Work, Fun, and Studies Engulf

Together the students act as a whole. Many convocations provided for interesting happenings.

WITH THE CHALLENGES of the future confronting us at every turn, we young people yearn to accept these opportunities and shift forward in life. Our surroundings add peace and comfort and set these challenges at our finger tips.

Our dedicated teachers and administration . . . the cherished friendship . . . that certain smile . . . the loyalty of our classmates . . . our spirited Quaker pride . . . the perpetual need for the world around us . . . happy faces . . . understanding parents . . . and unforgettable moments.

Each vital motive creates a life of innumerable challenge and success for us, the PHS PEOPLE.

Teachers meet in their lounge to discuss the classroom behavior and various daily actions.

the Lives of All PHS People

During study periods, girls voluntarily work in the office and the guidance department.

A change of pace--Student Council members gave the announcements each day.

Brisk, peppy girls yell loud and long for their fighting Quaker teams.

PHS'ers Enjoy Themselves

With all the toils and wear and tear of school far behind, students relax before TV with telephone, food, and occasionally a Literature or math book to add a little excitement.

The "Chef" serves as a meeting lodge for all the PHSers. A daily trip or two to the chef is a natural routine for most pupils.

Mornings, Afternoons, and Evenings

B-team cheerleaders and a letterman take a break during the homecoming soc-hop. Dances sufficed for leisure after basketball and football games.

Noon time found many seniors scanning college pamphlets for needed information concerning educational benefits.

Students Find Many Ways to End the

... well, Jim Linton shows his concern by helping her with her books. PHSers believe that a kind deed is a worthwhile deed.

As homework piles up we seem to acquire many study assignments. Sue Ray seems to have a big schedule ahead. Then ...

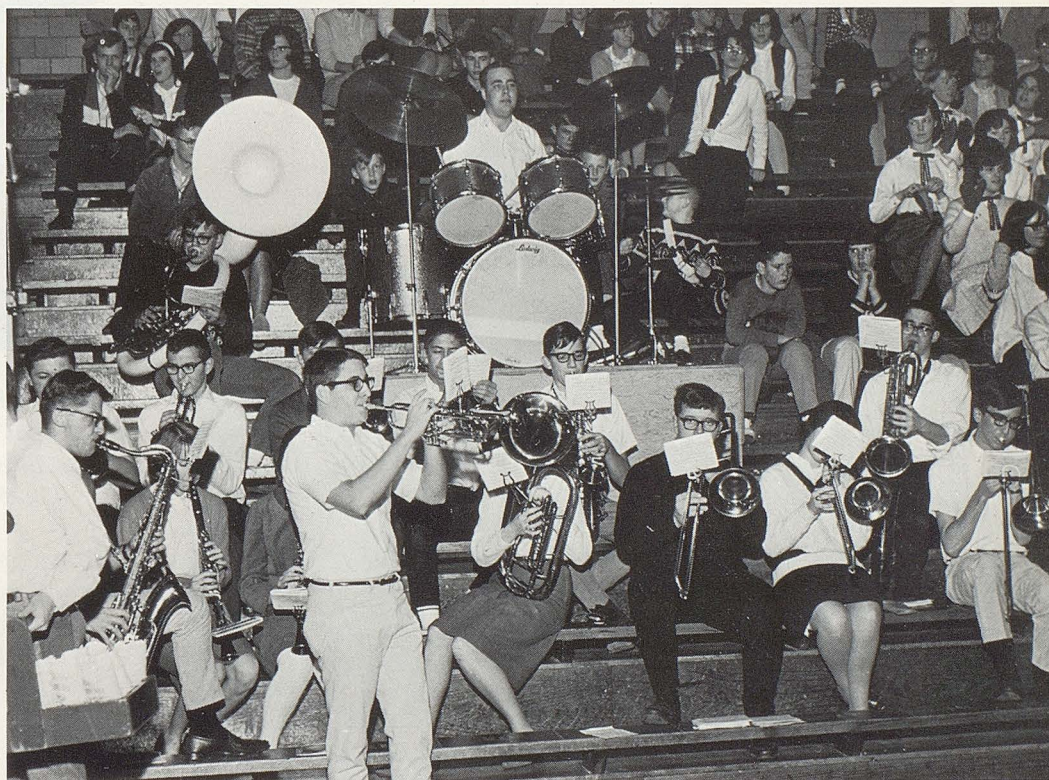

Lunchtime provides for a time of leisure for gossiping, eating and a short rest for students and faculty.

Monotony of Never-Ending Study

The times have changed. Boys are now going shopping for clothes and men jewelry and such. PHSer are no different as they continue onward through progress.

Pep band members provide a little "beat" to the yells of the cheerblock.

Students Decide All Play

Leisure activities find sophomore, Gary Lantz, sidewalking.

Wow! Up and at 'em boy!
PHSers make great surfers.

Whish! Well, we figure a wipe-out is beneficial once in awhile, Gary.

and No Work, Mix Very Well

Spirited PHSers brave the cold spring weather to boost our first track meet to a victory.

THE WIDE WORLD at PHS is filled with a conglomeration of parties, dances, sport activities, slumber parties and those regular trips to the "Chef".

The dreary school day activities are touched up by that special boys knock at the front door, a silver surfers' cross, buzzing the chef, winning Homecoming float, sidewalk surfing, and those "cluttered senior cords". With so much time devoted for school work, we still seem to have time to buy loafers, A-line skirts, paisley shirts, heather sweaters and those wild wild shifts.

May brings spring fever to our bones. The worries and cares of homework are forgotten. Everything seems to begin a frolicking new life for the PHS PEOPLE.

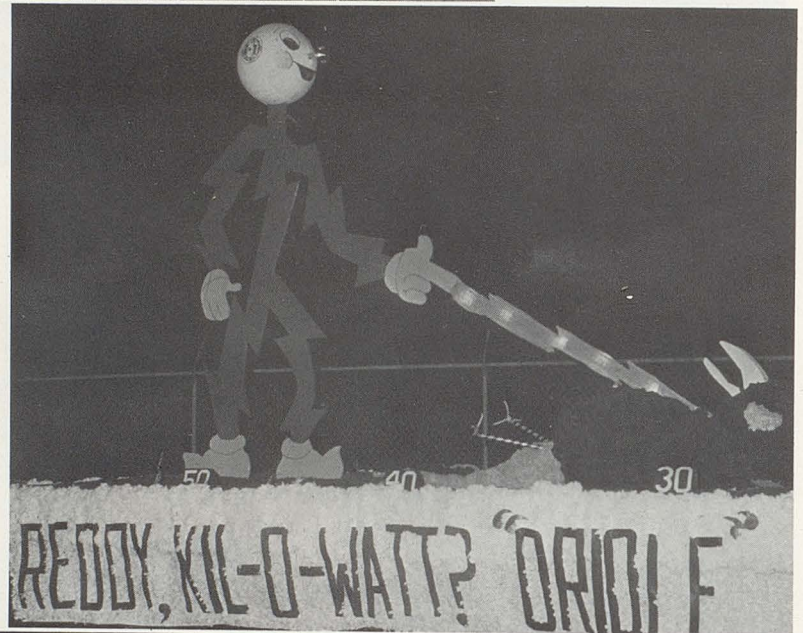

Every Friday depicts the traditional "senior cords". The cords show much artistic talents and also serve as memory makers.

Fun, Floats and Victories Encompass

"Quakers are Train in To Express A Victory." was the winning junior float. It was a very clever idea and well-constructed.

The senior float was "Reddy KIL-O-Watt? ORIOLE", developed very nicely.

The sophomore's float was "De-Feet" 'Em", constructed in a very unique way.

the Quaker's Annual Homecoming

Larry Slaton, Student Council President, seems quite pleased to be amongst the lovely reigning beauties at Homecoming. They are Jill McCart,

A COLORFUL PARADE began the evening of the 15th annual homecoming, displaying a lovely queen and princess hopefuls, unique floats, the rhythmic band, and peppy cheerleaders.

The highlighting event was the traditional crowning of the queen and princesses by the Student Council President during the half-time show. The student body elected the queen, it also selected two princesses, a junior and sophomore. To enhance the night, the mighty Quaker gridmen caged the Avon Orioles with a victory.

Touching off the evening, the Student Council sponsored a soc-hop presenting the Indianapolis Kingsmen. With joyous memories another day ends in the lives of the PHS PEOPLE.

Larry Slaton, Student Council President, graciously congratulates Judy Hamblen as the 1965 Homecoming Queen.

Dinah Dees played the Indian Princess Kate waterfall, in the production of Summer Scenes.

Miss Hero Plunkett, Peg Kellum, knew how to handle John Smith, Jim Friel, but no on his knees.

From the Jumping Jerk to the Minuet

Combos from the various schools are very groovy. Raymond Veith is the leader of the Lexingtons from Plainfield.

