Rise To Victory

The gun fires and the backstrokers for the boys' swim team pull to another victory.
Up in the air is Patsy Cox as she scores two for the girls basketball team.
Standing on a ladder is a happy guard, Brad Rogers, as he clips the Sectional net.
Pulling the victory Bell for all they're worth are Betsy Buchanan and Della Rogers.
Working Out, the Varsity football team practices with coach Kermit Davis.

Rise To
New Heights

The end of the school year brings driver education as Mr. Shew teaches David Casselman the art of driving.

Senior awards night brought tears of joy as Lynaire Smith receives the outstanding speech student award given by Mrs. Angela Schneider.

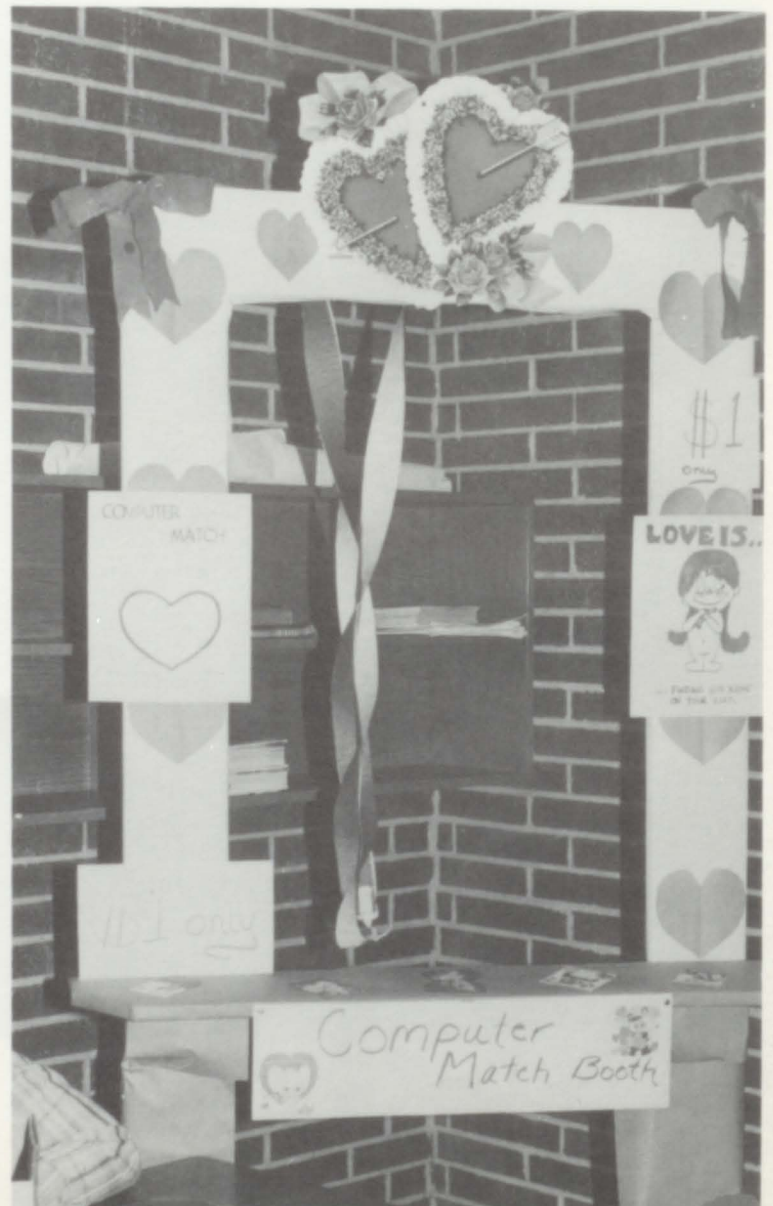

The aged Kay Newkirk performs a demonstration for her psychology class.

The final performance of the year, Belles and Beaux presents "Sensation 80".

C.H.A.P. class became a Sock-hop as Tom Jent and Nancy Barnett perform the dance of the 50's.

Plainfield Quakers Rise To The Top

Excitement builds as the Sophomore Tug-of-War team struggles to defeat the freshmen. Announcing the names of each Sunshine girl and her Ideal Lady is President of the 1980 Sunshine Society Larinda Ferrell. Love in bloom, this was the purpose of the Student Council-sponsored Computer match. Mellow tones are real crowd pleasers as Mike Weaver performs a bari solo at the Spring Jazz Concert. For Sale! But no buyers could be found for the Plainfield Jr. Sr. High School.

Pep Club and Band Lift Morales

The Pep Band was present at all the home basketball games and pep sessions lending spirit and enthusiasm to the student body. The senior high concert band was divided in half this year making two pep bands which alternated at the games. They were appropriately named the "Red and Blue" groups.

During the football season the pep club made cookies for the players for away games. They decorated the players' lockers at homecoming and helped to brighten the halls and gym for the homecoming pep session.

During basketball season the girls made run-throughs for all home basketball games. They decorated the boys' lockers for sectionals as well as decorated each player's home. Both clubs contributed immensely to the school spirit and morale.

Adding to the enthusiasm of the senior class are Sharon Voyles and Debbie Porter.

Pep Club Members Carla Parks and Annette Christl stand guard as the varsity team charges through.

The Pep Band entertains the Pep Session crowd.

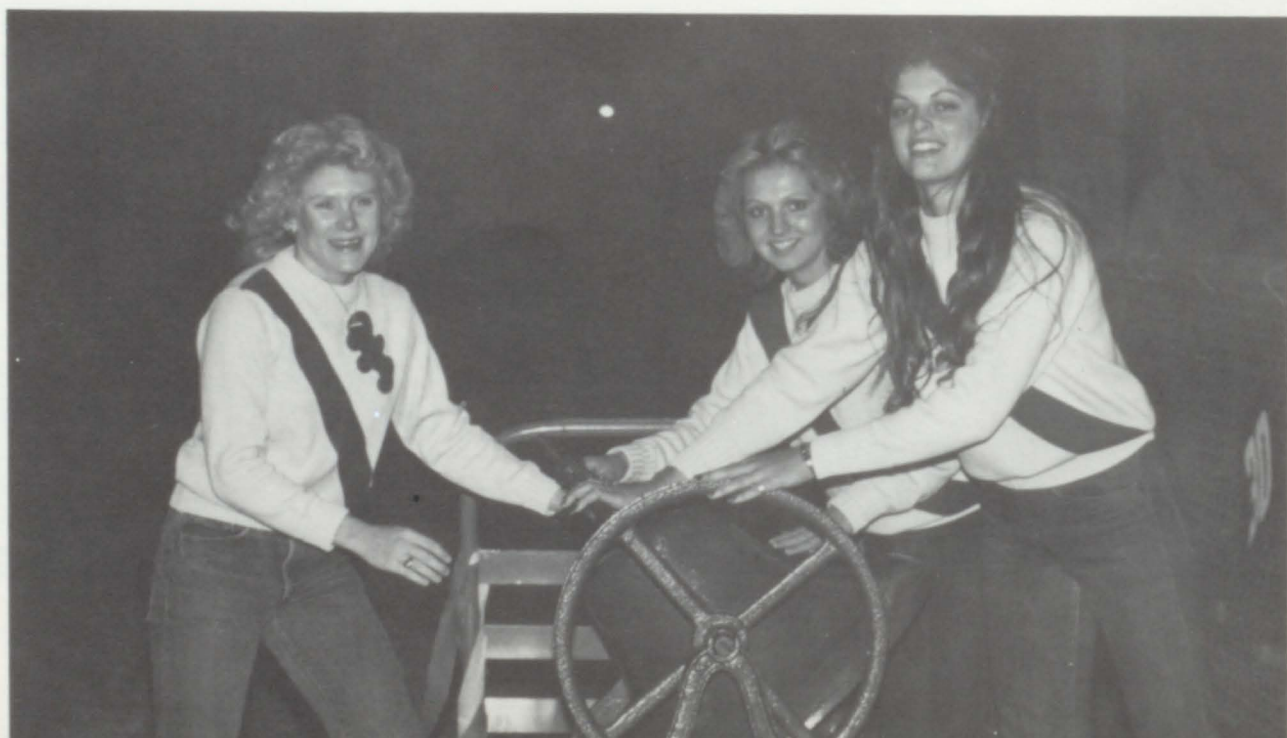

Sliding into the lyrics is trombone player Kris Schoen.

Pep Club: Susan Butts, Vivienne Broadhuhn, Lisa Tuttle, Carla Parks, Sharon Voyles, Melissa Boles, Kim Carpenter, Barb Johnson, Robin Alexander, Steve Brayton, and back, Mrs. Strube.

The cheerleaders boogie to the beat of the band at one of the home games.

Clowning around in a Homecoming pep session skit are Mindy Donelson and Annette West.

Smiling to the sound of victory are varsity cheerleaders Cindy Snodgrass, Lisa Groninger, and Kay Newkirk.

Leading the fans in support of the Plainfield Red Pride Quakers is not all the cheerleaders do. They conduct cheerleading clinics, have candy sales, plan pep sessions, decorate halls, and participate in cheerleading contests. This year the varsity participated in contests at Hendricks, Boone, and Marion County fairs where they placed second in each. In the State Fair competition they attained eighteenth place out of eighty squads. Also doing a fine job were the reserve cheerleaders who participated in the Hendricks and Marion County fairs. They placed twentieth out of fifty-five squads at the State Fair.

Finishing the season with a 6-4 record, the varsity football team closed their books on another thrilling season. Led by captains John Baker, Tim Stultz, and Larry Wilson, the Red Pride football squad practiced and prepared each week for their upcoming games. Homecoming brought the team together to defeat Brazil in one of the most exciting games of the season. Brad Rogers received the award for the most valuable offensive player and Tim Stultz was voted most valuable defensive player. Quaker gridmen John Baker, J.V. Gilbert, Jeff Mongan, Tim Moss, and Ray Proud received all-conference titles.

Back: Kim Patton, Patsy Cox, Vicki Proud, Debbie Ferrel, Susan Earle, Coach Masariu. As Kara Park looks on, Trish May gets ready to bump the ball.

Girls "spike" into a new season

Led by team captains, Kim Galyan and Tawny Stewart, the Varsity Volleyball team won straight sets over rivals Danville and Crawfordsville. Eight of the contests played were forced into extra games by our fine team. The Reserve Volleyball team gained more experience for next season with a record of seven wins and nine losses. They won four straight sets this season. Coach Masariu was especially proud of the fine efforts of Trish May and Kara Park, who were All-Conference players. The mental attitude went to Beth Gee and the most valuable player was Kara Park

Daily practice sessions, even during vacations, keep girls' team in shape.

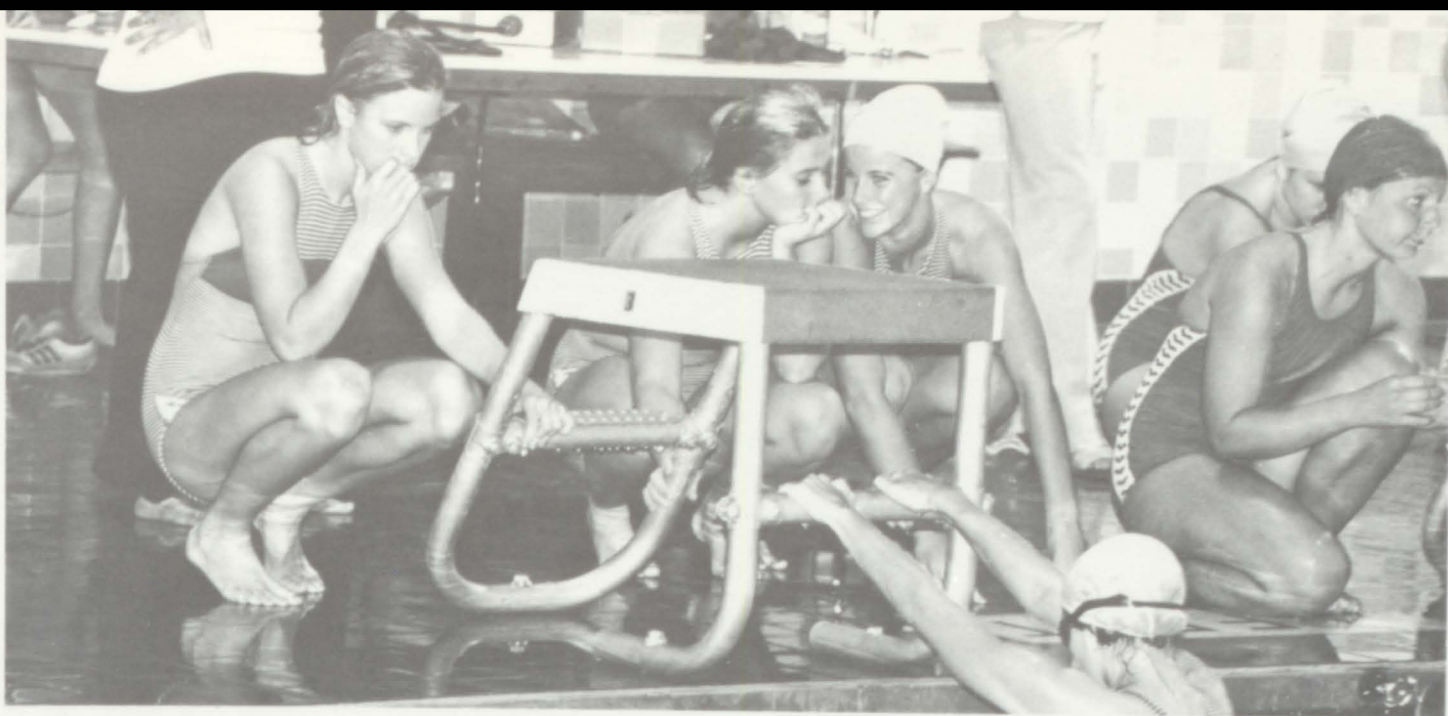

The 1979 season proved to be the best season yet. The girls did exceptionally well at sectionals, placing fifth out of 12 teams. Outstanding records were set by Shelley Brown in the 100 and 500 free style and by the 400 free relay team of Janet Boesch, Cindy Smith, Shelley Brown, and Reenie Whitfield at sectionals. Shelley Brown placed second in the 100 free style and went on to state.

