L. Everidge, A. Chapman, C. Jackson, P. Campbell, J. Calbert, D. Beers, M. Macy, B. Albertson, P. Lantz, S. Winsted, M. Summerlot. (BACK ROW): D. Allen, S. Members of the publications staff are (FRONT ROW): Mrs. Niles, sponsor, B. Colescott, J. Piper, K. Williams, S. Castleman, M. Cochran, N. Graham, S. Lindstrom, J. Scholl, J. Ginn, J. Hadley, C.

Publications advisor, editors, and staff

Members of Quill and Scroll are (FRONT ROW): M. Wucher, K. Williams, B. Colescott, N. Graham, J. Ginn, C. Reger, M. Hodson, Mrs. Niles, sponsor.

"We've got a deadline" is a familiar cry of the publications staff consisting of Quill and Scroll members, journalism students, and boy sports-writers. The publications staff is responsible for the Quaker Shaker, the monthly school newspaper, and the yearbook, Silhouettes.

Quill and Scroll, an honorary organization for journalism students, was formed at P.H.S. in 1960. To be a member, a student must have forty inches of original writing published. The organization sponsors a sock-hop in the spring to distribute the yearbooks, and this year it was responsible for revising the Quaker Handbook.

With a sigh of relief, Sue Lowery, assistant editor, and Judy Ginn, editor-in-chief, mail their last deadline for the 1963 Silhouettes.

Sunshine Society stresses service to all

Members of Sunshine Society are (FRONT ROW): N. Hardin, S. Hutchens, K. Williams, S. Trent, C. Rosenberger, C. Fulkerson, J. Alfred, Mrs. Zuber, sponsor. (ROW TWO): Miss Durr, sponsor, S. Gerds, C. through its plans, programs, and projects

Above Janice Hallatt talks with Mr. Schooler, the proprietor of the Plainfield Flower Shop, about the corsages for the organization's spring tea honoring the members' Ideal Ladies.

Patricia Fields and Sue Castleman are preparing a food box for the club to give to some family in the community for Thanksgiving.

Keeping in mind the theme, "To help others," the 102 members of Sunshine Society undertook many projects this year. Giving food to needy families at Thanksgiving and gathering clothes to donate to the Clothe-A-Child program were just two of the club's activities.

In cooperation with F.H.A. Sunshine sponsors the Snowflake Fantasy Ball during the Christmas holidays. The organization also gives a tea in May honoring the members' Ideal Ladies and mothers.

Officers serving the organization are Joyce Hadley, President; Joan Alfred, vice-president; Carole Fulker-son, secretary; Carey Rosenberger, corresponding secretary; Connie Neal, treasurer; and Miss Durr and Mrs. Zuber, sponsors.

Speech Club offers talented P.H.S. teens

Members of Speech Club are (FRONT ROW): M. Screes, B. Littell, J. Newton, C. Harley, A. Happel, S. Harris, C. Carroll, J. Alfred, D. Chitwood, K. Yager, J. Piper, J. Hamblen, C. ## a taste of Broadway, a touch of Hollywood

Actors and actresses are not forgotten in the clubs at P.H.S. Sponsored by Mrs. Niles, Speech Club provides an outlet for Broadway-inspired students.

The organization presents two three-act plays for public viewing, and in December it sponsors a Christmas party for its members who contribute toys to the "Toys for Tots" fund. The club also attends two plays at Indiana University and Purdue.