Following the ball games crowds gather in the gym to listen to their favorite combos and songs. Most every type of dance imaginable is performed go-go students.

Students Burn Up Much Energy

Dancing seems to be the going action. Soc-hops are always popular among the students.

The Indianapolis Kingsmen entertained the PHSers at the annual Homecoming dance this year.

"Stranger on the Shore" and "Sayonara"

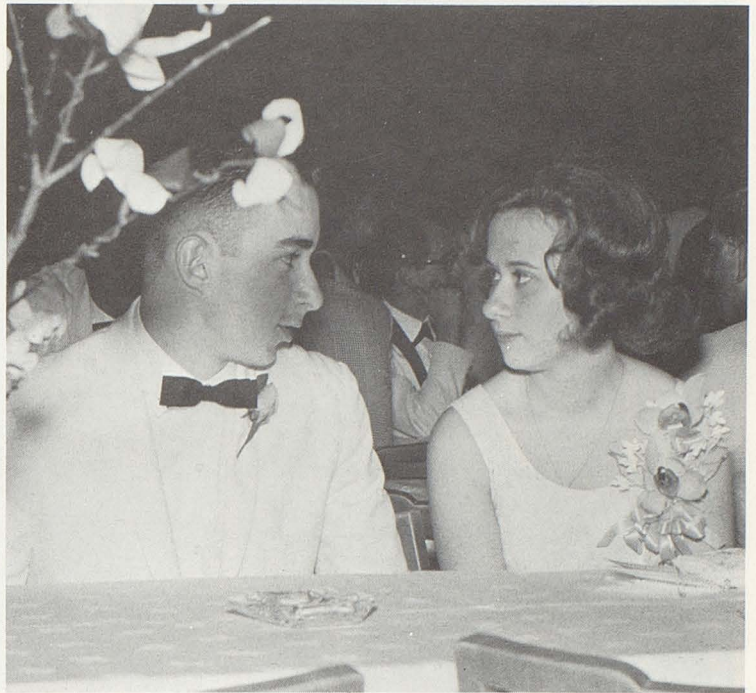

PHSers enjoy a delightful evening at the Junior Prom "Stranger On the Shore". The Four Klefs supplied wonderful music for the occasion.

From the looks of their faces, we can assume Mr. Abel and his wife enjoyed a marvelous evening.

Grace Spring Prom Time

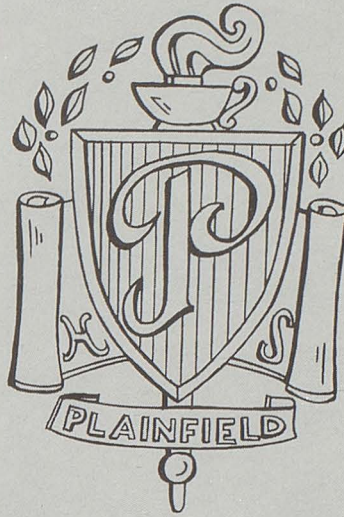

Seniors enjoyed an evening of wonderful music played by the Larry Kirkman Orchestra.

The boys marveled at the fountain which were part of the decor at the senior prom, Sayonara.

Academics

Shakespeare, Term Papers and Grammar

New comp teacher, Mrs. Timian, discusses preparation of research paper with student.

Jim Linton and Linda Vintalora, juniors, illustrate by the drawing the symbolism in the "The Scarlet Letter."

Comprise Assignments of English Pupils

COMMUNICATION IS AN important link in our fast moving world today. This is why our literature, composition, and English classes play an important role in the development of our education.

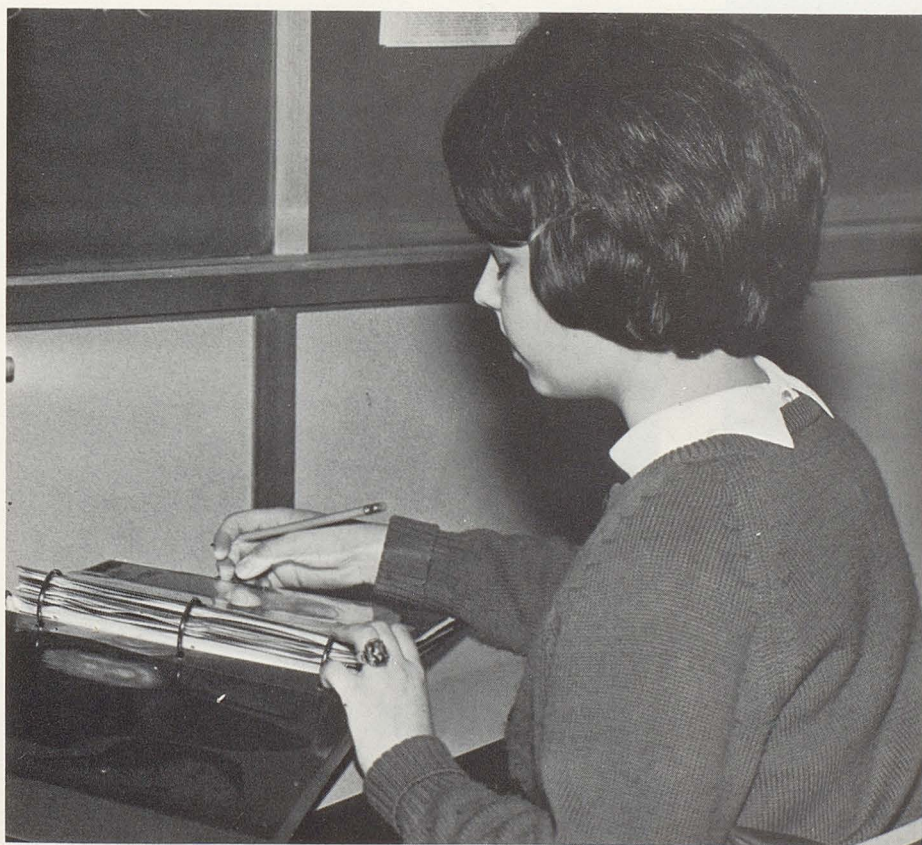

Literature sets a record of yesterday's events and today's news. Students learn of distinct places and persons. Memorizing the mechanics of a research paper, in composition is only the beginning. The student must then present his ideas in a logical manner of expression.

However, learning the proper usage of the English language is a feat in itself. This aim is the desire of all the English students at PHS.

These basic courses taught many years before this and many years hence, help pupils develop their ability to speak, to write and to read. Thus enabling us to keep up with a rapidly changing world.

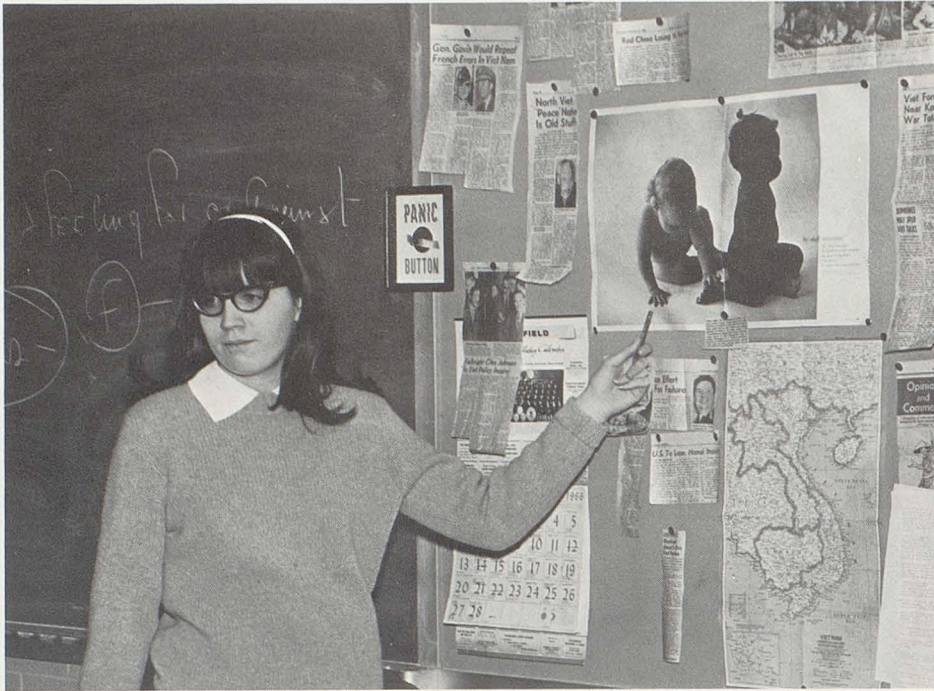

Sophomore English classes hold discussions concerning the content of books which they read.