Team captains Tom Root and Scott Johnstone led this year's swim team to the most successful and winning year ever. PHS is now the home of the county champs, with Jim Cable, Chuck Dykins, Mike Birge, Duane Berry, Tom Root, Scott McLeish, Scott Johnstone all champions in their events. All of the above have set new school records. Rex Murat set school records in diving and also qualified to go to the state meet.

The optional team was led by seniors Lisa Amich and Kathy Kost. Lisa was chosen as most valuable player because of her achievements as all-around sectional champ, third all-around in regional competition, and a tenth on floor rating at the state meet. The intermediate captain was Shelly Campfield, while the beginning captain was Jerri Snodgrass. Other awards were Colleen Costello as most consistent gymnast, and Shari Jensen with the mental attitude award.

New coach wears sectional crown

In his first year at Plainfield, Coach Bruce Firchau led the varsity basketball team in finishing their regular season with a 9-11 record. As the Quakers headed into the sectionals, their outlook was dim. But, the unpredictable sectionals proved true to form as the Plainfield Quakers emerged victorious. J.V. Gilbert led the team in rebounds even though he was out part of the season of leg injury. Senior, J.V. Gilbert was voted the team's Most Valuable Player and he was also named to the all-conference team and to the all-sectional team along with teammates Paul Collier and Brad Rogers. Captains J.V. Gilbert, Jim Steward, and Bruce Sims led the team into the regionals with high hopes. But, the Quakers lost a hard fought first game of the regionals.

Temporarily blocked, Paul Collier searches for Quaker player.

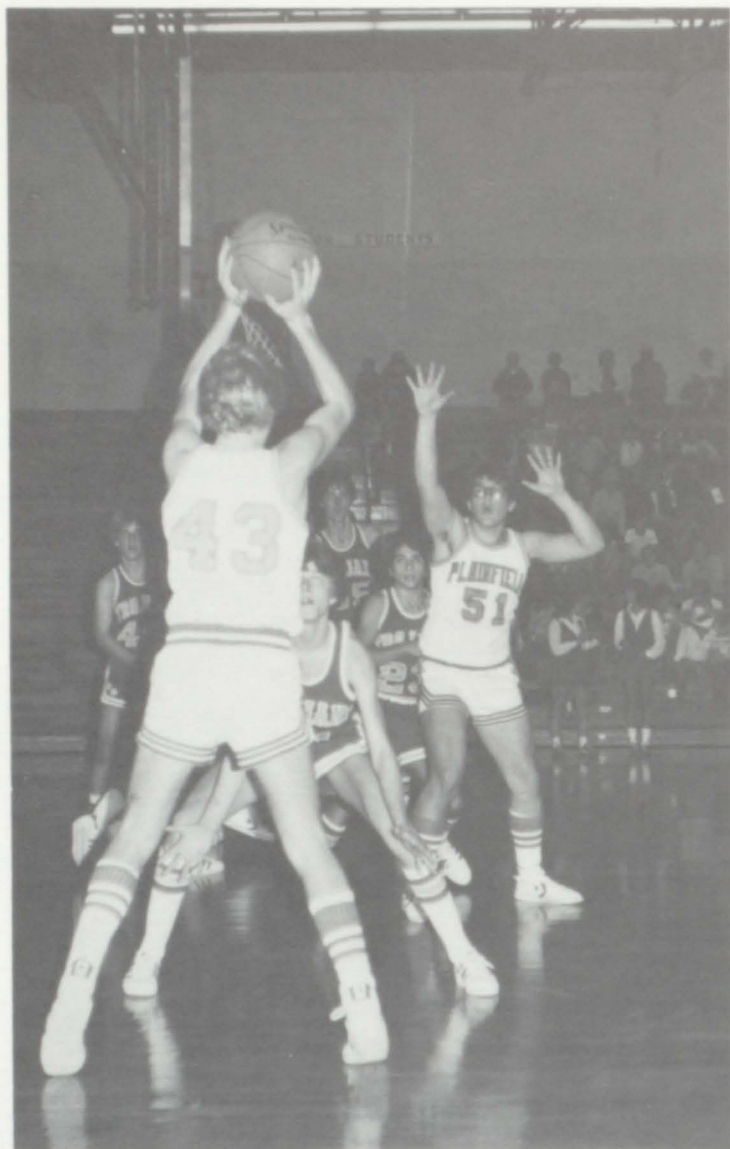

Senior J.V. Gilbert gets rid of his opponent and heads for the basket.

Blocking opponent out of the play, Jim Steward clears the way for teammate Brad Rogers.

Determined to make the shot, Greg Ryan heads for Quaker score.

Outjumping Monrovia guards, Carl Bennett gets two more.

The girls basketball teams finished disappointing seasons as the varsity finished their season with a 2-12 record, and the reserve ended with a record of 4 wins and 10 losses. The varsity team, led by captains Kim Galyan and Janet Boesch, had a rough season but, in many games only lost by a few points. The reserve team, led by coach Bob Lynn, lost many of their first games but, they roared back to win 3 of their last 4 games.

Wrestlers Become 1980 County Champs

The 1980 Quaker Wrestling team had a good season with 7 wins and 6 losses. Led by captains Jeff Mongan and Jeff Wilson, the team had the best winning record at P.H.S. and came in fourth in the sectionals and sixth in mid-state. All-Sectional wrestlers were Mike Ellis and Keith Everhart. The team is still building and hoping to do even better.

1980 Mat Maids are Connie Jackson, Cathy Begly, Sandy Turner, Lori Kesterson, Lori Reeve, Teresa Garris, Darla Phelps, Jan Stremming

Baseball teams swing into the eighties

Led by Most Valuable player, Rob Hammond, the Varsity baseball team finished their season with a record of 10 wins and 12 losses. Greg Everling received the team's Mental Attitude Award and the Jim Lovell Award. Pitcher Gary Montgomery pitched 2 shut outs and got the team out of many tough situations. The team finished third in the county and 8th in the conference.

The Reserve baseball team finished their season even with an 8 win, 8 loss record. Brian Holsclaw led the team with the highest batting average and the most stolen bases. Lee Biddle led the team's pitching with an E.R.A. of .70. Coach Steve Wood brought the team together to win all of their last 4 games.

Southmont Relays-First Place
Mid-State-First Place

Coaches: Dave Teany, Geoffrey
Bradley, Larry Dykes

Trackmen travel away for meets

Due to the incomplete track the boys' track teams had to use their opponents' track for all of their meets. The Varsity had to get adjusted to this change, but when their season ended they had overcome their disadvantage by finishing with a 5 win-4 loss record. Powell Bryant was awarded the Most Valuable Player award for the second year in a row, and Tim Reynolds received the Mental Attitude award. The freshmen trackmen finished a successful season with a record of 3 wins and only 2 losses. They placed first in the Southmont Relays and first in Mid-State. Coaches Dave Teany, Geoffrey Bradley, and Larry Dykes kept the teams strong and always offered an encouraging pat on the back when it was needed. Both teams are looking forward to next year and their all-new track.

Most Valuable Player Powell Bryant crosses the finish line in first place one more time.

Preparing to throw the shot put, David Bohenkamp starts his motions.

Leaping over the hurdle effortlessly, Neil Eickholtz aims for the finish line.

After hurling himself through the air, Dave Crowe lands into the long jump pit.

Girls run into a winning season

Most Valuable Player Beth Gee comes across the finish in first place once again.

Captain Kim Galyan throws the shot put into the air for another new record.

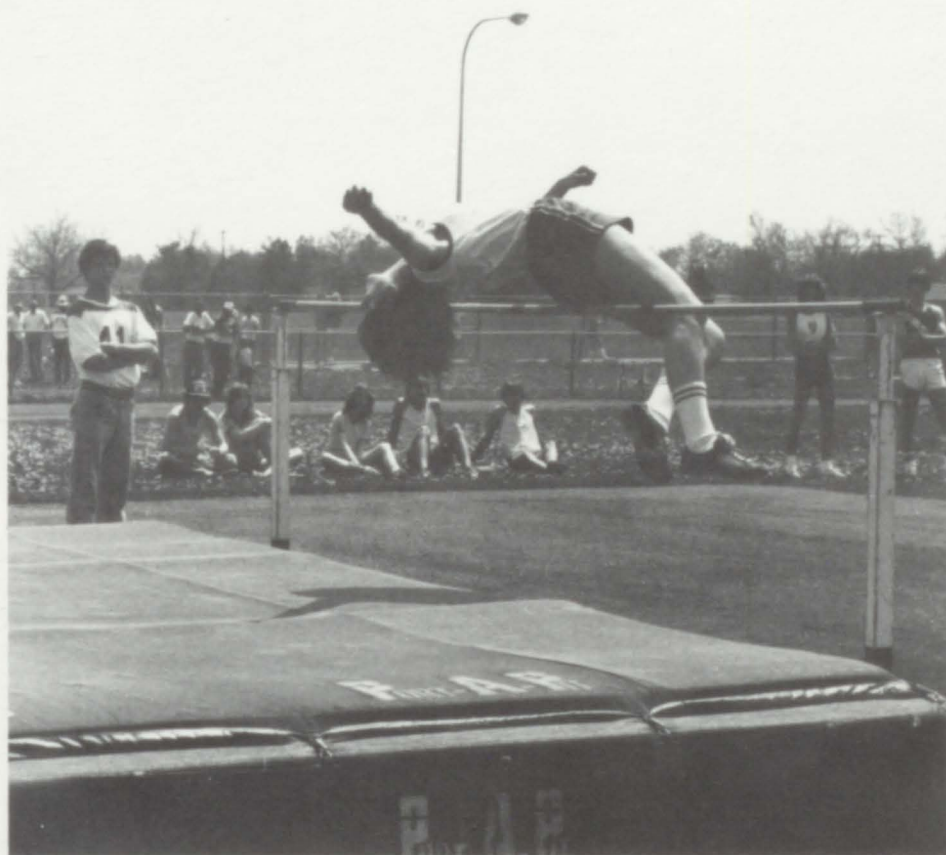

Smiling as she crosses the finish line, Robin Banks eyes another Quaker victory.

Passing the baton Allison Clanton hands off to team mate Trish May.

Tiring out, Carol Rairdon pushes on to overcome her opponent.

Up and over goes Diane Mosser as she clears the bar at the county meet.

The girls track team ran into the 80's with an outstanding record of 10 wins and 2 losses. The team was led by captains Kim Galyan, Libby Givan, and Diane Mosser. Diane Mosser also was awarded the Mental Attitude award and Beth Gee received the Most Valuable Player award. Beth Gee and Kim Galyan both advanced to regionals, by winning their sectional events.

After a year of excitement and suspense the 79-80 season ended on May 27 with the awards night program. On that night athletic director, Charles Muston honored four senior athletes and Scott McLeish, who received the Phil Parker Memorial Award. Other individual awards were given to seniors and underclassmen alike at the fall, winter, and spring award banquets. The awards were given for outstanding mental attitude and excellent contribution to the play of the game.

School Life

On The Rise

The administration of PHS is an efficient system responsible for the best education PHS has to offer. The School Board is elected by the community to supervise the administration for Plainfield's school corporation. During Mr. Bill Perkin's second year as superintendent, he has initiated many ideas to improve Plainfield's educational facilities. Mr. Jack Hobbs, Assistant Superintendent, carries out the school's financial responsibilities. R. Dale Jackson, Principal of PHS, is responsible for the personnel of the two schools. The Assistant Principal responsible for attendance is Mr. Ken Allen. He supervises the attendance of students in order to file all attendance reports. Mr. Michael King is in charge of extra-curricular activities, the school building, and student discipline. Miss Pat Lawrence is the Assistant Principal who directs the scheduling of classes. She reviews the course of study with department heads and makes any necessary changes. Mr. Charles Muston as Athletic Director oversees the athletic program at PHS. He provides equipment for teams and schedules games. Mr. Geoffrey Bradley has served his first year as assistant Athletic Director.

Administration

The Plainfield School Board includes William Strafford, James Pennington, Frank E. Glad- den, Frank E. Davis, and Paul A. Gentry.

Three major personnel of Plainfield Junior- Senior High School are Jan Stark, Secretary, Virginia Marshall, Treasurer, and Margaret Smock, Secretary.

The Assistant Principals for PHS are Ken Al- len, Mike King, and Pat Lawrence.

At a School Board meeting, Jack Hobbs, As- sistant Superintendent, and Elmer Perkins, Superintendent, discuss their business.

Aides in the Attendance Office include Kathy Cobb, Willa Davis, and Barbara Slaybaugh.

The Athletic Directors and their secretary are Charles Muston, Geoffrey Bradley, and Shirley Belcher.

Looking forward to another school day, R. Dale Jackson meets in the conference room with his colleagues.

Guidance, Media, &

In addition to the administration and teachers, many other people worked at PHS to make the year go smoothly and efficiently. The Guidance Department, directed by Richard Shew, was responsible for helping with class selections and advising students in college entrance requirements and testing. The Media Center, including the AV department and the library and under the supervision of Jackie Carrigan, provided material to students and teachers as well as instruction in library procedures to English and social studies classes. Secretaries to the counselors and principals were indispensable organizers of daily matters. Other helpful personnel were aides, cooks and cafeteria workers, and the custodial staff.