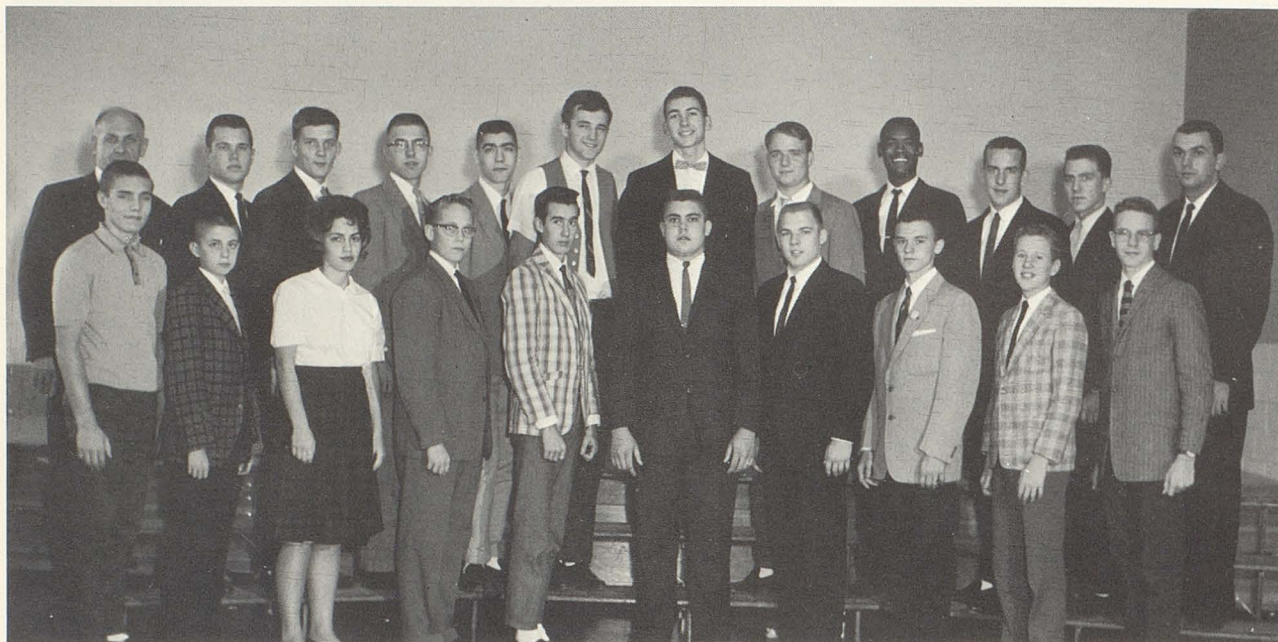

After accumulating eighteen points, outstanding members are recognized by becoming members of Thespians, a national honorary dramatic organization.

Carolyn Schultz, Becky Littell, Kathy Arnold, and Cheryl Hylton all become paper hangers for the sake of a play set.

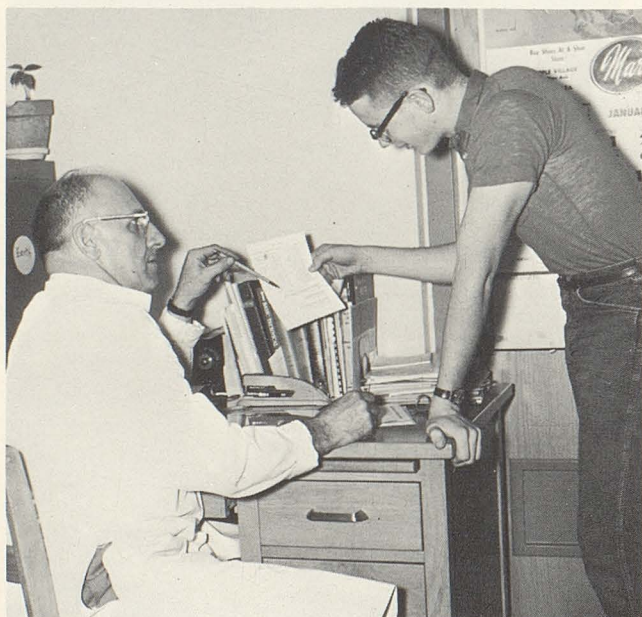

A first play is such a thrill that novices Algene Happel, Mike Davis, and Richard Niles can't resist a peek at the audience.

Science and Service—the shared interests

Members of Science Club are (FRONT ROW): T. Vogel, B. Smock, J. Yant, F. Cordes, D. Hamil, M. Davidson, J. Ewbank, C. Anderson, B. Roberts, J. Arnold. (BACK ROW): Mr. Grosskreutz, sponsor,

B. Grosskreutz, T. Alexander, J. Gannon, R. Coup-land, S. Housefield, A. Kellum, B. Jones, C. Russell, F. Parker, J. Hodshire, Mr. Rogers, sponsor.

Mr. Grosskreutz offers Jim Arnold a suggestion concerning the content of one of the monthly newsletters Science Club published.

To share ideas and to learn about the scientific fields open to today's students are the goals of Science Club. The group works toward achieving these goals in several ways. They take field trips during the year to places of scientific interest. The big project, however, is sponsoring the annual Science Fair. Students prepare exhibits and demonstrations in biological and physical science and place them on public display.