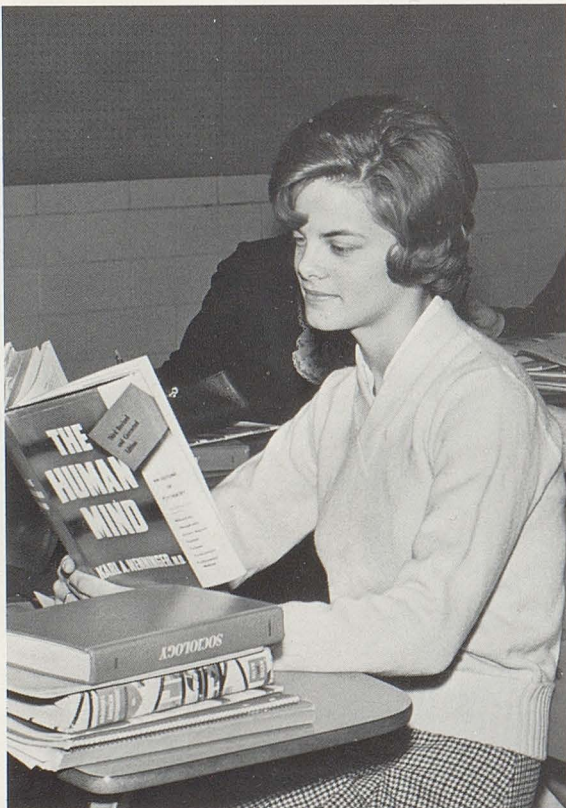

Karen Nickels finds English Lit. very informative. She is now putting the finishing touches on her English notebook.

Pupils Aware of Mankind's Behavior

Students in sociology learn of the habits of life. Madonna Campbell explains the race relationship of the young.

Nancy Maddus, a sociology and psychology student, explores the functions of the wondrous human mind.

STUDENTS CAN GAIN much knowledge about the behaviors of others and help to foster better world relations by understanding people and their actions.

Today it is necessary to increase our understanding of the strange reasons of behavior and to understand the functions of the mind and nervous system. It is also necessary to explore different fields of vital importance in society.

Psychology and sociology cover this understanding of man's behavior and his roles in society. Throughout the year, both classes' itinerary consist of various field trips to places of interest. Much outside reading proves to play a very important part of the daily schedule.

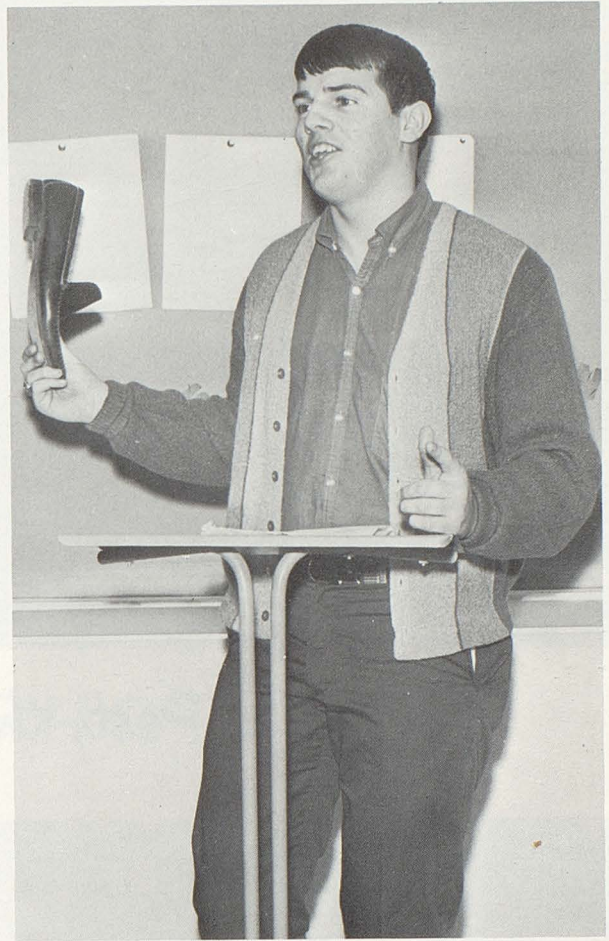

Journalism and Speech Transfer Thoughts

WHETHER IT BE learning to express oneself in the art of conversation in front of an audience, or practicing the art of writing in the school newspaper, our speech and journalism classes learn all there is to be learned in their individual subjects.

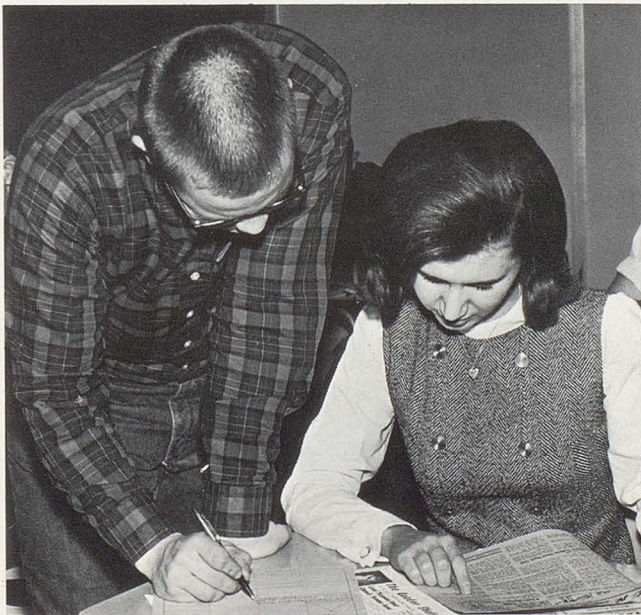

To those students who are not yet accustomed to high school life, an innocent glance into the speech room may shockingly become disfigured. Even though it receives an occasional penetrating stare, speech, the basic element for conveying thoughts and ideas, is one of the most important classes at PHS.

Journalism students study the developing of news stories, editorials, features and such issues as propaganda.

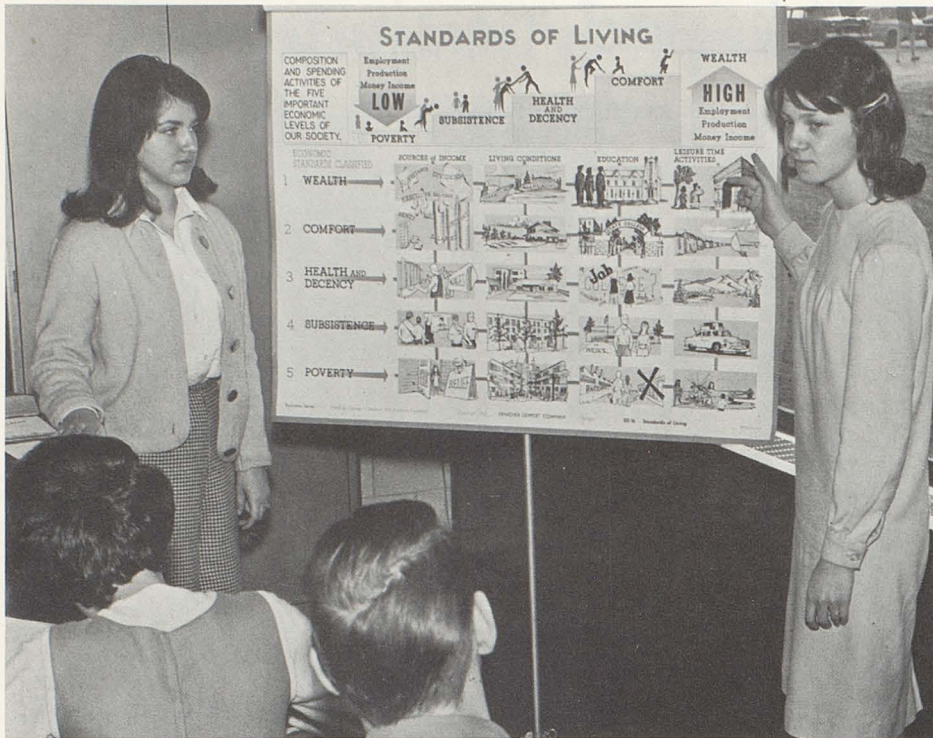

Both speech and journalism help to lay the foundation for the future of all PHSers.

Dennis LaRoche relates various ways in which speakers stress their point of view.

Jim Friel and Sue Drews make lay-outs for their own paper as part of their journalism class work.

Standards of living is just one of the many aspects that seniors learn in government and economic classes.

The Past, the Present, the Future . . .

Many students from the world history classes are anxious to learn about the world around them.

Russian history students learned of the Russian culture and also of the geographical composition of the USSR.

Studied and Analyzed at P H S

FROM THE BIRTH of Christ to the Viet Nam crisis, PHS history classes are on the go. They learn of the persons, places and things which compose the conflicts that appear around the world.

World History classes develop the beginnings with ancient history to the present. US history deals with the layout and building of our nation. With understanding of the American and democratic governments the seniors enter the government and economic classes. Within the doors of these rooms, the students extend their knowledge with the workings of our governmental departments.