Guidance counselors Richard Shew, Quentin Shore, Phyllis Littell, and Howard Conley look over next year's student schedules. Putting books on reserve for student use are Janice Edwards and librarian Jackie Carrigan. English and social studies aides Anna Mary Dohogne and Elizabeth Klein help their respective departments. Secretary Kathy Wallace, Nurse Margie Rogers, and Guidance Department secretary Betty Danielson help students through their days. Two very familiar and helpful faces are those of Ernie Craig and Earl Carpenter, members of the PHS custodial staff. Preparing a salad for noon lunch is Ree DeLong, one of the cafeteria personnel. Ready to produce copies of assignments and tests or to distribute AV materials are Barbara Groover and Wanda Stogsdill.

Supportive Staffs

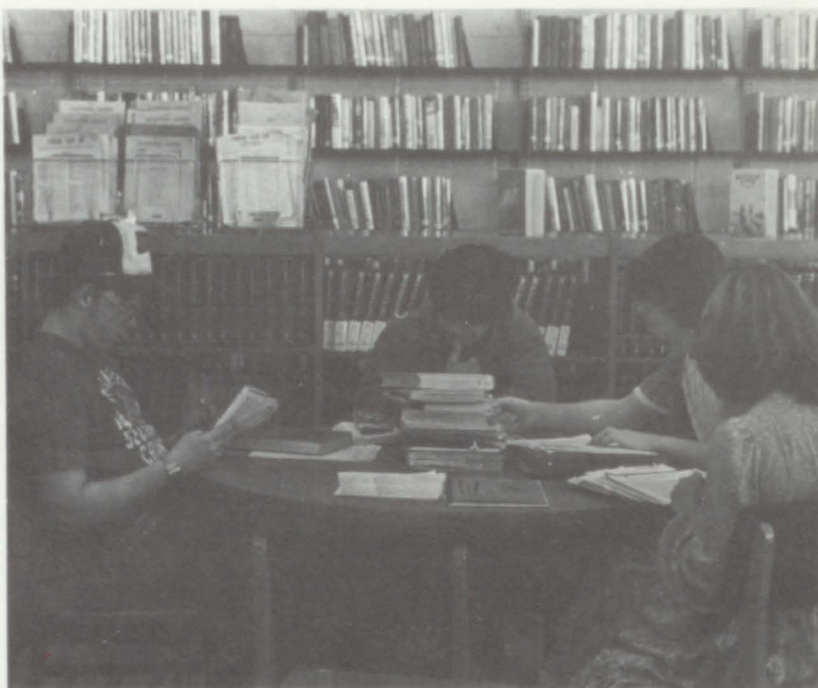

A duel to the finish! Robby Slaton as Hal skewers Andy Richmond as Hotspur while they act out a scene from Shakespeare. Looking as if she might give up, PREP student Annette Christl scans books for research paper information.

Justice class projects bring Fay Bratcher, Jerry Gipson, David Brinker and Cindy Holmes to the library.

Diligently working on an assignment, Scott Fields enjoys reading lab facilities.

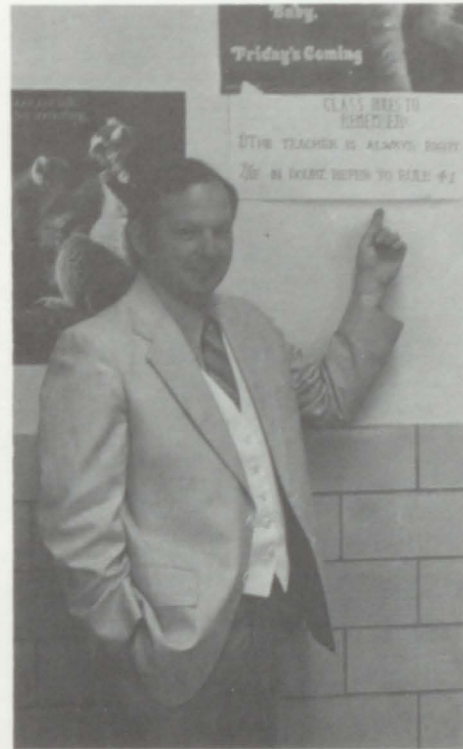

English teachers Mary Cay Sipes, Chairperson Dr. Ann Bleakley, Carol Kellogg, and Judy Jackson prepare for next year's class scheduling.

"Observe these rules", remarks Chap teacher, Chris Sweeney

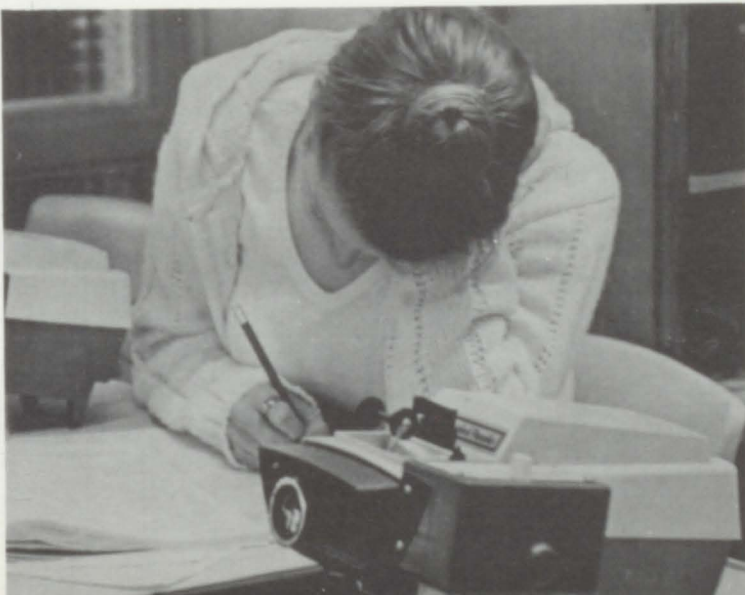

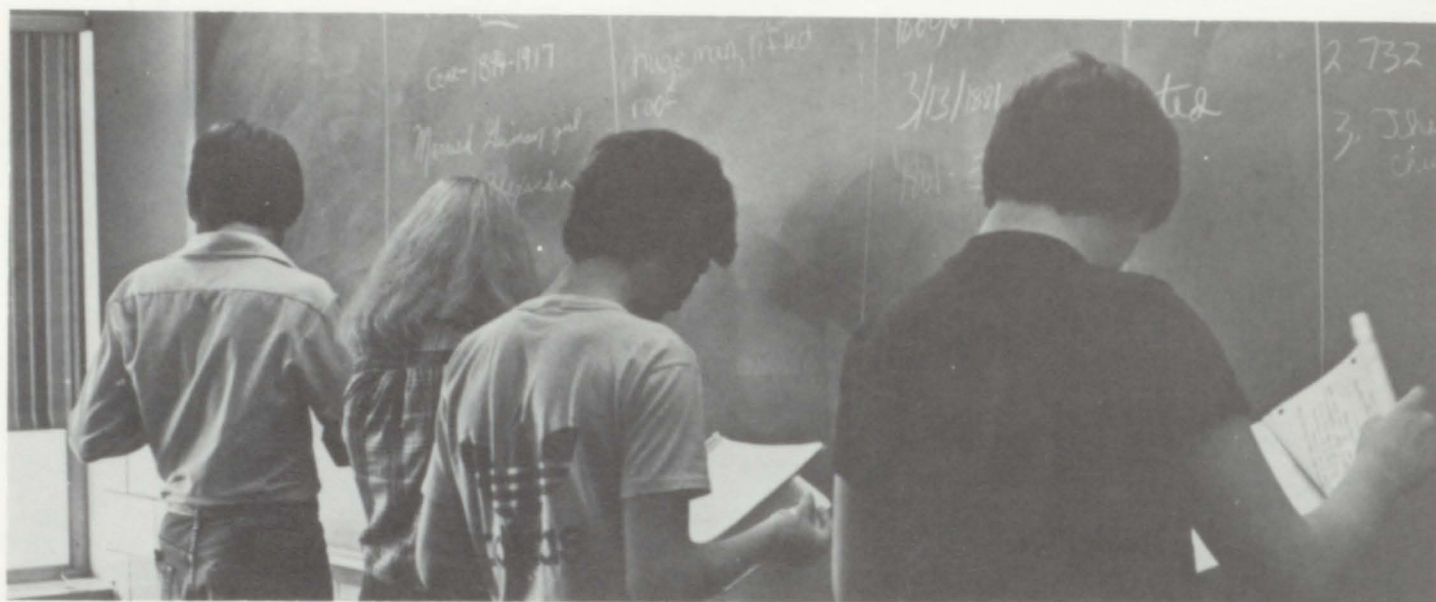

The English department offered many quarter-length classes which varied from the study of Shakespeare to the literature of American Indians. Classes such as Reading Lab, Necessary English, and Basic Composition were geared to students' needs and abilities. Many elected to take PREP or Advanced Placement English to prepare them for college courses, while students interested in the world of business enrolled in Business Communications. In addition, English classes provided a wide span of classes for enjoyment and personal taste. Students interested in the automobile and motorcycles signed up for Cars and Cycles class; others studied Greek mythology, mysteries, non-fiction, or justice.

Three English teachers joined the department for the 1979-80 school year: Gloria Bowman, Kay Senteney, and Janet Cumberworth. Concentration is a main factor for Debbie Jensen while working on an assignment in the Reading Lab.

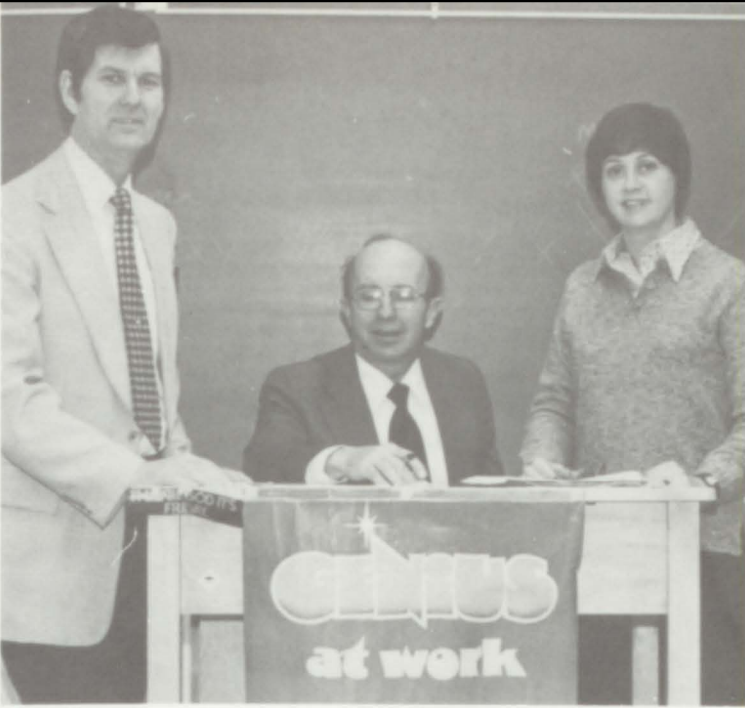

CHAP classes rock and roll, even in senior cords, as they study the Fabulous Fifties. European History students Robin LeMasters, Bonnie Gaskins, Dick Newport, and David Johnson classify Russian historical facts. Experiencing the problems of the aged, Brad Pennington tries to pour water with a contrived seeing disability. Department chairman Jerry Hankins is flanked by social studies teachers Phil Fletcher and Sue Reel. Standing in front of a map drawn by PHS students are Bruce Milburn and Kermit Davis. Senior government and economics teachers Jon Theobald and Larry Dykes confer. CHAP teacher Larry Rasche successfully provides the history side of CHAP classes this year along with cohort Mr. Sweeney.

Social Studies

From Indiana history to government and economics, students got involved in the PHS social studies curriculum. With some basic requirements to fill, students still had much choice in their classes because of the phase elective system. Many opted for CHAP—Cultural History of the American People—and combined their study of U.S. history and literature. Several seniors chose to take summer economics in order to leave their school year schedule open for other classes or, if they had planned well, to graduate early. Sociology and psychology broadened the curriculum and provided field trips to Central State Hospital and Crossroads Rehabilitation Center.

The chemistry class attempts to discover if an apple is an electrolyte.

"Biology isn't always bad" say the staff: Marion Potter, Nell Walthers, Bruce Baker, Marsha Musselman, and Bob Lynn.

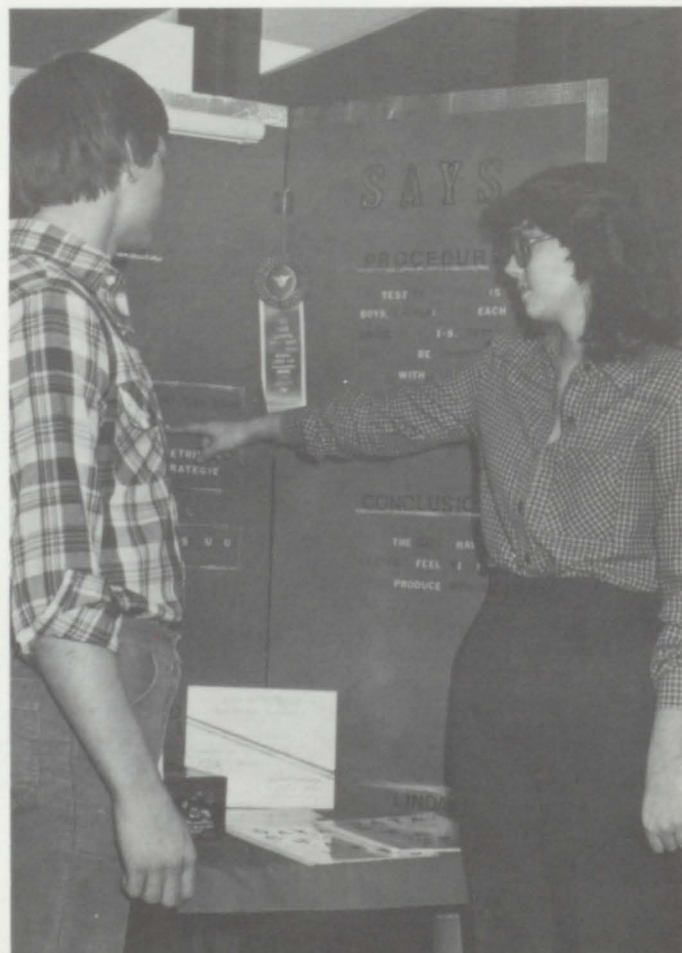

"Wow what an interesting titration" remarks Lisa Tuttle to John Smith.