This year the organization was responsible for presenting a convocation on science to the junior high and grade schools. The club also began publishing a monthly science newsletter.

Bob Grosskreutz, Allan Kellum, and Bob Jones are the officers of Science Club, which is sponsored by Mr. Grosskreutz and Mr. Rogers.

of the Science Club and the Future Nurses

While we watch with interest the performances of Doctors' Casey and Kildare on television, F.N.A. members are busily working at our own hospital.

Future Nurses Association, now in its third year of existence, is a club for girls interested in the field of nursing. As practical on-the-job training, the would-be nurses do their part to brighten the hospital world by volunteering their services to Hendricks County Hospital. Besides doing volunteer work, the club hopes to obtain a national charter this year.

Aided by officers Mary Screes, vice-president; Carol Hensley, secretary; Brenda Vaughn, treasurer; and Mrs. Carter, school nurse and sponsor, president Kathy Arnold presides over F.N.A.

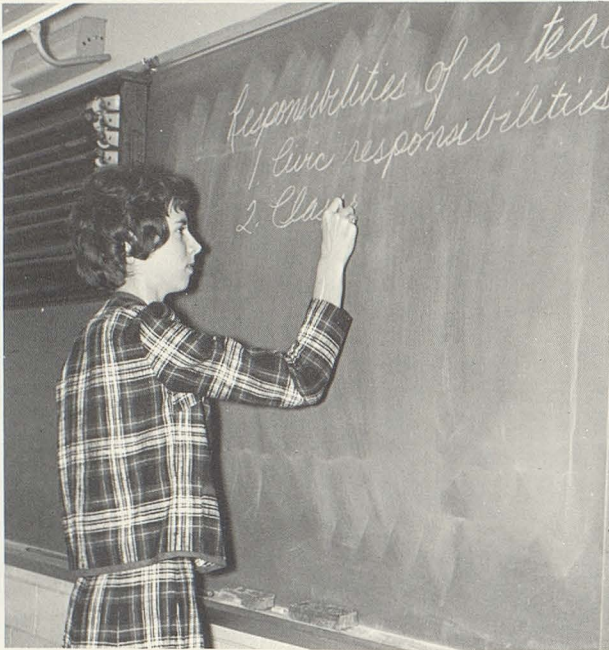

Future Nurses like Brenda Vaughn and Pat Ellington receive on-the-job training as volunteers at the new county hospital.

Future Teachers and Library Club offer

Jean Johnson, candidate for president of the State Future Teachers Association, lists the responsibilities of today's teachers for a local meeting.

"For tomorrow's assignment, read the next chapter" is a phrase often heard as students practice for careers in teaching.

For those students who are interested in teaching, the Future Teachers Association is a helpful organization. By encouraging students to attend various Indiana F.T.A. conventions throughout the state and by sponsoring an annual field trip to the I.S.T.A. building in Indianapolis, F.T.A. gives its members an opportunity to see further into teaching. However, the real insights come when senior members participate in classroom teaching through the exploratory teaching program. Although mainly concerned with helping members prepare for teaching, F.T.A. initiated a new project this year to help others by sending money to an orphanage.

Members of F. T. A. are (FRONT ROW): V. Morgan, J. Watts, P. Smith, M. Sabo, M. Starbuck, D. Colescott, M. Hodson, J. Ginn, C. Reger, S. Castleman, K. Williams, M. Reeder, K. Dowden, T. Bender, J. Hamblen, Mrs. Masten, sponsor.

interested students first-hand experience

Albertson, A. Johnson, C. Neal, S. Rinehart, M. Domroese, S. Harris.

The Library Club gives its members a broader knowledge of the literary world. These members, serving as student librarians, provide a service to students of P.H.S. They see that all books are kept in order and assist in locating needed materials.

Some of the members represented Plainfield as ushers at the State Student Librarians Conference at Ball State this year. In addition, the year was highlighted with an initiation party for new members and a Christmas party during the holidays.

The officers are Asenitha Johnson, president; Sherry Rinehart, vice-president; Barbara Decker, secretary; Donnia Austin, treasurer; Carol Keefer, reporter; and Mrs. Spear, sponsor.

Connie Neal is busy making name cards for the State Student Librarians Conference where she and other P.H.S. librarians ushered.