American problems and Russian history are new subjects that have been introduced the past two years.

Students continue to progress in time through the beneficial moments spent in their history classes at PHS.

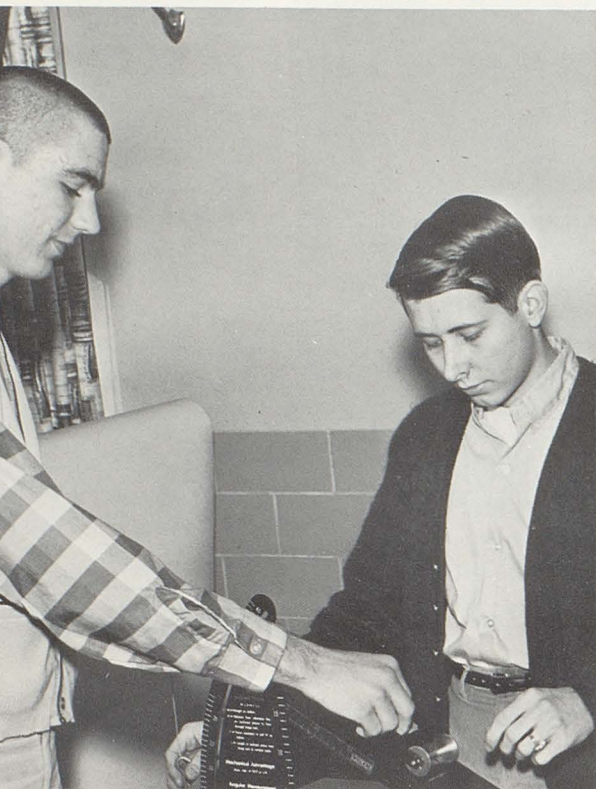

Mr. Reichel, US history teacher, leads his "squaw" students in the traditional Indian rain dance. The history students study the American Indian and their customs in US history.

Scientists Seek the World Beyond

TODAY, AS NEVER BEFORE, the need for well-educated students in the field of scientific discovery is essential to our continuously changing world.

PHS recognizes this need and accepts the challenge the world gives to them by offering physical, biological, and chemical sciences. The field of science is broadened in scope daily and as it grows so does PHS's science department.

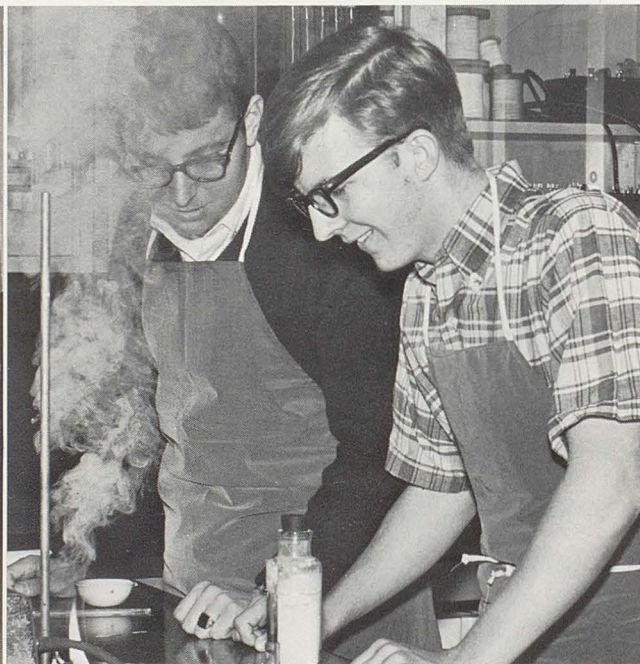

Expansion of PHS in size will provide for an expanded science program. Through these actions, Plainfield High School plans to meet the various ambitions of the science student.

Inclined planes are used to determine the amount of force exerted. Bill Abel and Charles Traugh experiment with it while in Physics.

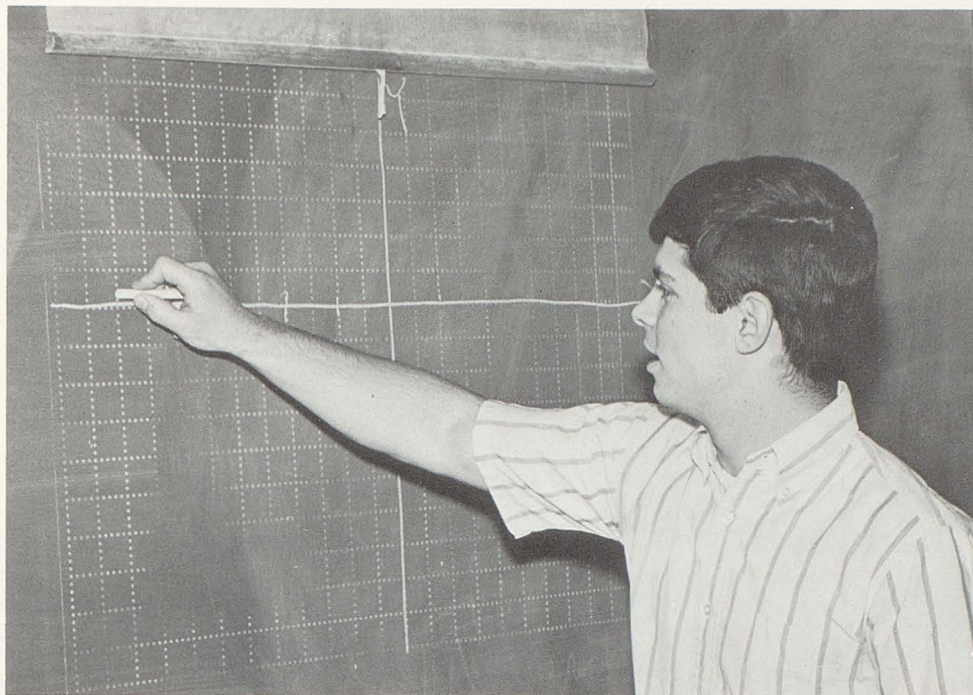

Chemistry students, Jerry Rogers and David Reger, prepare a solution for testing. The chemical reaction succeeded and the boys are very well pleased.

Student + Teacher = Progress

Dean Ziegler shows the Algebra II class the graphing method of solving simultaneous equations.

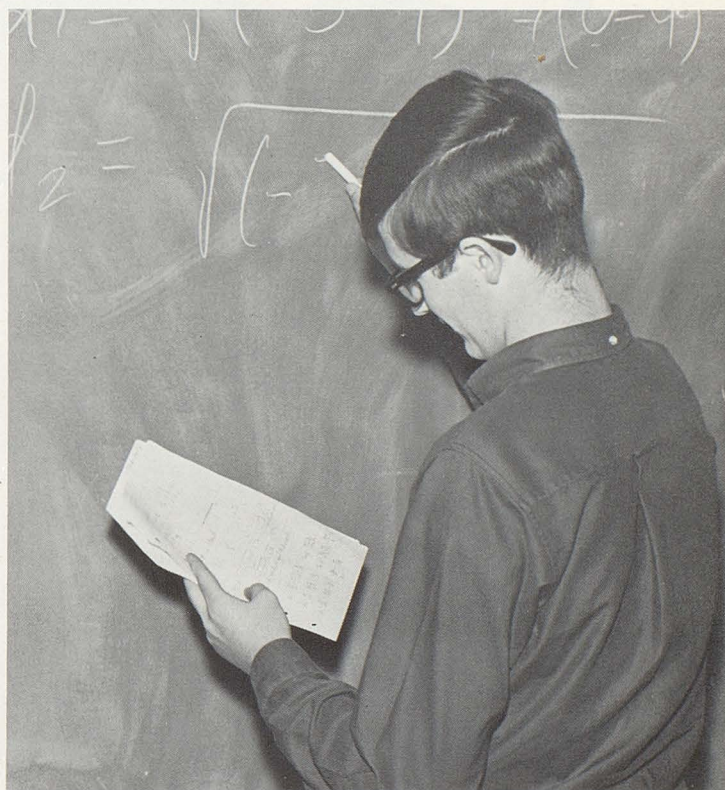

THE ATOMIC-AGE calls for more young people of today and PHS has accepted this challenge.

Offering many advance courses, for striving mathematicians, PHS is constantly adding to the list of math classes.

Plane Geometry, dealing with plane figures, Algebra II, constructing a basis for future maths, Trigonometry, using the basic fundamentals of the triangle, College Algebra, preparing students for college, and Calculus, a higher math using symbols, comprise the math curriculum.

Students equipped with slide rule, protractor, compass, log tables and ruler set out to meet the challenge of today.

It is easily seen that PHS expands to meet her students needs, and will continue to do so.

Mr. Rogers teaches a new subject this year. Michael Worley works a complex problem from this Calculus class.