Physical science students, Marcetta Stone, Brad Douglass, and Pat Landis perform an experiment.

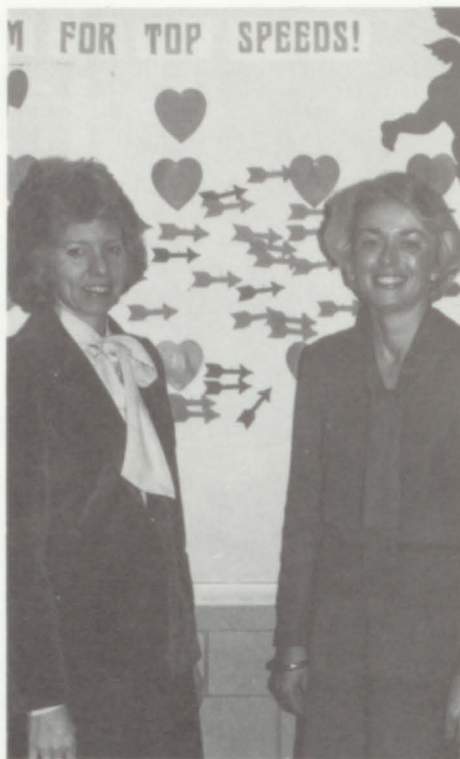

Chairman Dr. Ray Saxman and Chemist Charles Effinger confer over an experiment.

What a surprise Becky Dykins and Melissa Decker get when they discover the innards of a fetal pig.

A student at Plainfield High School must take at least one science course to graduate. Some choose physical science, a course that covers basic science information and experiments. Others take biology, where they learn about microbiology, plants, and the animal kingdom. Students who wish to study animals in greater depth also take advanced biology. Chemistry is a challenging course selected mostly by juniors and seniors. Good preparation might lead to an understanding of chemical formulas and equations. Physics requires good math skills as well as knowledge of the scientific method of inquiry. Students may also elect to work independently in research science where they develop projects for science fair competition. This year Linda Pitcock successfully competed in the fair and won herself a half tuition scholarship to Butler University.

OEA Winners: Patti Kiefer, Danita Frye, Rae Wininger, Tracey Krutschevski, Janet Boesch

Whether it was typing, accounting, general business or office lab, most students took some business courses at PHS before they graduated. Two organizations that offered students practical application of their skills were OEA (Office Education Association) and DECA (Distributive Education Clubs of America). An OEA District contest held at Pike High School in February resulted in several PHS winners: Janet Boesch, first in Records Management; Tracey Krutschevski, fifth in Advanced Typing; Danita Frye, second in Prepared Verbal II; Rae Wininger, third in Records Management; and Patti Kiefer, second in Extemporary Speech II. DECA ran the school's book store and donut shop and participated in state-wide competition. Trophy winners included the Decision-making merchandising team, 2nd in District, 2nd in state: Ed Bradley, Tony Drury, and Steve Sindors; Second Decision-making merchandising team, 3rd in District: Nancy Hanna, Shawn Antell, and Anita Williams; Decision-making human relations team, 2nd District: Jeff Wilson, Gary Brooks, and Brian Sellers; Petroleum series team, 3rd in District: Doug VanDemark and Gregg Riser.

Responsible for the higher math instruction are Madelyn Harwood, Eugene Brodie, Department Chairman Jay Clapp, and Ross McKenna.

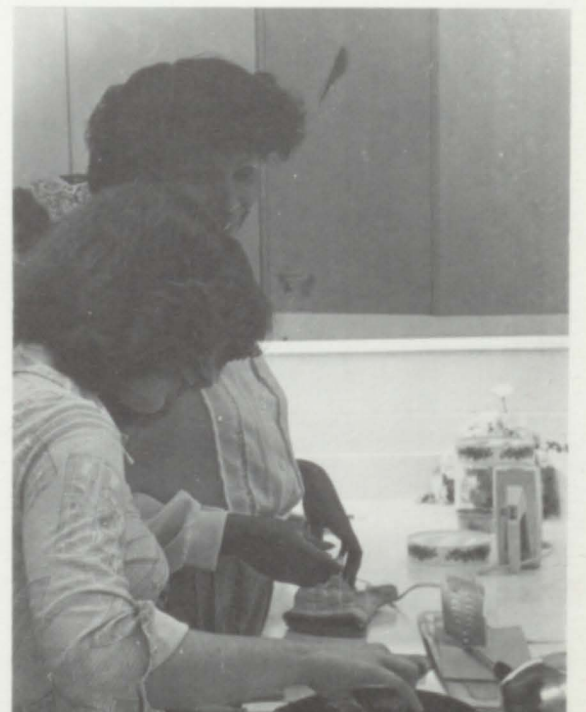

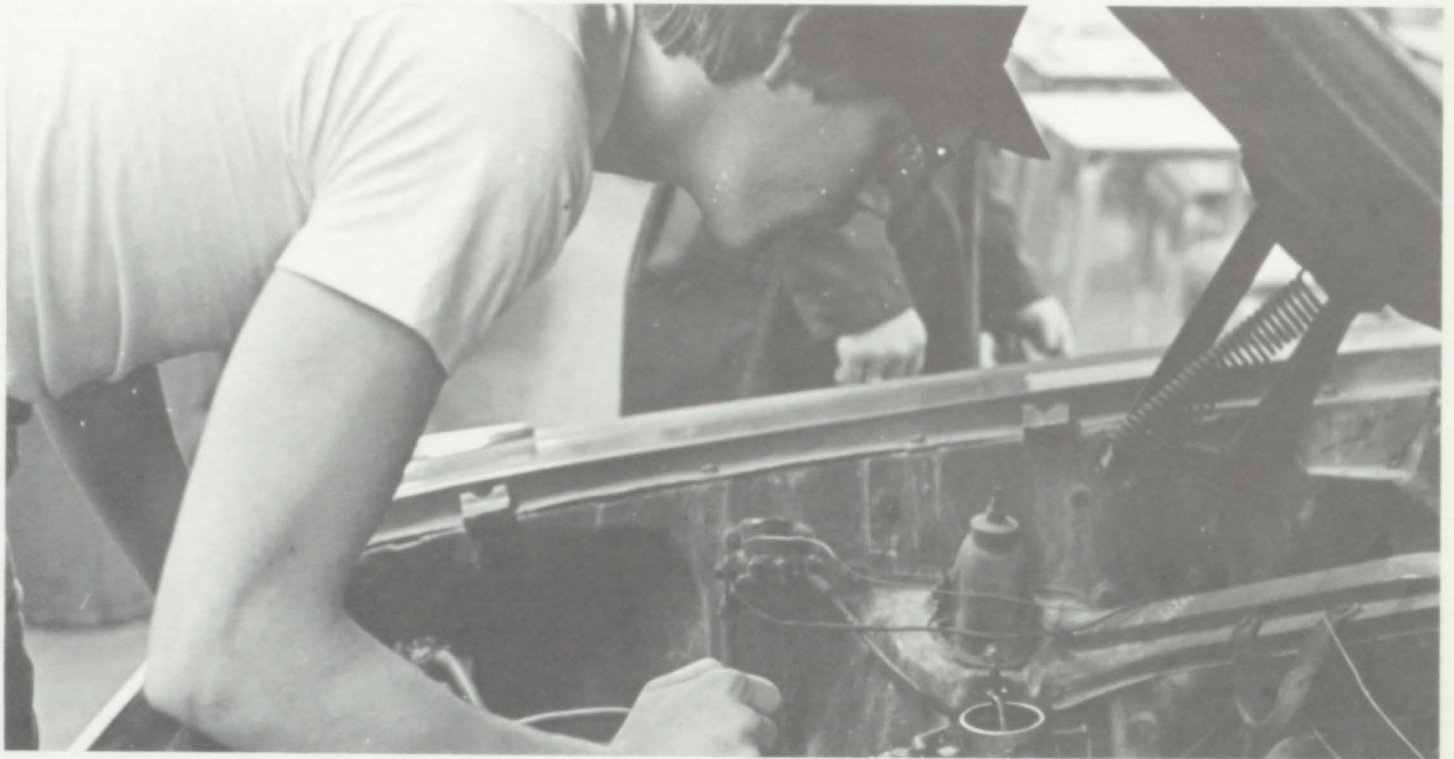

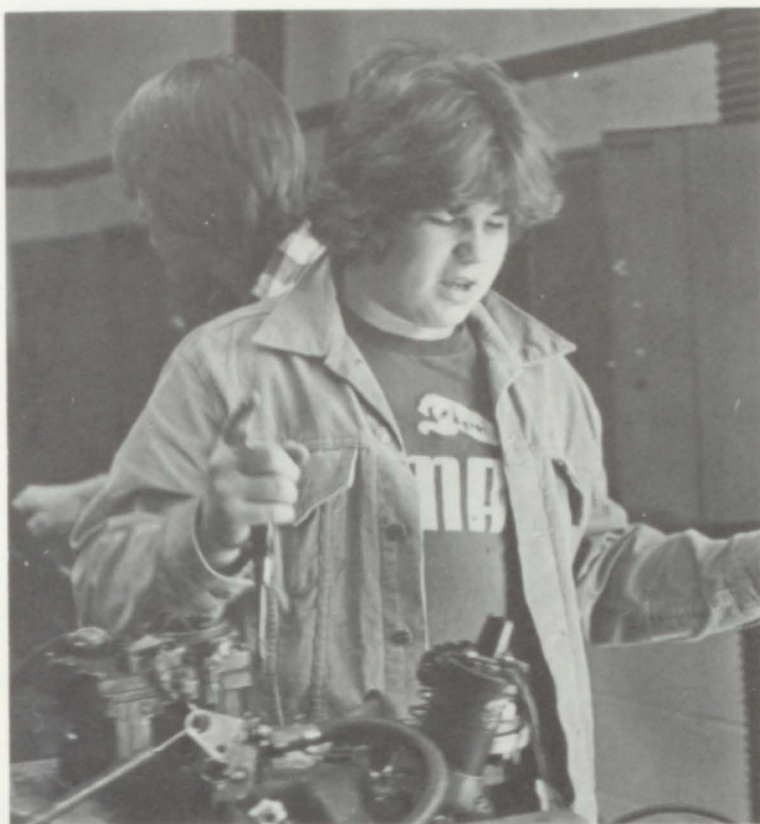

Mathematics

Math education this year was tough both for students and for teachers. Because of an apparent shortage of math teachers, Department Chairman Jay Clapp had to begin the year a teacher short, causing the existing math teachers to take on more classes than usual. Even Assistant Principal Lawrence taught a semester of general math. By winter, however, the program leveled out, Miss Lawrence returned to her duties full time, and math classes continued. Despite these difficulties, students still stayed after on Tuesdays for make-up geometry quizzes, still crammed for algebra tests, still made up 3×5 cards for final exams, and still ran to and from the 900 hall in less than the five-minute passing period ... usually.

Home Economics are courses that attempt to teach one how to survive in our everyday world. Home Ec courses offer such things as sewing, cooking, and Single Survival. Single Survival's goal is to teach boys to cook, sew, clean and survive on their own. Child development and interior decorating are other practical courses. A field trip to the Decorator's Show House gave the class a firsthand view of decorating techniques.

Industrial arts are mainly for boys but we do have a few exceptional girls who opt to select these courses. A person wishing to take high school shop has three main programs to choose from. He can take drafting courses to last him throughout his school life. Another program is the Auto Mechanics courses. One can choose to start out in Auto Mechanics as a sophomore and for his Junior and Senior years he can choose to take a two-year vocational course.

As Home Economic teachers, P.H.S. proudly presents: Valerie Vessley, Sherry Calvert, and Anna Hadley.

Choral Groups

Rehearsing whenever time allowed, Concert Choir and Belles and Beaux practiced their songs over and over until perfection.

Concert Choir performed during the Christmas and Spring concerts, plus Open House. They also sang on Monument Circle this year as a second Christmas program.

Belles and Beaux, consisting of exceptionally talented young men and women, is a small yet powerful swing choir directed by Peter Sims. They have entertained at convocations, churches, clubs, and organizations.

The Flag and Rifle Corps performed with the Marching Band at every home football game. They also competed at several contests which were held in the fall. To end their marching year, the Flags and Rifles placed third in the Indiana State University all-state march-offs. The Flags, Rifles, and Dance Corps also proved to be very exciting at home basketball games where they entertained the crowd with their colorful corps techniques.

Girls Glee and Cadet Choir added much to the school's music curriculum and expanded the musical talents of the members. Both groups, directed by Peter Sims, performed for the December 12 Christmas Concert, and then in May they performed for the spring Choral Concert with Belles and Beaux.