Latin lives for twentieth century Romans

Members of J. C. L. are (FRONT ROW): N. Graham, K. Arnold, S. Myers, D. Danner, D. Meeks, B. Wilkerson, D. Kratzer, P. Campbell, F. Coffin. (ROW TWO): S. Vickers, C. Ray, C. Pittman, B. Grosskreutz, M. Kidwell, D. Eggers, S. Mills, P. Wubbolding, L. Dohogne, G. Stone, J. Scholl, J. Schnakenberg, S. Carr. (BACK ROW): C. Marshall, A. Whitmire, T. Ewbanks, J. Johnson, J. Jerome, M. McCrary, B. Mills, M. McCollum, D. Skirvin, N. Swindler, M. Orr, M. Davis, C. Neal.

Carlile, L. McMahan, A. Klay, L. Alexander, M. Macy, F. Cordes, A. Castetter, D. Smock, M. Shoemaker, D. Harmon, T. Price, B. Bell, D. McCart.

The Junior Classical League offers students an opportunity to further their study of Latin and the Roman culture through a variety of films, guest speakers, and special parties like the Roman banquet where the members themselves practice the old Roman customs. In addition to local activities, the club also participates in the State J. C. L. Convention at Indiana University.

J. C. L. is headed this year by Nancy Graham with assistance from Janet Scholl, vice-president; Nora Swindler, treasurer; Judy Jerome, secretary; and Miss Newlin, sponsor.

Reorganized chorus shows talent and training

Members of the chorus are (FRONT ROW): C. Muncy, K. Yager, K. Dowden, A. Happel, C. Fulkerson, P. Benner, S. Shadwick, K. Young, B. Decker, R. McKibben, T. Armantrout, B. Littell, S. Chappell, P. Fields. (ROW TWO): C. Harley, M. Domroese, B. Albertson, S. Jarvis, B. Haak, M. Marshall, L. Swarn, J. Richardson, M. Blanton, M. Pope, M. Starbuck, E. Johnson, S. Harris, C. Partlow, B. Bell, S. Barr. (ROW THREE): K. Jones, J. Atkinson, S. Thweatt, S. Cooper, M. Cokain, A. Johnson, S. Mills, J. Johnson, J. Weber, J. Hallatt, S. Veith, N. Nelson, M. Drews, M. Wucher, W. Swarn, P. Watson, S. Putman, S. Gerds. (BACK ROW): L. Ping, J. O'Brien, J. Hodshire, D. Corrie, C. Russell, L. Landrum, D. Abplanalp, S. Housefield, R. Strickland, B. Mills, A. Page, D. Skirvin, D. Bostrom, T. Vogel, S. Cole.

Pat Fields accompanies Mary Ann Drews as she practices one of her contest solos.