Vocational Classes Sketch

Mr. Frye, drafting teacher, helps the students on their mechanical drawings.

Sewing is a basic training needed by all housewives to be. Mrs. Clark instructs the seamstress department of home economics.

PLAINFIELD'S VOCATIONAL department presents courses of great importance to all of those students who plan to further their education and develop careers.

Important to every girl is the want to establish a good home life. Since this is the center of our American life, the home economics department trains girls in cooking, sewing, home nursing, and child care.

Needing more room, the industrial arts department will receive this need with the future plans of the school construction. Woodshop and drafting offer valuable training to all those interested in mechanics, designing and engineering.

Careers for Coming Years

THE TRAINING OFFERED through the business courses is of great value to the student planning to enter the business world. The excellent curriculum prepares a student to fulfill any business capacity.

The office machines class instructs the student in the operation of any and all machines that a future job may require. Typing and shorthand are beneficial to the college-bound students as well as those seeking business employment upon graduation. The bookkeeping classes provide abounding experience in business management.

The opportunities in the business field have grown rapidly and will continue to expand.

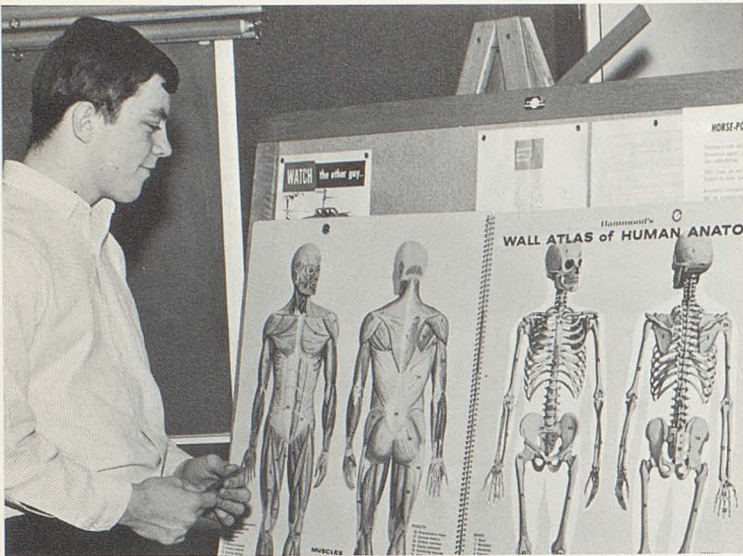

Mr. Pike explains the workings of the typewriter to Debbie Wright.

Learning to use the dictating machine, Donna Morlan discovers, is only one of the areas in office machines.

Elective Courses Are a Necessity

Kenny Nelms finds health is no "snap" course as he is asked to learn the muscles of the body.

FOR THE ACADEMIC line, PHS offers to all an ever-changing curriculum and wide variety of elective courses.

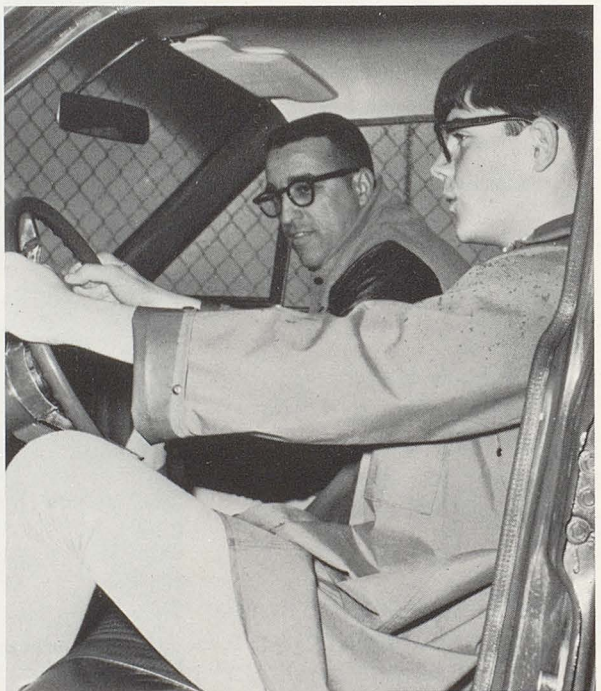

Art incites the students to create and build their unique ability in drawing. Chorus and band are designed for the musically inclined students. Drivers Ed brings into focus all the hardships and trial and error there is to driving. Health classes delve into the functions of the human body.

The elective courses will be expanding in the future with the expansion of the school.

PHS strives for the furthering knowledge in a greater selection of non-academic courses.

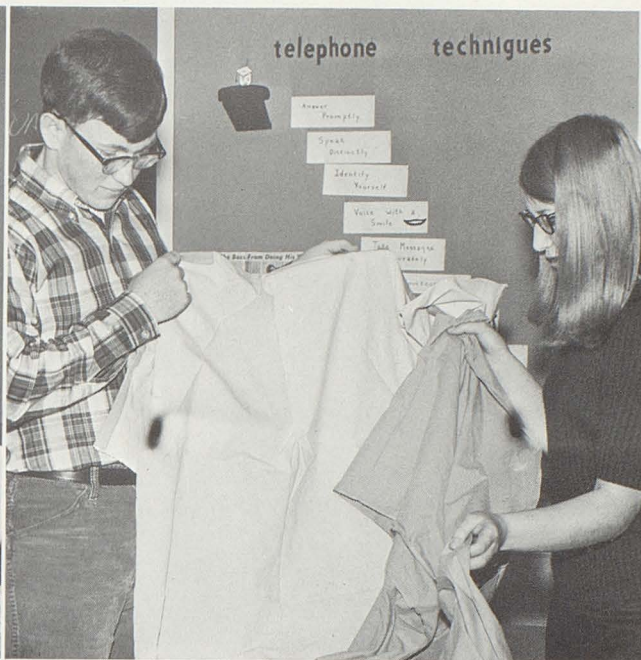

Art students' creative ability was often displayed throughout the school. Here, Barbara Hiser puts up a chalk portrait in a display case.

Dave Petty sighs with relief as he finishes another "practical application" session in drivers-ed.

Chris Gentry demonstrates the use of advertising in the French magazines to French pupils.

Latin students learn of customs and culture. Danny Slaton and Dee Bell examine a Roman toga.

Communication Stressed in Foreign Tongues

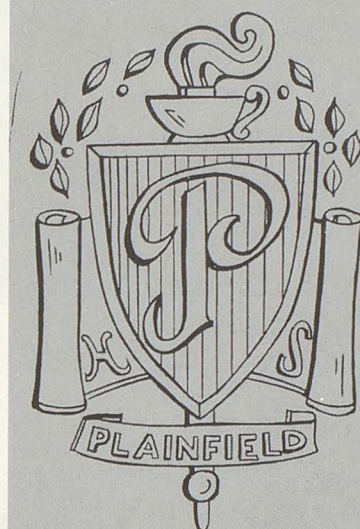

THE IMPORTANCE OF a good language background for all students is stressed here at PHS. Today, the different peoples of the world are being drawn closer and closer together and bringing out the need of communication among the people. Students have prepared for this need by acquainting themselves with the languages offered at Plainfield. Not only do students learn about English, but they also have the opportunity to enroll in Latin, Spanish, and French. These languages offer all students an opportunity to become acquainted with other people of the world and their customs.

The future holds much for the language department with the addition of various languages at PHS.

Mrs. McCorkle, Spanish teacher, points out the Spanish speaking countries to her class.

Two of the PHS gridmen placed on the Mid-State, all-conference team, including defensive tackle Greg Leonard, and halfback Gary Brown who was captain of the Plainfield squad.