The purchase of stunning new outfits was just the beginning for the Plainfield Jazz Band I who received a first division rating at Depauw University. Kokomo Hayworth hosted a jazz festival where Plainfield won honor band. They also played at Indiana State University. Elmhurst, Terre Haute and Ball State jazz festivals. Jazz Band I also performed for Christmas and Spring concerts. Jazz Band II members began their musical year by receiving a First division award at Depauw University state contest. The Band also played for Christmas and Spring concerts. The Alumni Dance was set for May 3, and music for dancing was provided by Jazz Band II.

Jazz Bands

The Red Pride Showband, decorated with spinning rifles and twirling flags, represented our school in many ways. Band camp was first on the agenda; here blood, sweat and tears were shed to develop an exciting show. This show would be performed many times throughout the year. For the first time in Plainfield history, the band department hosted a marching band festival. Surrounding bands were invited to participate. The band added a dash of excitement to home football games by performing colorful half-time shows. After receiving a first at regional competition in Columbus, the band began to work much harder to prepare themselves for state competition. The Band completed their marching debut by marching off with eighth in the state at the I.S.U. state march-off.

Art & Sunshine Society

Sunshine Society is an organization that many girls may participate in. At Homecoming the group sells homecoming mums. During the year they visit a nursing home and pick stocking pals for their Christmas party. They select stationery and letter forms to send to their ideal lady and finally hold their Ideal Lady Dinner.

Students at P.H.S. have many art courses to select from, it just depends on where one's interests are. Students can select from drawing, painting, sculpting, or even leather-working. In today's world art plays an ever-increasing part in our everyday lives. Just think everytime you see a Coca Cola sign or a Ford Mustang Commercial, someone had to do art for that ad.

The PHS Drama Club has done more during the 79-80 season than in any other year with four major productions and eight plays. Interest was intense with more than 300 students involved in this year's program. The Club's best major production was the spring musical, South Pacific, done in concert with the choral department. One hundred and eighteen students were involved, and over 1500 people attended the two performances. During the Drama Club and Thespian awards night the outstanding members won Oscies, much to the delight and amusement of the Club. Delisa Rogers received a Director's Award for her outstanding contribution to PHS drama for the last four years. She also received the award for outstanding drama student. Wayne Long was named best actor and Jenny Niemeyer, best actress. A representative of the National Thespian Society attended the awards night to present the highly coveted Honor Thespian award to five students: Wayne Long, Jeff Owens, Delisa Rogers, John Himmelheber, and Suzie Roberts. His attendance was special, for a high school rarely has more than one Honor Thespian in a single year. The Club experimented with a year's-end Deli-Drama, initiated by the students themselves, which was quite successful and promises to become a part of the Drama Club's annual productions.

Drama, Speech & Thespians

The International Dessert Fest during Open House was the first combined foreign language activity in the 1979-1980 school year. It proved to be a great success featuring luscious pastries from around the world. The money made by the Desert Fest was shared by the clubs. On the first Saturday in February the French, German, and Spanish clubs boarded a bus early in the morning and went to the Nashville Alps in Brown County. Also, the clubs individually planned trips to special restaurants.

Health and Physical Education

Under the direction of Department Chairman Dave Teany, health and physical education courses provided opportunity for study of anatomy and health issues as well as recreation during the school day. Health classes covered topics of mental health, first aid, effects of drinking and smoking on individuals, major health problems, sex education, and death. Physical education classes offered a variety of activities from swimming and aerobic dancing to volleyball and tennis. A new weight training machine made athletic fitness easier to attain. It was used by boys' and girls' classes as well as by faculty.

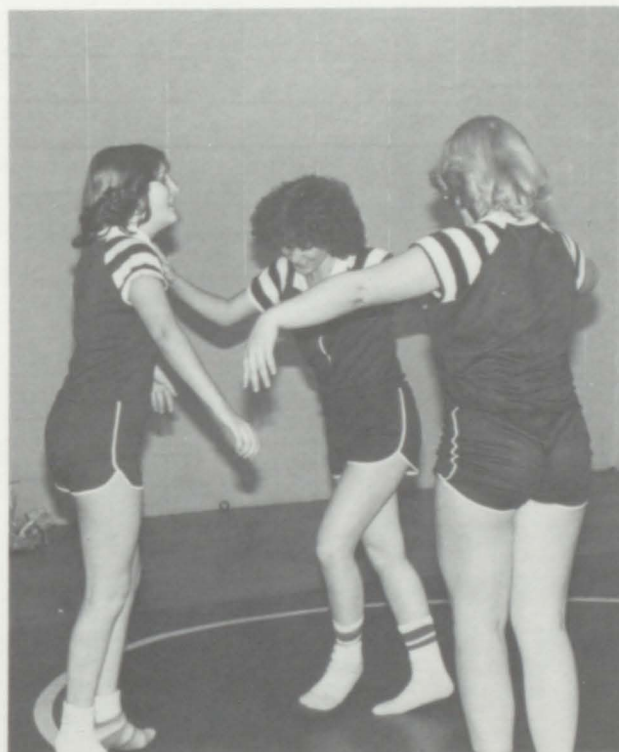

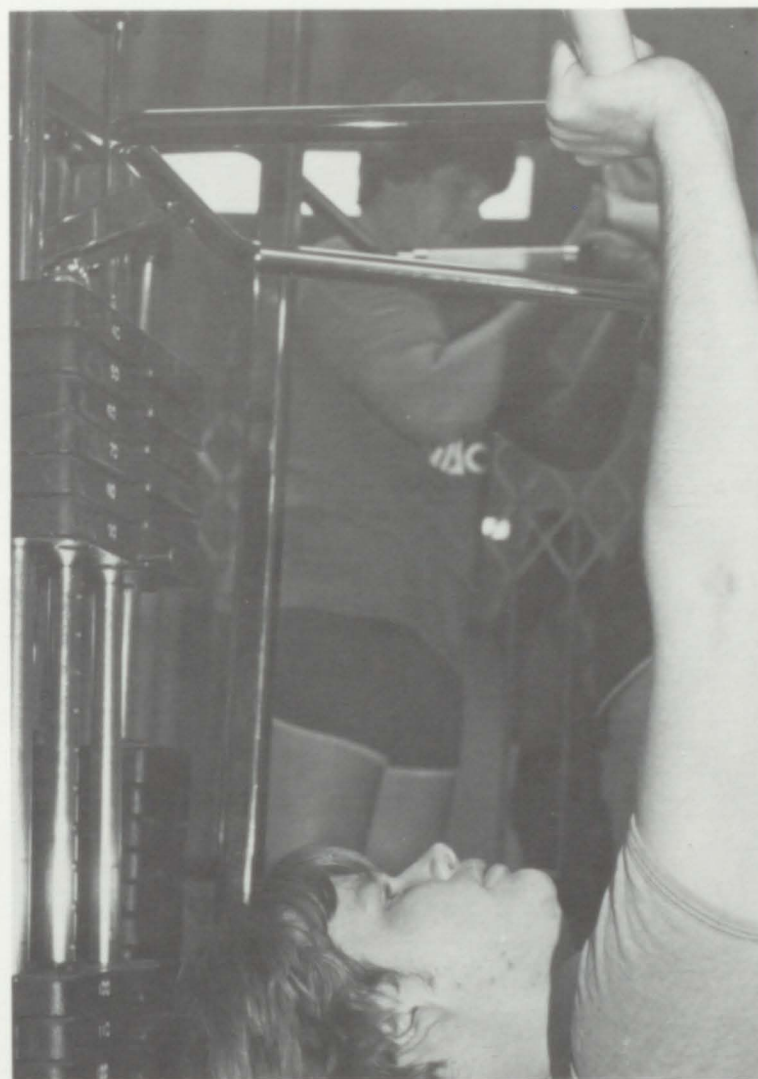

Health class members Mike Hetisimer, Eric Nysewander, and Eric Jones review with Mr. Teany before upcoming test.

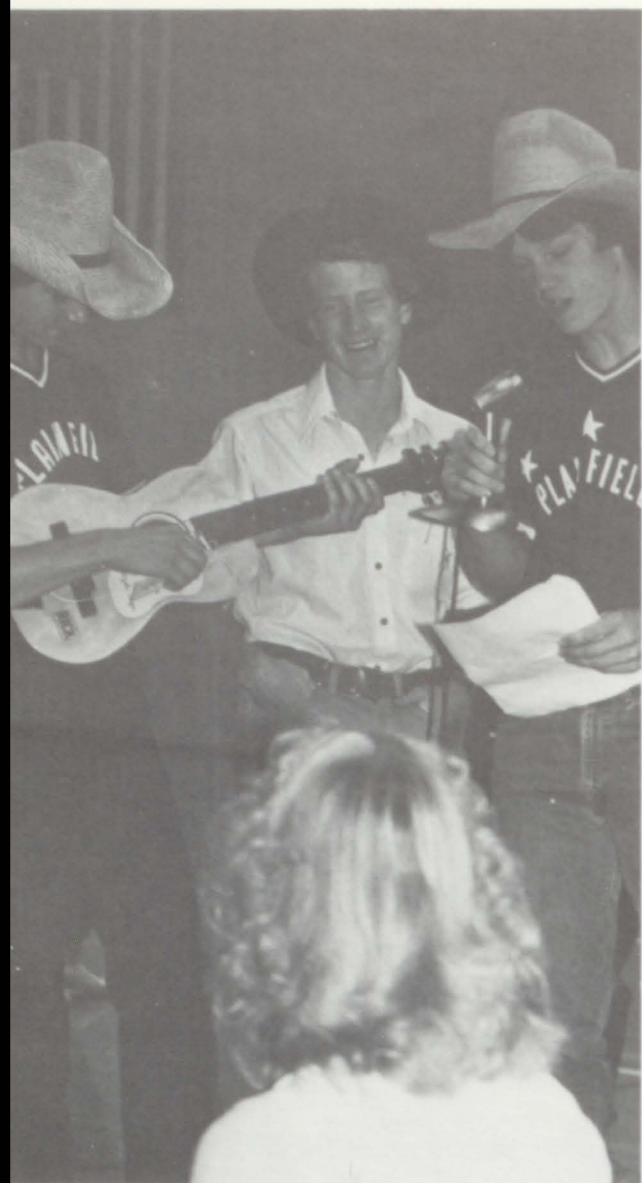

P.E. classes offer seasonal sports like golf. Instructing students in P.E. as well as coaching are teachers Kathy Christoph, Ann Wells, and Beth Masariu.

The Student Council, sponsored the Homecoming Float Contest, Powder Puff, Almost Anything Goes, and Field Day. At Christmas the Council held their annual party for selected children of the community. With spring in the air and love a big topic, a computer match service was provided by the Council. They also sponsored the Barn Dance to spark up a long third quarter.

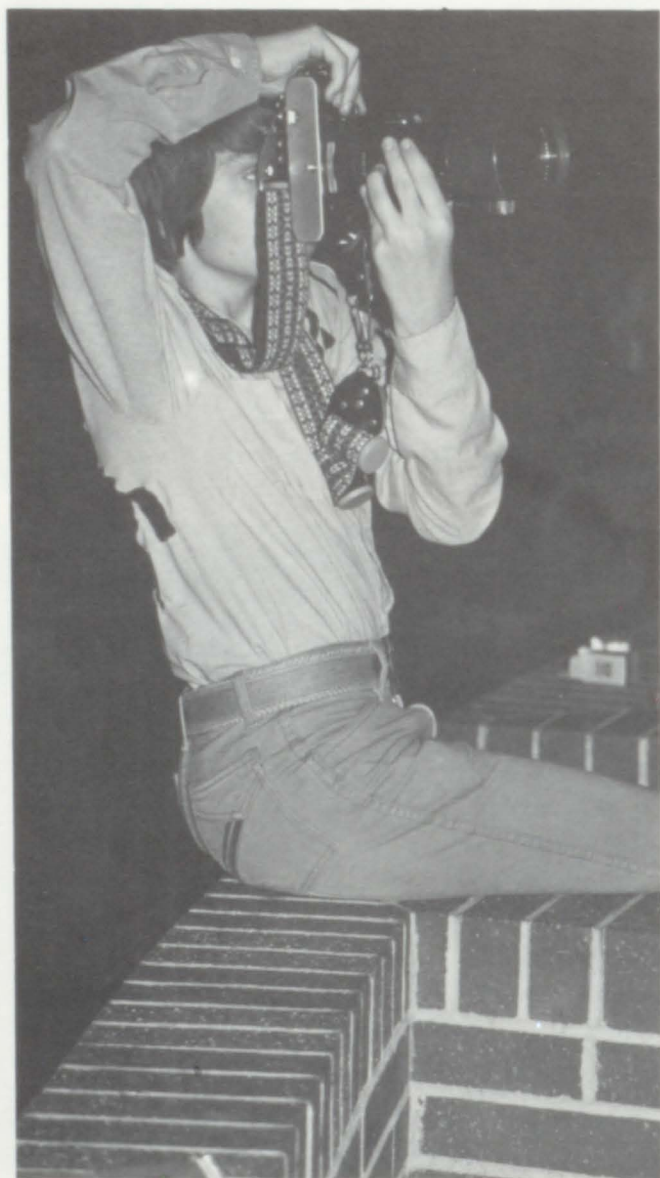

The National Honor Society consists of those students who have excelled in the qualities of scholastic achievement and leadership. The Society initiated 23 new members in April. Honor Society graduates were distinguished at graduation with gold cords adorning their gowns. The Valedictorian and Salutatorian wore cowls provided by the Society.

Camera club was again led by Linda Smith this year. The club consisted of six members. These seven people took all the pictures with their own cameras even though one was provided for their use. They took the pictures, developed the film, and finally printed the pictures one sees in his yearbook and newspaper.