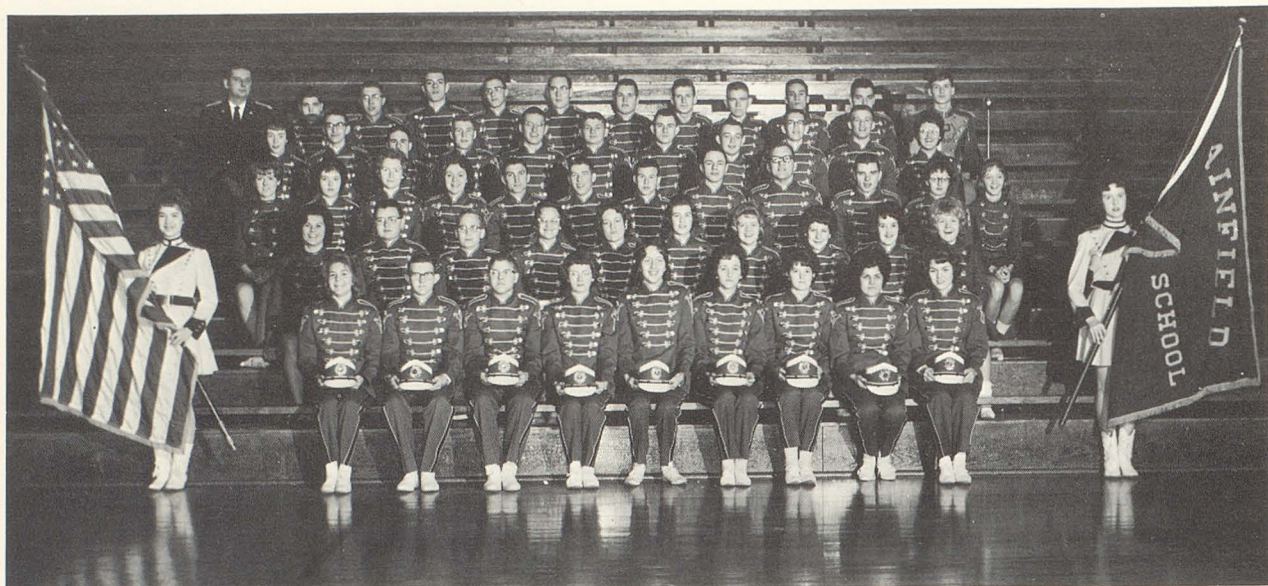

From last year's sixteen to this year's sixty members, the reorganized and revitalized chorus has a short but concentrated weekly rehearsal under Mr. Craven's direction.

Marked by enthusiastic participation, the chorus booked various engagements throughout the year. "We wish you a Merry Christmas" was their December motto when they caroled for the school convocation and the public.

A highlight on the chorus schedule was their field trip to Purdue. They sat in on a Purdue Glee Club rehearsal and toured the campus.

Competition climaxed the year when members participated in the district contest at DePauw University.

P.H.S. band members stand a little taller,

Members of the Band are (FRONT ROW): S. Winsted, E. Keller, J. Newlin, J. Hylton, L. Rapert, N. Swindler, J. Arden, S. Vickers, J. Meyers, A. Cas-tetter, G. Bayliff. (ROW TWO): K. Williams, J. Stanley, F. Cordes, J. Scholl, J. Runyan, N. Gra-ham, B. Wilkerson, B. Poillion, M. Praay, P. Smith. (ROW THREE): M. Hodson, M. Reeder, N. Proctor, P. Linden, F. Wilson, R. Zaring, L. Paris, M. Gil-

"One two three four, one two three four." Sour notes and perfect scales are only a few sounds which are heard in the Plainfield High School Band Room.

Composed of sixty-eight members directed by Mr. Littlejohn, the high school band performs at many functions. This year the band played at a series of Christmas concerts in co-operation with the chorus. Led by drum major Calvin Yoke, it also adds color, pep, and music to home football and basket-ball games. In addition, the group at-tends band days at some of the colleges in Indiana, competes in band contests, and sends solo and ensemble numbers to music contests.

The highlight of this year's pro-gram, however, was the arrival of the long-awaited new uniforms. The Band Parents Association has been working for several years on various fund-raising campaigns in order to purchase the new uniforms, and this year they reached their goal as the royal blue suits arrived in time for the last three pep band performances.

strut a little higher to show off new uniforms

Tuba transportation presented a problem when the band traveled between the football field at the high school and the band room at the junior high. However, Mr. Littlejohn came up with this ingenious solution.

First place contest winners Larry Landrum, Steve Euler, and Richard Niles make good use of one of the practice rooms as they rehearse a number.

Cross-Country is a relatively new sport at P.H.S. It was started to give some of those boys who do not participate in football or basketball a chance to participate in a sport. It also serves to keep the basketball players who do not play football in good physical condition.