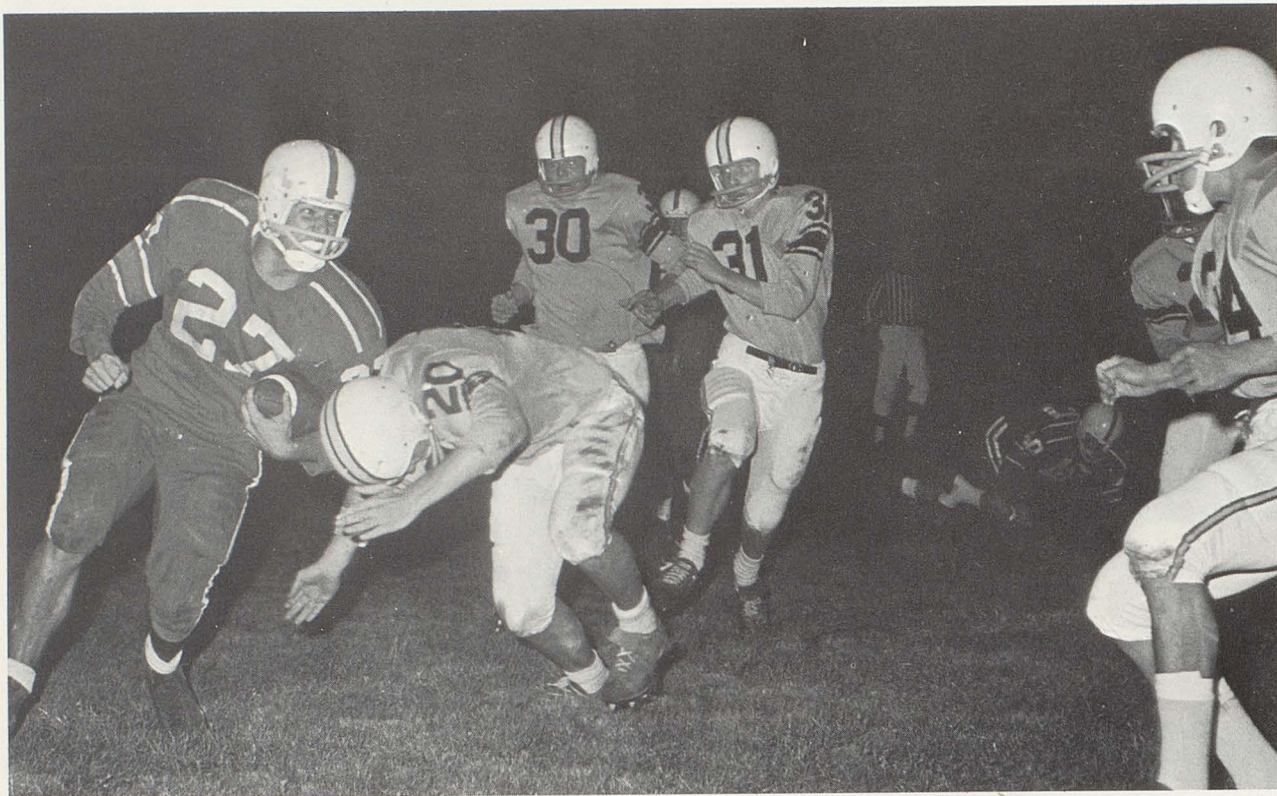

Although they encountered a rough season, the Quakers were backed all the way.

Show Improved Season and Hopeful Future

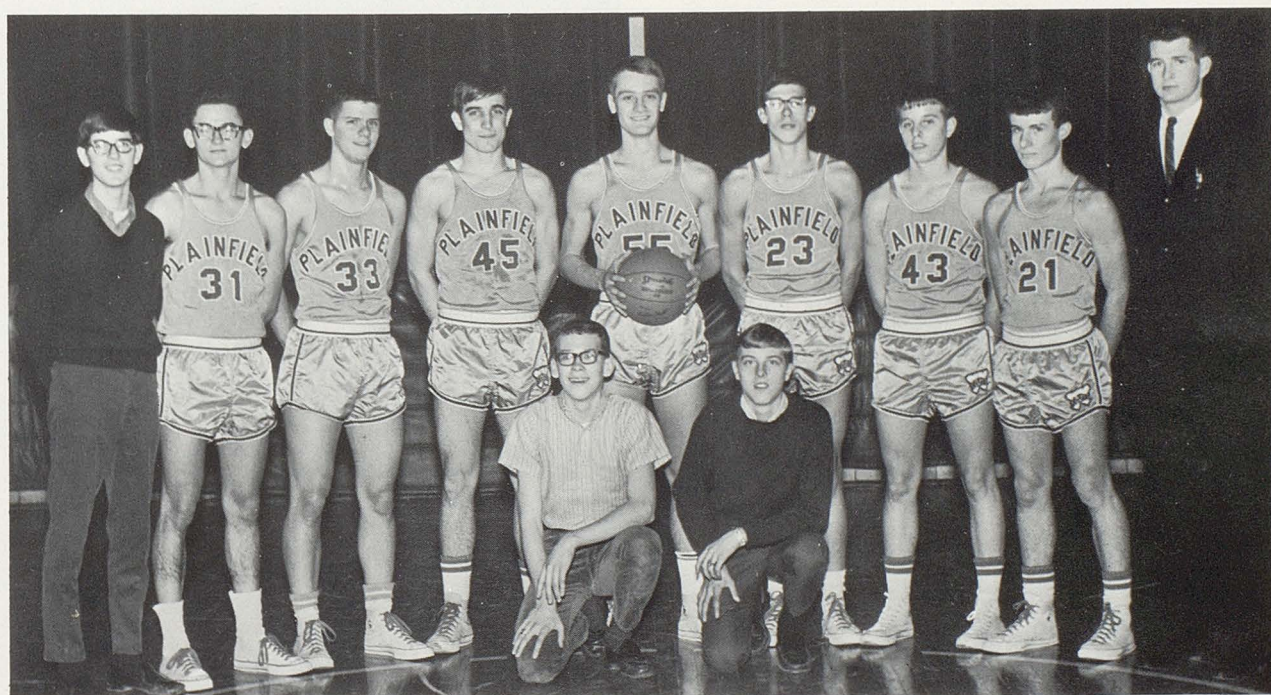

AGGRESSIVE PLAYING and good sportsmanship characterized Plainfield's basketball team as they totaled a record of 7 wins and 11 losses--one of the most favorable in several years.

The highlighting point of the season was the seizure of the trophy at the Holiday Tourney. The victory encited the Quakers for a spirited Sectionals.

However, the Mooresville Pioneers kept the Quakers from the regionals by defeating them in the final game.

This year, Fred Krampe, senior forward, was elected captain of the team. He was also awarded the free-throw trophy. Bill Abel, junior center, who placed on the All-Conference squad, was awarded the rebound trophy.

Although not as large a sport we also are quite proud of our cross-country and wrestling teams. Sophomore Mark Mayer was the leading contender on the mat. He placed in the Mid-state competition. Mr. Sfreddo coached the cross-country, while Mr. Haworth coached the wrestling team.

HOW DO YOU SPELL . . . ? The photographer is coming WHEN! Ooh! My last deadline.

Following the premise that there is no crying "Stop those presses," Mary Whitmire, SILHOUETTES Editor, and Ernie Screes, QUAKER SHAKER Editor, must meet many important deadlines.

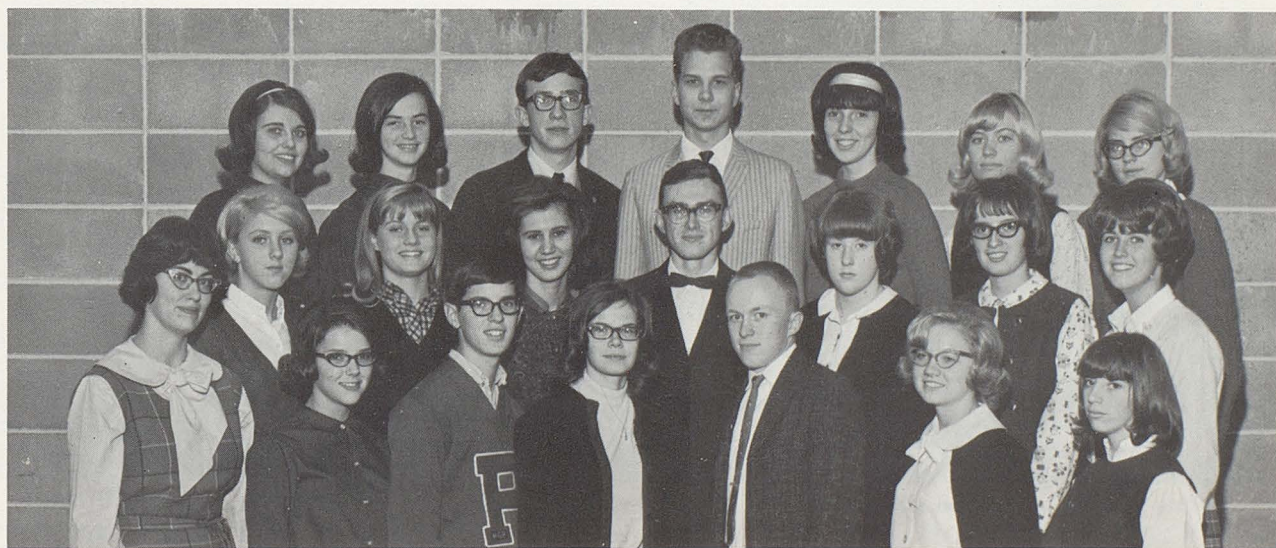

Working closely with the editors were Sherry Ginn; assistant yearbook editor, Larry Slaton, paper sports editor, Susan Allison, News Bureau editor, and various staff helpers.

This year, the publications staff presented a new literary magazine, a collection of student's writings. The sponsor is Mrs. Conners.

WITH THE MAIN objectives of promoting harmonious relations throughout the entire school, and improving teacher-student relationship, the Student Council represents the pupils at PHS.