At P.H.S. we have an unusual newspaper staff, that consists of five members and their sponsor, Janet Cumberworth. At the beginning of the year they planned to produce a paper quarterly. First they gathered and wrote their information for their separate articles. Then they went to the Flyer office and pasted up their layouts.

Silhouettes Staff

Canvassing the community of Plainfield was the first thing on the agenda for the yearbook staff. Money was collected for ads from the Plainfield businesses for the book. After this canvassing the yearbook staff set out to achieve placing the memories of the 79-80 school year between the covers of the 79-80 Silhouettes. Wednesdays were set aside to plan the pages of the book. At these meetings the members of the staff were taught how to crop, measure, and mark pictures. They also learned how to draw layouts. And we couldn't have done this without the time and effort of our sponsor, Carol Kellogg. For her second year she pumped life into the staff. Much worry was shed on her part as well as the members.

Looking for minute mistakes, Cindy Holmes, Beth Lamberson, Becky Dykins, and Julie Harpool look over the sports section.

On The Rise

Quaker Action

The Homecoming festivities on Friday, September 21, were the end result of two weeks of hard work. During those two weeks, the student body constructed floats and chose Queen and Princess candidates.

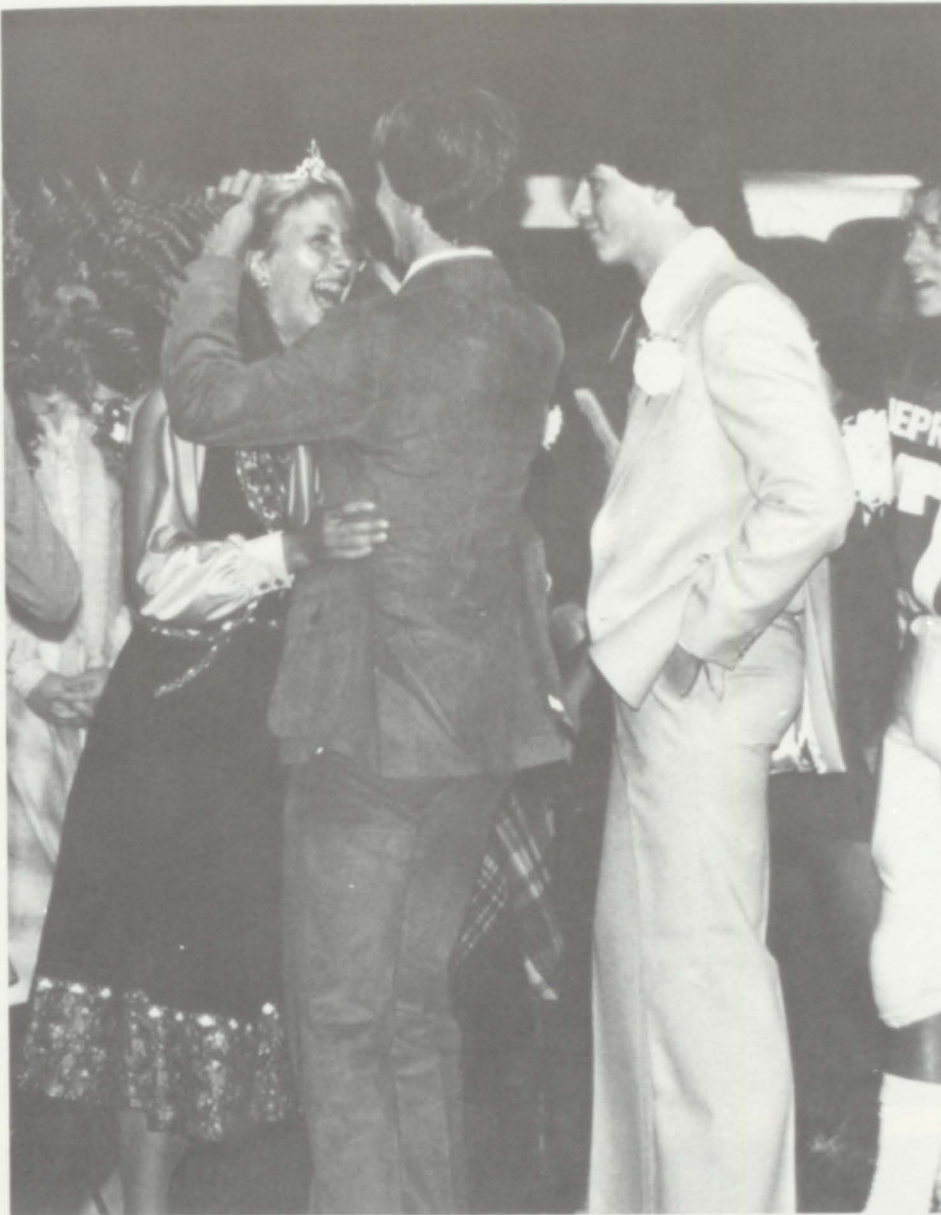

Although Homecoming day arrived with bad weather, everyone's spirits were lifted by a morning pep session. It featured caramel onions, a "Mr. Kool" contest and "The Charlie Rotten Band". The enthusiasm remained high through the parade and on into the game.

Halftime was highlighted when the Senior float captured a first place victory. Sharon Blair was named Homecoming Queen with a court of Melissa Keeton, Mindy Donelson and Kim Carter.

With Brazil leading 8-7 at halftime, the outcome of the game was in doubt. However, when the mighty Quakers scored twice in the second half to end the game 21-8 Quakers, the night was brought to an unbeatable climax thus ending another victorious Homecoming at PHS.

Drum major Doug Johnson leads the band in a spectacular Homecoming halftime.

This year's Powderpuff game was a conglomeration of past seasons. The freshmen-sophomore game was, for the second year, played as an opener to the junior-senior game. The one quarter match in some ways resulted in a total loss with neither team scoring, but in other ways served a prime purpose by arousing excitement in the crowd.

With both the junior and senior teams psyched up for a victory, the game looked to be a good one. As expected, both teams played well scoring evenly for the majority of the game. However, as usual, only one team could win. In this year's conflict, the undefeated senior team managed to pull out a victory over the juniors.

No girls' football season could be complete without a Powderpuff King and court, and ours was no exception. Leo Sackett was named King with Princes Tim Wilde, John Harris and Craig Wilson announced to round out another unforgettable Powderpuff halftime.

Powderpuff Victory Goes to Seniors

Posing pretty, the Powderpuff cheerleaders rouse the spirits of the crowd.

Practicing at Swinford Park, the junior team works hard for the big game.

Shocked at being announced Junior Prince, Tim Wild stands amazed.

Checking their accuracy, David Childers and John Staab mark the yardage for the Powderpuff game.

Hoisting Patti Kiefer up onto his shoulders, John Mohler spins her during one of his "drunken" moments in a scene from The Wild Flowering of Chastity.

The drunkard, Wayne Long, makes a poor takeoff when trying to fly. Mike Finken and Delisa Rogers look on alarmed.

Exchanging gossip and a bit of cash on the side, Suzie Folger and Celana Combs pause while Lynda Nelson pulls up her hose.

During The Wild Flowering of Chastity, the villainous Wayne Long proposes to ingenue Jenny Niemeyer.

Meek and mild banker Tim Benge tells decrepit Kathy Swaim of his so-called accidental fall down the hill during a scene from The Wild Flowering of Chastity.

In a scene from The Drunkard, the insane Julia Speaks baffles villain John Himmelheber with her frivolous tales.

The dismayed Delisa Rogers quiets her daughter Nancy Taylor by explaining her father, the drunkard, will one day return.

New things are being experienced at P.H.S. all the time and the drama department is no exception. Wishing to take a break from the heavy drama productions of past years, the department tried out two lively "melterdramers" instead.

Designed solely for entertainment, The Drunkard quickly led the audience through the life of a generous young man who turned to liquor and ruined the lives of his family. The Wild Flowering of Chastity, less complicated and more ridiculous, rounded the evening off with one last laugh.

Both performances were loaded with stand-up comedy, non-stop action, audience participation and unlimited laughs. All in all, the evening of frivolous comedy was a total success and proved a refreshing change for the Plainfield audience.

White Hats and Black Moustaches Preside Over the Drama Presentations

Madrigals have become a tradition at PHS and this year was no exception. With the Christmas season closing in, the Music Department was busy preparing for the traditional feast. The cafeteria was transformed into a medieval dining hall, complete with Christmas trees, by a crew made up of volunteers while the Belles and Beaux learned their music.

When the evening arrived, the trumpet fanfare announced that the dinner was to begin. The Belles and Beaux, dressed in traditional costumes, entered singing. After the boar's head was delivered by the singing Court Page, the traditional English dinner was served to the guests by choir members. As the tables were cleared after the meal, the evening's caroling began. The Belles and Beaux put on a spectacular performance which included some of the newer carols as well as many traditional ones, such as "Silent Night".

Belles and Beaux Once Again Don Madrigal Costumes

Trumpets, Doug Johnson, Julia Speaks, and J.V. Gilbert practice for the opening herald. Helping out with the evening's dinner, Starr Turner takes tickets at the door from people of all ages who have come to enjoy the Madrigal.

Carolers Brent English, Gene Margiotti, Julie Morton and Angie Walker sing after dinner.

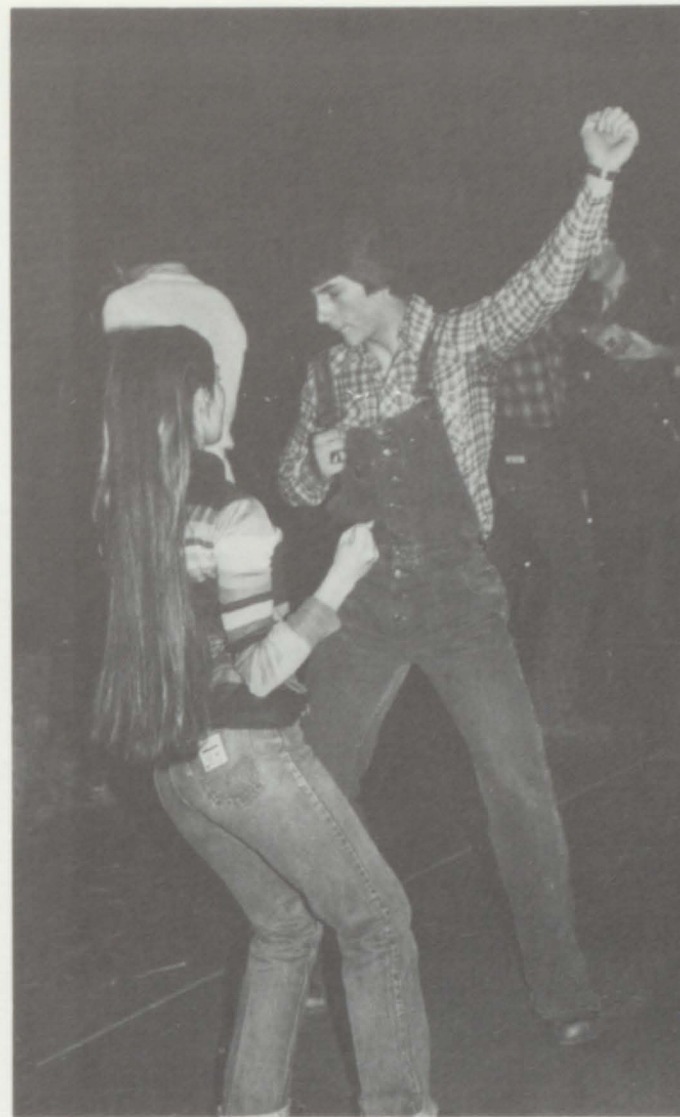

Holding the boar's head, Court Page Craig Wilson delivers a carol to the assembly.

PHS Has Hay-day at Barn Dance

On March first, the Student Council sponsored our second annual Barn Dance. Adorned with cowboy hats and bib overalls, students arrived in the cafeteria dressed for an evening of country fun. As the night progressed, everyone danced, drank cokes, and munched on free pretzels and potato chips. The evening was highlighted by a debut performance of the "Road Angels" band, whose members are students of PHS. After albums were given as door prizes and last year's Prom glasses awarded to game winners, everyone settled down to an enjoyable concert by the "Road Angels".

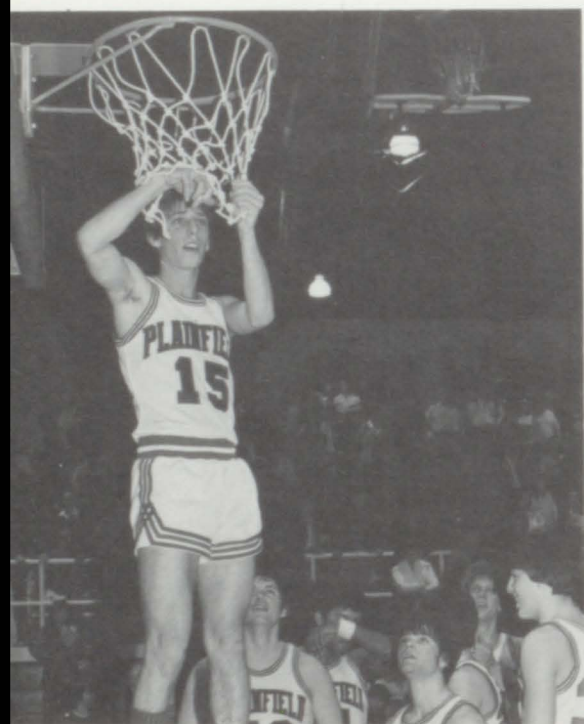

Making their first debut, the "Road Angels" entertain the Barn Dance crowd. As they take a break, students enjoy refreshments at the Barn Dance. While watching the action, Tim Stultz and Stacey Peters sit out a dance. Pulling ahead in the sack race, Della Rogers and Gerry Wright take the lead. Student Council members Diane Mosser, Wayne Brownell and Ron Sturgeon award last year's Prom glasses to the game winners. Sophomore Todd David lends his stereo and his help to the Barn Dance. Saturday Night Fever seems to linger as Kent Haggard and Melissa Decker dance to a little faster tune.