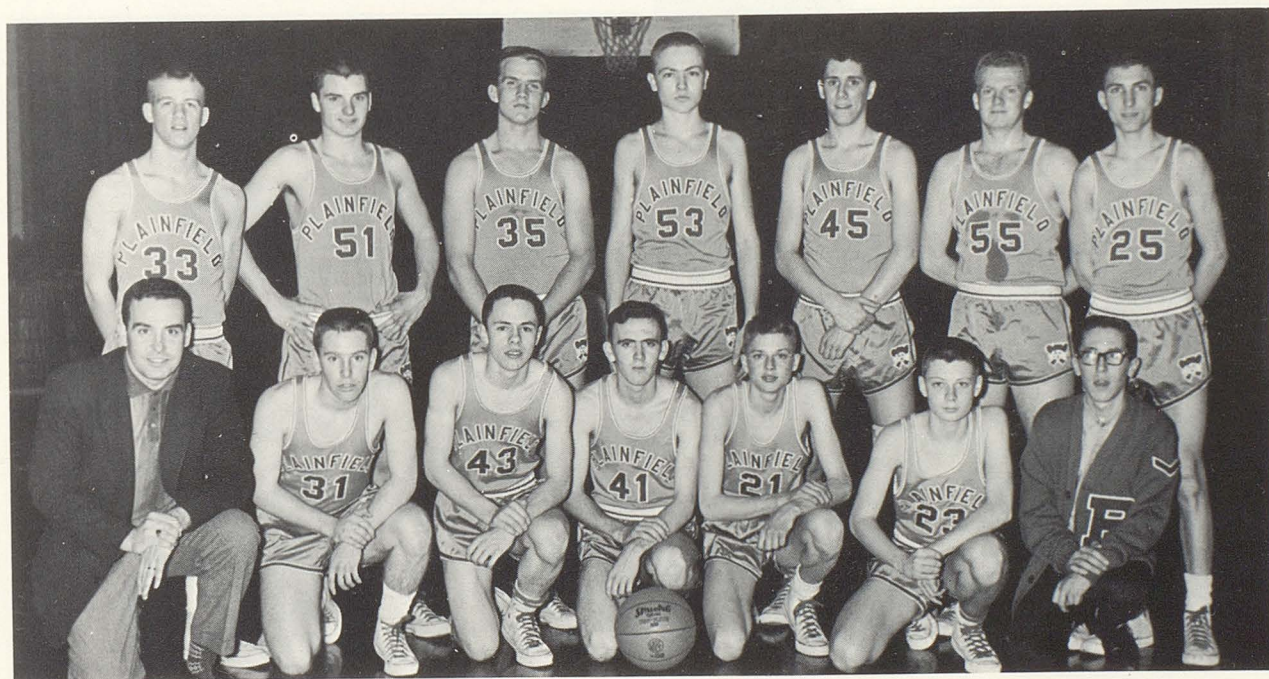

Cross-Country is a time race over a two mile course. Any number of schools may participate in a meet. The places that the ten members of each team receive are added together to give that team its total score, and the lowest score wins.

Members of the Varsity Basketball Team are (FRONT ROW): J. Frederick, manager; W. Wiseman, D. Daubenspeck, B. Sims, M. Daubenspeck.

Junior forward, Chuck Russell, grabs another rebound for the Quakers. Mike Harlan and Roger Long stand by to assist. In this game, the spirited Quakers handed the Danville Warriors an 82-76 loss.

Cheerleaders and Pep Club combine to add

The pert and snappy varsity cheerleaders are Sandi Gerdts, Donna Hobbs, Carole Fulkerson, and Becky Colescott. These girls not only back the varsity teams 100%, but they also play a leading role in organizing the cheerblock and in creating school spirit.

Marsha Starbuck, Sharon Jarvis, Joanna Hardin, and Debbie Allen make up the peppy, talented reserve cheerleading squad. In addition to leading the cheerblock during B-team games, these girls assist the varsity cheerleaders in numerous ways.

noise, color, and spirit to P.H.S. sports

"We've got spirit! We've got spirit, everybody!"
From November 17 until February 15, Plainfield's gym rings with the cries of the Pep Club as they back the Quakers "all the way."

Ron Shumaker, practicing for an important seasonal track meet, gets set to throw the shot.

Practicing their all-important hand-off are senior half mile men, Ed Bell and Dave Daubenspeck. The

When the temperature dropped low enough to freeze the ponds this winter, the ice skates came out. Here

Mary Ann Wucher and Carey Rosenberger join the fun and also earn points for G.A.A.

prove "it's a woman's world"—even in sports

Every Wednesday after school, the G.A.A. girls head for the bowling alley where they show their skill as bowlers. Above, Linda Watson concentrates on picking up a spare.

The Girls Athletic Association keeps any interested girl physically fit while providing her with wholesome group activity. Composed of sixty-five girls, G.A.A. encourages good sportsmanship and friendly relations between girls of all three classes at P.H.S.

The girls gain skill and points while participating in weekly sports such as basketball, deck tennis, volley ball, line soccer, baseball, and bowling. Girls receive a letter for earning 250 points, a state plaque for 350 points, and a white letter sweater for 500 points.