Homecoming is the biggest event of the year, but it is far from the only thing of which they are in charge. Christmas decorations, the Talent Show, Sectional Parade, and convocations are also headed by this very active group.

Presenting library with money for new books, chartering clubs, and being the essential link between administration and students shows the variation of contributions that the Student Council offers to PHS.

Under the supervision of Mrs. Haines, sponsor, the following officers headed the Council. President, Larry Slaton; Vice-president, Fred Krampe; Secretary, Alynna Parker; and Treasurer, Mary Whitmire.

Student Council has own "mass production" while selling popcorn at the basketball games.

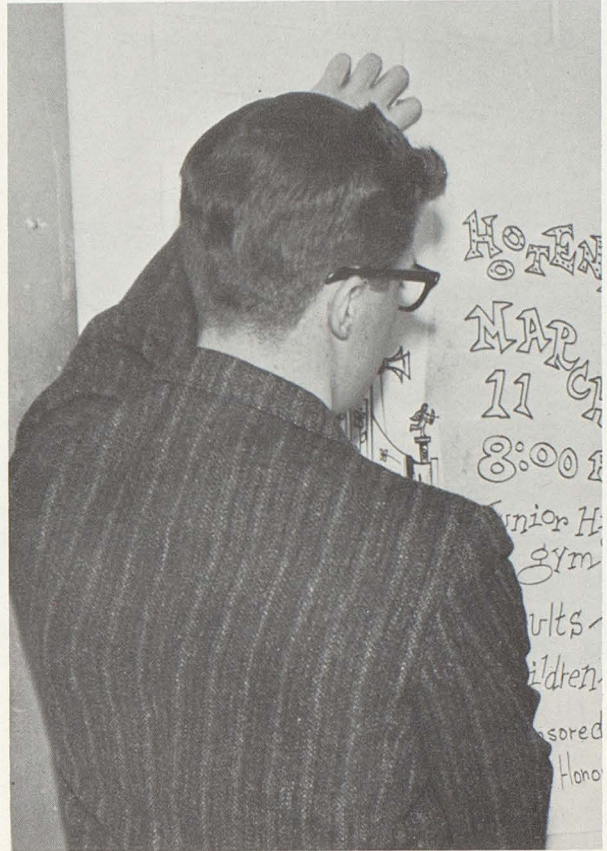

Scholastics Ranked High

THE NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY was organized in this school with the aim to recognize outstanding ability, character, leadership and service. Ten percent of the junior class and fifteen percent of the senior class are chosen each year.

Honor Society members promote incentive for scholastic achievement by presenting the Girard Award to exceptional math students and issuing scholarship loans to aid those deserving them.

This year the organization held "Operation Scholarship" an honor dance, a Hootenanny, and donated $1300 to the school for an organ.

Tom Hanlon presided over the Honor group during the 65-66 year with the sponsorship of Mrs. Masten.

Mark Rhoden, chairman of the annual HOOTENANNY, places a poster in the school to broadcast this event.

F H A 'ers Plan Their Lives

FUTURE HOMEMAKERS OF AMERICA is the largest and one of the oldest organizations at PHS. FHA's purpose is to promote the ideals of the homemaker.

Throughout the year, FHA provides much fun and enjoyment through their various annual activities. Several activities are WPA Dance, Daddy Date Night, caroling at the old folk's home, and Teacher Appreciation night. Many of these activities not only are interesting and enjoyable, but they promote closer relationships between the FHA girls and their friends, family and community.

Peggy Kellum presided over FHA this year, while Mrs. Clark sponsored the club. With the aid of Donna Curtis and Jan Rosenberger who were both district officers, and Jan also a state officer, these girls and all the members proudly boasts as this club keeps its motto in sight and aims "toward new horizons."

PHS PEOPLE FIND enjoyment and experience through the numerous activities offered by the Speech and Drama clubs at the high school.

Previously existing as one, this year the two clubs split, creating an organization primarily concerned with public speaking and debate, and one which provides opportunities for acting and presenting dramatic productions.

In the fall, Drama Club presented a three-act play, in the spring, two one-act plays. Besides these, other short skits were given during the club meetings.

Members from both organizations had the opportunity to tell stories to children at the grade schools at Christmastime. Also included in their projects is the annual "Speech Festival". At this event, student groups from schools in the surrounding area present one-act plays.

Ned Weaver, Rex Wisehart, and Anita, Becky Shrum play a friendly game of cards in "Summer Scene."

Familiar phrases such as these are often heard coming from either the band or the football field as seventy some band members prepare for a few of their many activities.

Varying from a half-time show at a football game to a Sunday afternoon concert, the band department provides musical enjoyment for not only the high school but the community.

Under the direction of Mr. Dale Jackson and his parttime assistant drum major, Dale Miller, the Plainfield high school band promotes an appreciation of fine music and individual musical ability.

Cheers, Happiness and Tears

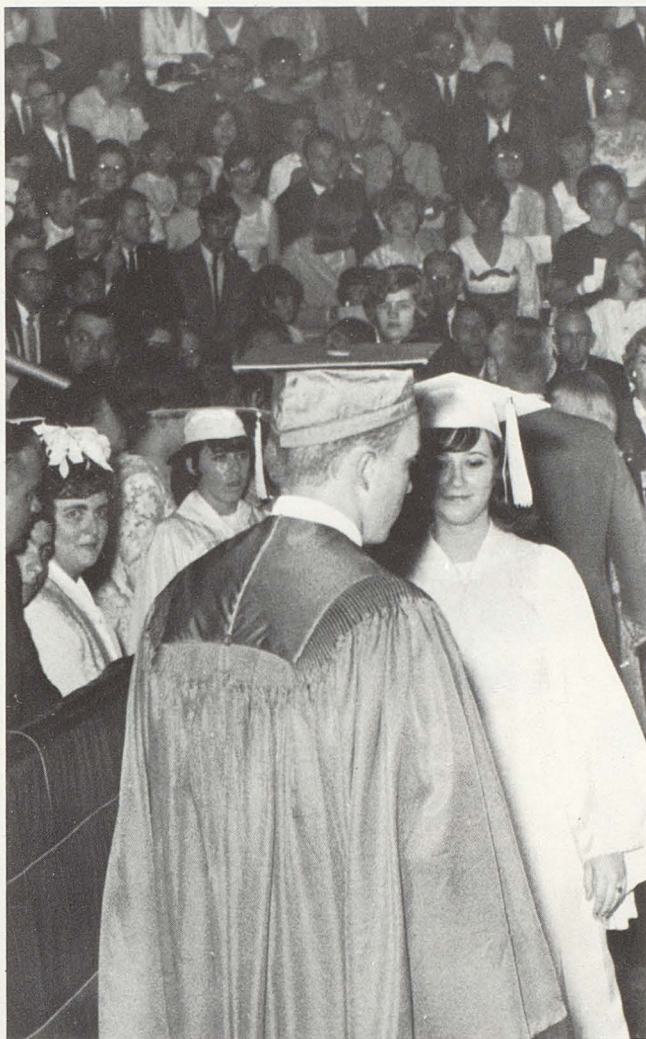

Larry Slaton, having lettered in track, football, and baseball, received the Jake Weber Award for sports.

Mr. Ross presents happy Tom Sherman with his diploma.