Spirit abounded in the hearts of every Quaker as sectional time rolled near. The student body was fully prepared to support the team to the end and all of their enthusiasm paid off as the mighty Quakers walked away with the title of 1980 Sectional Champs. Excited and overjoyed, everyone began a week of anticipation awaiting regional Saturday. To keep spirits high, students dressed in crazy clothes and even held a funeral for the Bulldogs. Although some, after the regional loss, would say it was all done in vain, the Quaker team was, as always, held in high esteem.

Quakers Reign Over Sectionals

Listening quietly, the basketball team receives final game strategies from Coach Firschau. Proving to the student body that they've still got it, Mr. Sweeney and the "Jive Five" give their rendition of the quiet cheer. While cutting down his portion of the sectional net, Bruce Sims enjoys the thrill of victory. Senior J.V. Gilbert concentrates intensely as he dribbles down the regional court. With a look of sheer ecstasy, Coach Firschau is triumphantly carried off the court. Displaying his mystical powers, the great "Conyak" predicts the questions for the concealed answers. At the sectional game, an excited crowd cheers the varsity team on to a victory.

Almost Anything Goes at P.H.S.

On March fourteenth, the Fellowship of Christian Athletes held another action-packed "Almost Anything Goes." Faculty members and students were persuaded early by FCA sponsor Mr. Conley to sign up and participate in the tense battle. As the long-awaited day approached, everyone, students and administration alike, became impatient. When the fourteenth finally arrived, all was in place and with only a brief explanation, the hottest of all the class rivalries was underway. The competition was rough and the lead fluctuated from team to team all night. The evening ended when the juniors emerged victorious in this clash of the classes.

The senior butt-ball team ambles down the basketball court.

Once again, the faculty team proves to be a total fiasco at pyramid building.

The junior and senior teams hop neck and neck for the lead.

Senior John Kirtley gets a little help from teammate Larinda Ferrell.

As the curtain opened, the audience saw a stage transformed into an island plantation and, with the singing of "Dites-Moi", an evening of entertainment began. South Pacific was one of the most beautiful productions ever staged at Plainfield. Amidst native girls, nurses, and delinquent service men, the audience watched two growing romances. As both romances grew, they each moved towards separate fates. One ended tragically with the death of Lt. Cable, but Emile's and Nellie's romance ended joyfully. After the final curtain went down, everyone had to agree that South Pacific was a big success.

Music Department's South Pacific Makes Big Splash

Bloody Mary (Reenie Whitfield) and her daughter Liat (Donna Carr) sing the song "Happy Talk" to Lt. Cable (Brad Saxman). Looking into the orange, Stew Pot, played by Tim Stultz, and Luther Billis, played by Wayne Long, sing of the tropical island Bali Ha'i.

"What ain't we got? We ain't got dames," sings the boys chorus.

The cast sings "Hunny Bun" in the USO show as Wayne Long leaps into Cindy Snodgrass' arms.

Leading role Emile de Becque (David Ruark) holds Nellie Forbush (Cindy Snodgrass) in his arms while singing "Some Enchanted Evening".

Admiring the bracelet, Reenie Whitfield tells Wayne Long of its significance.

As the USO show continues, Cindy Snodgrass sings to the enlisted men.

P.H.S. Prom for Just You and Me

Shortly after Christmas vacation, students began volunteering for various positions on Prom Committee. Once they decided to use "Just You and Me" as the theme, everything began to fall into place. Due to the Friday night rather than Saturday night date, many Prom Committee members took a field trip to the Murat on Friday, April 25, where the abundance of last minute preparations had everyone edgy. When the couples finally began arriving in the Egyptian room of the Murat Temple that night, they entered a beautifully decorated room complete with a gazebo and fountain. As the evening began to wind down, couples left for home and a change of clothes before heading towards the High School Gymnasium and Post Prom activities. Plenty of refreshments, games, and prizes were at the disposal of the students and made for a fun end to the gala evening.

With a chance to use up some extra energy, students participate in a Post Prom volleyball game.

Cooling off from the evenings fun, Donna Wolf and Doug Patrick receive a glass of punch served by sophomore class members.

During a band break, dates and friends get a chance to discuss the evening events.

When the music strikes up, couples take the opportunity for a little dancing.

As the Prom gets underway, couples promenade through the entranceway.

While making last minute preparations, Laura Beaman distributes Prom pamphlets and napkins to the tables.

Field Day '80 Makes For a Fun Afternoon

For the second time, the Student Council sponsored a spring Field Day. The finish of a year's worth of clash of the classes competition, the afternoon was packed with plenty of fun and excitement. All of the events, ranging from a tug-of-war to a pig skin sweep, were held on the football field and tested the strength and stamina of every student involved. Set up the same as last year, freshmen played sophomores, juniors played seniors, and the winners competed for first place. When the day was done, scores showed a win for the sophomores, but a final victory for the seniors in the clash of the classes.

Freshman Debbie Ferrell catches up with Tom Hawk long enough to swipe his hat and score a point for her team.

Jumping the hurdle in the obstacle course, Becky Butters gains a lead for the freshman team.

Taking a first in the stretcher race, seniors show their emotions.

Juniors Wayne Brownwell's and Beth Gee's faces show how much they enjoyed Field Day after they competed in the three-legged race. Student council members Becky Bennett and Monique Hamby help Mrs. Strube and Mr. Sweeney tally the scores for the day.

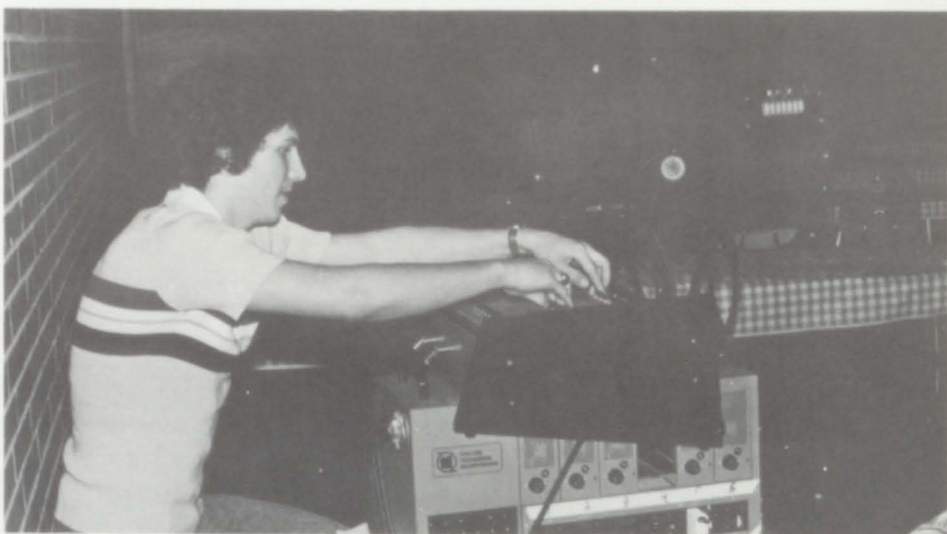

The freshman tug-of-war team gives it their all as Mr. Dykes and their classmates cheer them on.

With intense concentration, Mike Finken rounds a cone with a football.

With great enthusiasm, the drama department once again pursued a new venture. The idea of the Deli-Drama was thought up entirely by drama students, and the four one-act plays were presented by members of the advanced acting class. Offering make-your-own sandwiches and other delicatessen type food, the Deli-Drama provided the audience a delicious change. Unlike the formal attire of the fall drama presentations, the Deli-Drama was set in a very casual atmosphere allowing everyone to relax, sit back, and enjoy the show. As the curtain, made up of drama students, fell, the audience applauded and gave their approval for future Deli-Drama presentations.

Deli-Drama Starts '80 With New Flair

Deli-Drama captures the audience's attention. Junior Brian Sellers controls the lights for the plays.

During the Impromptu Play, Paula Arnold hams it up with Jeff Owens.

Before the plays begin, Jan Jones serves the drinks.

"You're just trying to confuse me," says Wayne Long to Starr Turner in the play I'm Herbert.

In The Fatal Quest, the king Jeff Owens steps down from his throne with a little help from the queen Julia Speaks.

In I Never Saw Another Butterfly, Suzie Roberts and Marty Long reminisce of better days before the concentration camp.

Shaking hands, Richard Phillips receives his diploma from Mr. Perkins.

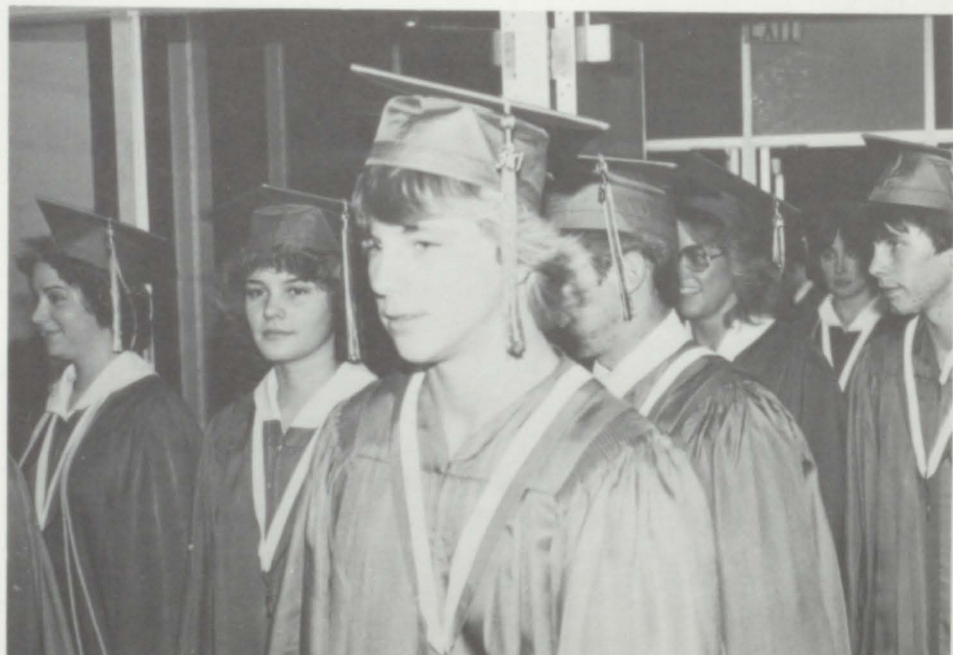

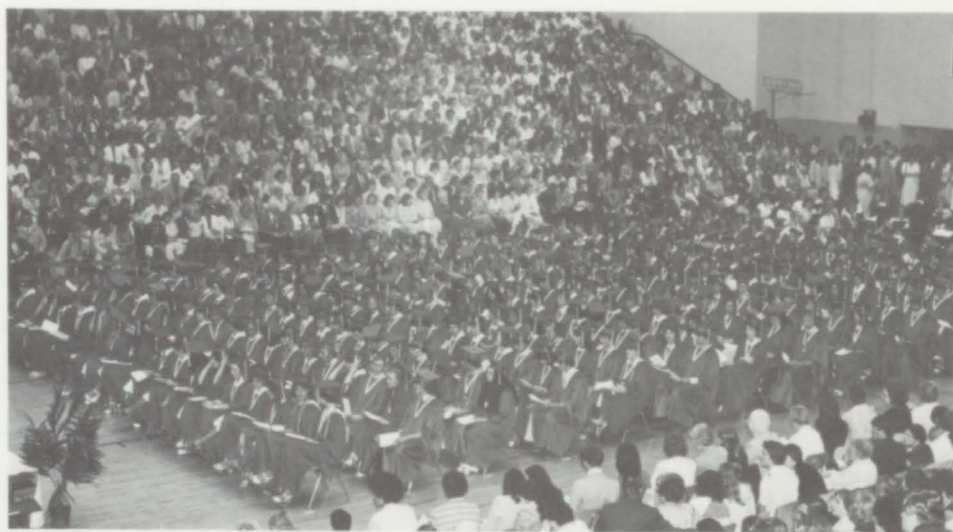

While the band plays on, graduates reminisce of the years past.