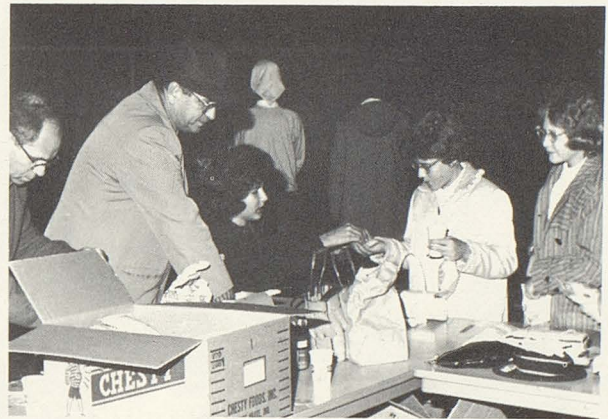

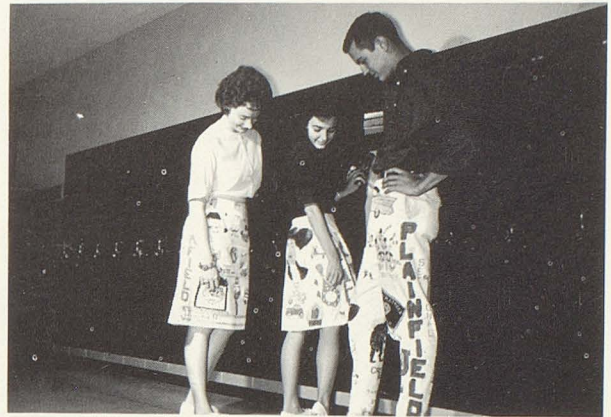

Leading the organization this year are Barbara Haak, president; Sharon Jarvis, vice-president; Martha Rhody, secretary; Sandi Gerds, treasurer; and Miss Snider, sponsor.

Sharon Spencer seems intent as she gets set for her second game.

prints for the new classroom addition to P.H.S., scheduled for completion in the fall of 1963.

organizes and plans for today and tomorrow

Due to the extensive building program planned for the Plainfield school system, the members of the school board are very busy.

Above Willard Jordon, R. G. Calbert, Frank Ross, Tom Hobbs, Wilbur Maxwell, and Frank Cook discuss future plans.

Although the administration is responsible for keeping P.H.S. running smoothly, Mrs. Copeland, the school secretary, is often the one who puts "theory into practice."

The administration of Plainfield High School includes the school board, Mr. Frank Ross, superintendent; Mr. Billy Abel, principal; and Mr. Quentin Shore, vice-principal. To these men falls the difficult task of keeping our community's schools functioning smoothly.

This year the procedure for selecting the members of the school board was changed. Previously, four of the five members were appointed. However, from now on, all of the members will be elected by direct vote.

Change is characteristic of much of our school system. Since our community is growing, the school administration is busy trying to meet the increasing need for more schools, as well as trying to solve already existing problems.

The class of '64 finds their junior year

vice-president; and Mary Screes, treasurer, discuss ring sizes with the salesman as Mr. Livingston, the sponsor, looks on.

Upperclassmen at last! And if the class of 1964 had to work hard to get that long-awaited title, they had to work twice as hard to keep it, for the junior year at P.H.S. is certainly a busy one.

Before school even starts, the juniors are busy selling concessions at football games. Then as soon as they are settled in school, the annual magazine subscription drive gets into full swing, closely followed by Homecoming preparations.

Soon, however, the activities let up a little and leave "only" studies, sports, clubs, and outside interests to occupy a junior's time. As spring approaches the class is once again in a buzz of activity as it plans the Junior-Senior Reception.

Although the junior year is a busy one, it is also a happy one, and the class of 1964 looks back on it with fond memories as it steps up into its senior year.

Sophs enter new life as they enter P.H.S.

One of the projects of the sophomore class is sponsoring a sockhop. Above Mrs. Haines, sponsor, helps the officers, Carol Price, treasurer; Sylvia Mills, secretary; Chuck LaRoche, vice-president; and Tom Ewbank, president, count the money which will go toward next year's Reception.

High School at last! And to the sophomores it seems impossible that their dream of belonging to that select institution is finally coming true.

As school opened in September, the class of 1965 entered the long hall of P.H.S. a little hesitantly. What would high school bring? They soon discovered that Plainfield High School brings work and fun and new friends.

It took the sophomores only a few days to settle down to the work, and in a few weeks, they were entering into organizations and activities like "old pros." The class lost no time at all in walking away with top honors in the Homecoming float contest.

As the year went by, P.H.S. forgot that the sophomores were new at all, and they became a part of the P.H.S. tradition. Now that spring is here, the sophomores can hardly believe that the year is over and that they are now upperclassmen and beginning their busy junior year.