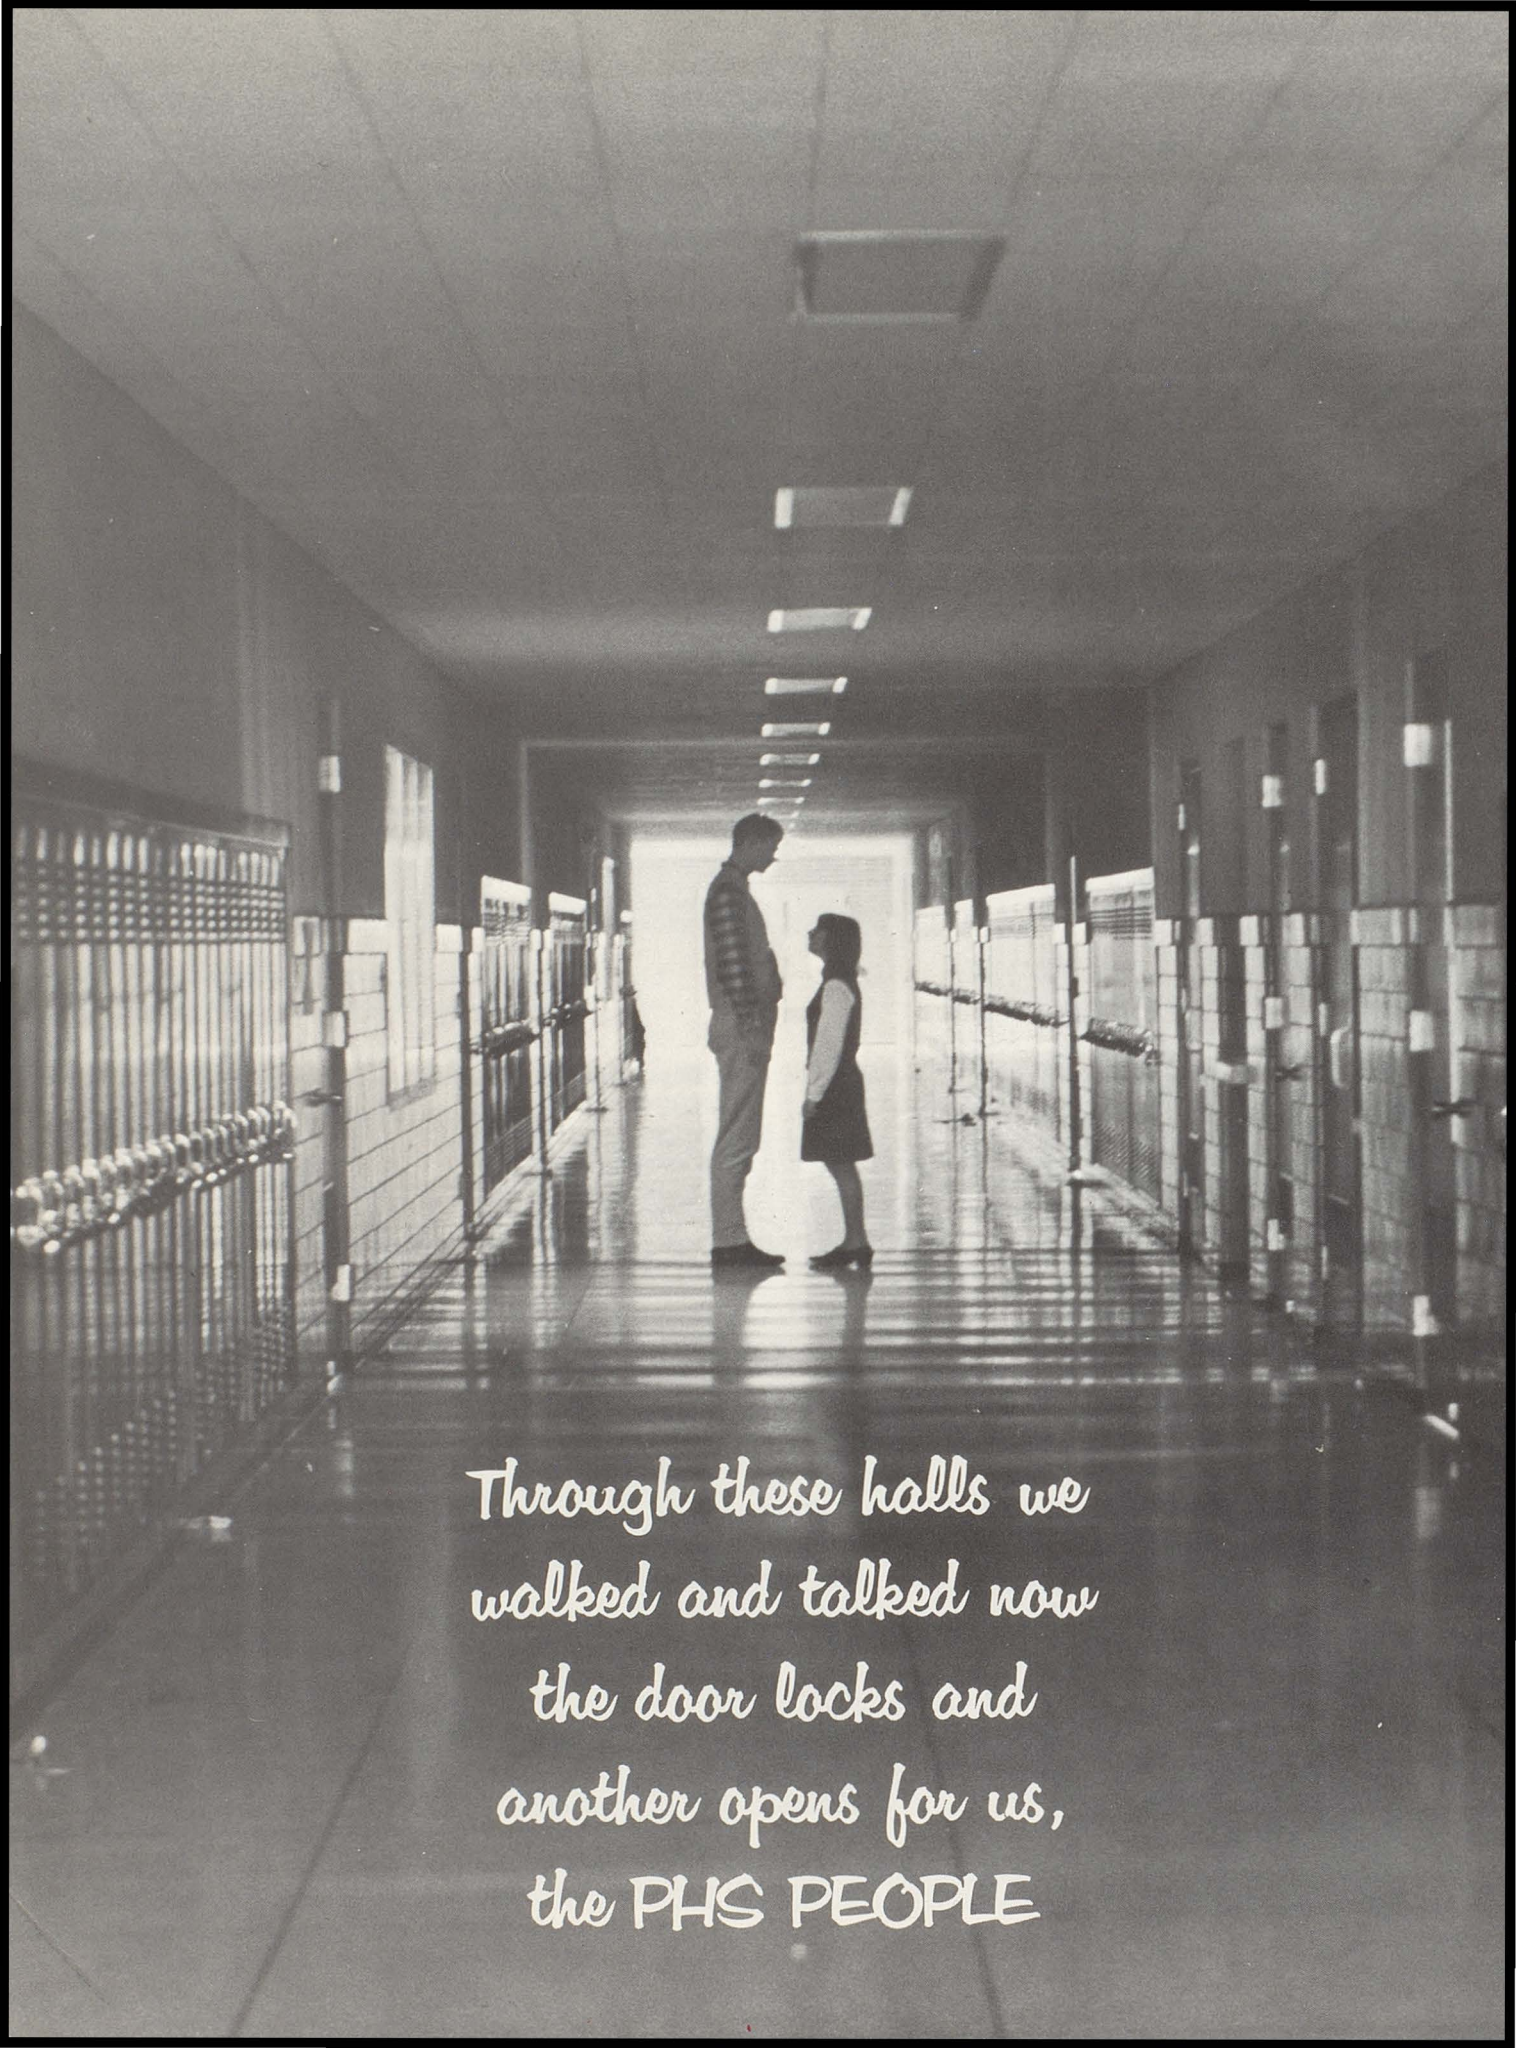

Betell the Graduating Seniors

Salutatorian, Judy Hamontre, and Valedictorian, Larry Slaton, lead the one hundred and ninety-nine graduates at commencement.

Happy or sad the seniors kindly reminisced over their twelve years of schooling as they reached their goal.

*Through these halls we walked and talked now the door locks and another opens for us,