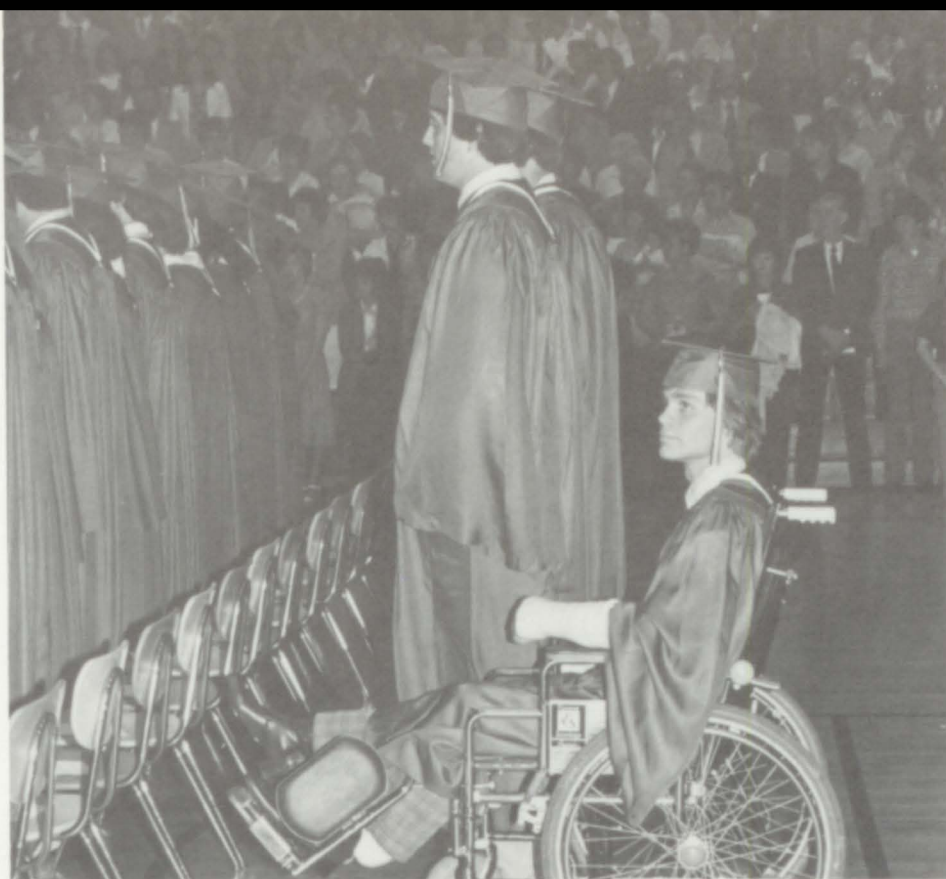

Lining up, graduates await that old familiar tune "Pomp and Circumstance."

Neither rain nor sleet nor broken bones can stop Gene Reinhard from attending Graduation.

While picking up his tassel, graduate Gary Brooks congratulates fellow classmate Kerry Green.

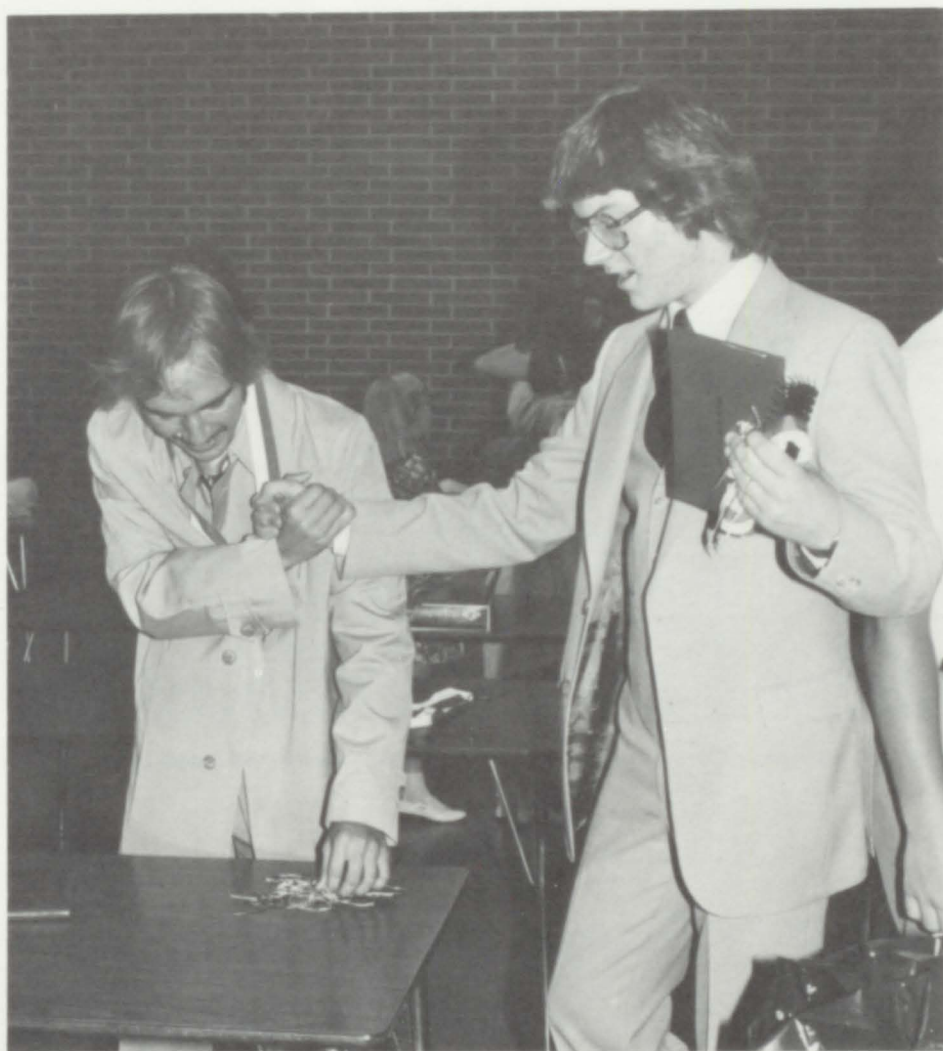

Valedictorian Diane Mosser addresses her fellow classmates and friends.

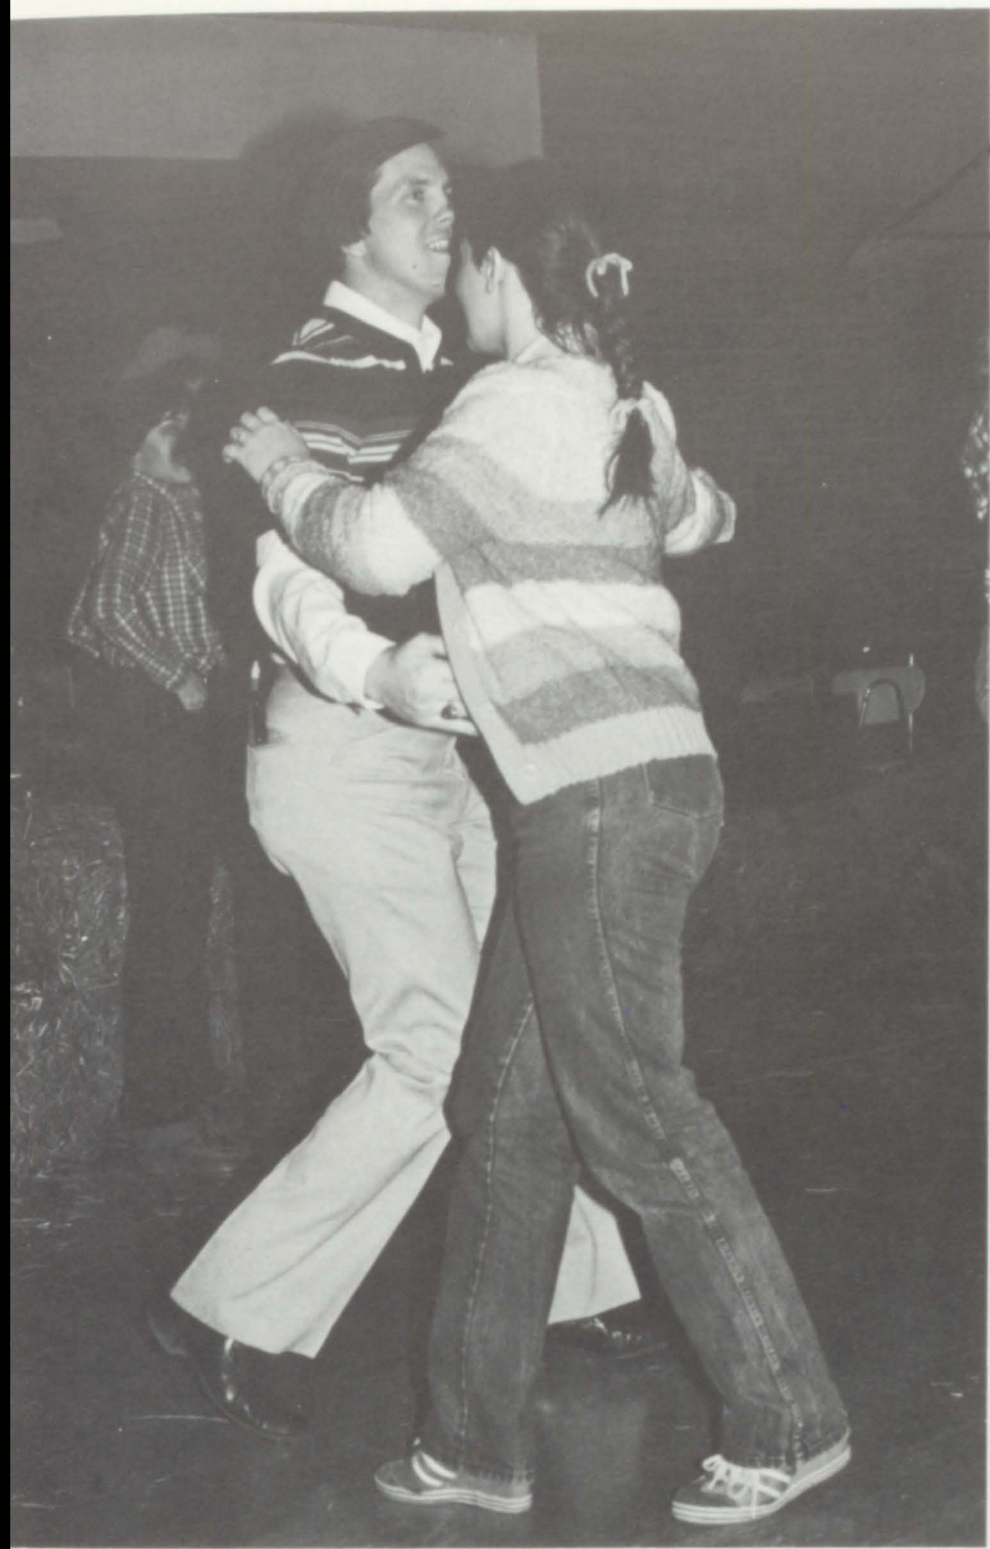

New Decade Brings New Adventures for Seniors

As the band struck up "Pomp and Circumstance," the graduating class of 1980 stepped out into the gymnasium for the last official High School activity of their careers. Although the afternoon practice had everyone worried and confused, they all made it to the right place and everything went well. Once the graduates were seated, Rev. Joe Walters gave the invocation, Robert Garis spoke to all of the graduates, and Diane Mosser gave her Valedictory Address. After the presentation of diplomas, Class President Janet Boesch directed the class in the turning of the tassels and, with a shower of ping pong balls, the class of 1980 began the start of a new life.

The seniors made their last year a year at the top. Their activities and fun began with the school year, although the absence of classmate Jeff Bowden was sorely felt, as was the loss of Paul Ellis, whose death occurred at the year's end.

Homecoming gave the seniors their first victory with a winning float. Another soon followed as the girls defeated the juniors 6-0 in Powderpuff. Such accomplishments led the seniors to an overall win and the position of #1 in the Clash of the Classes. Winter heralded sober thoughts as SAT tests crept up along with semester finals and the dreaded economics paper. Thoughts of Spring Break and Prom kept spirits up, though, and measuring for caps and gowns and ordering announcements kept graduation on their minds. That big day finally arrived to end a lot of good times, but the rise of the eighties began a rise of new beginnings for the Class of 80.

Class of 1981 moves up

Juniors entered their next-to-last year at PHS full of pep and ready to tackle the Clash of the Classes. Their first major activity was Homecoming. Flower fluffing and float construction sidelined juniors for a week as they brewed up a devilish stew. To represent them in the Homecoming Queen's Court they elected Melissa Keeton as Junior Princess. Without a moment's pause juniors organized their Powder Puff team, ordered jerseys, and gave the seniors a tough contest. Tim (Oscar) Wilde earned the junior title as Prince. Almost Anything Goes went to the juniors while Field Day offered another chance to work as an outstanding team. Sponsoring the Prom wrapped up the social year. Good weather and hasty last minute arrangements paid off with a memorable evening. Interspersed with this was, of course, school. PSATs and SATs were cause for nailbiting along with chemistry, PREP, and other typically tough junior courses.

Junior float predicts that Plainfield Quakers will spoon up a victory over the Brazil Red Devils, and they did!

The Sophomore Class returned this year to face a rigorous program of school work, drama, and sports. Despite all this activity, Sophomores still managed to participate in other class functions like roller skating, bake sales, and car washes. After a long wait, the Sophomores received their class rings. The class of 1982, as a whole, proved once again—they're ready for anything.

Princess candidates Dana Spikes, Mindy Donelson, and Joni Pappas anxiously await the start of the Homecoming Parade.

Busily preparing papier-mache, sophomore workers enjoy an evening at float building.

Sophomores Show Talent

Frosh float pulls out of Van Buren school's lot to begin parade trek to the Homecoming game.

Freshmen at PHS—the Class of 83—moved into the high school with spunk and spirit. They began to clash for points at Homecoming when they built an impressive float with class sponsor Valerie Vessely. Their strong Powder Puff team kept the sophomores busy during a tough quarter of play. Fall also brought the frosh their chance to order class rings. Moving into winter, the Class of 83 tackled classes, went to the library or student lounge during unassigned periods, and settled into a practically snowless quarter. Almost Anything Goes perked up the class and prepared them for Field Day. The freshmen anticipate three more great years at PHS.

For some—especially those in the senior class of 1980—the end of school marked the final closing of the PHS doors. But for others, a four-day vacation was all they had, because doors opened again on Thursday, May 29, for drivers education and government classes. At the same time, the pool was used for community swim lessons and recreation, and its activities offered employment to several PHS'ers. Other students were busy with school-related activities, too: band camp at Manchester College, yearbook conference at Ball State University, Boys' and Girls' States, and cheerleader and basketball camps. Weeks before the doors opened wide in the fall, athletes were practicing on the new football field. PHS and its students never really called it quits at all.
