The Pulse

P is for pulse. P is for Plainfield and the heartbeat of the new school year began at 7:40 on Guesday, August 25, 1987. It was the beginning of a new year; the school day had been shortened. New state and local requirements would keep students in more classes and require four years of English. There would be no early dismissals and snow days would be made up. The administrative duties had been rearranged and there were some new faces in the faculty.

On the first day though, none of that mattered. With confidence, we all planned to do the best we could, make better grades, take good class notes, keep our lockers clean, stay out of trouble, and always be on time to class. It was a new start and we had great intentions of achieving these goals. And we did, at first. But good intentions got lost along the way. Even the shortened school day seemed long.

But, we meant well. We tried out the new fads, reunited with old friends and made some new acquaintances. And now the pulse that was PHS would remain with us for the rest of our lives.

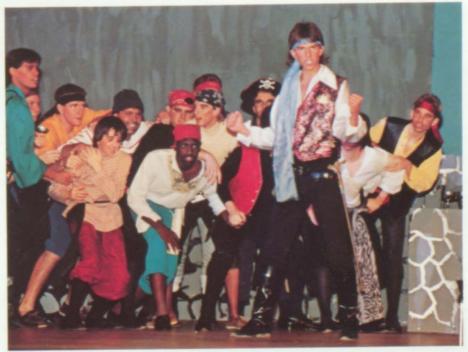

On a bright fall evening, the PHS Color Guard marches down Simmons Street in the lead of the annual homecoming parade. The homecoming court consists of queen Amy Gossman and princesses junior Lori Jackson, sophomore Lisa Cangany and freshman Amber Grononger.

One of several Student Council responsibilities is to serve at open house; John Hall and Eric Schafhauser are distributing programs at the entrance. In a scene from Pirates of Penzance, Eric Graves is backed up by his pirate pals.

Marcie Glazier doesn't seem overly interested in the football game. The painted faces and the dominant red and blue illustrate Quaker pride at sectionals.

The Pulse

After his premier season last year, the Quaker man is very popular with the fans. During a cake decorating contest at a pep session, Mr. Conley, Mr. Wilhelm, Miss Robinson and Shannon Davis look on as Mrs. Rink blindly attacks the cake.

Another per session activity featured teams competing in feats such as hula hoop, somersaults, crab walking and toe ouches as illustrated by Mr. Milburn.

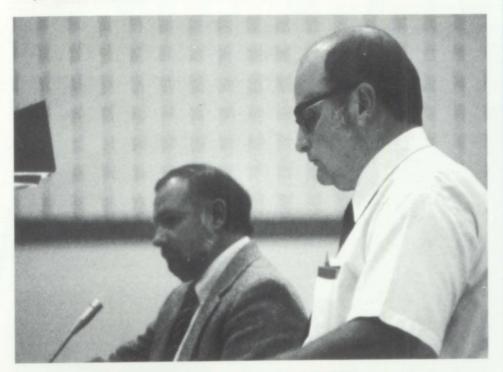

Football players stretch the calf muscles to get limber prior to game time. Divers Kim Haley and Nikki Robinson give one another support during a break in the competition.

To read the words, time the contestants and show the correct spelling on the overhead projector are the jobs of spell bowl moderators Mr. Sweeney and Dr. Saxman.

The Pulse of PHS. Pulse implies the pumping of blood to and from the heart. In other words, pulse implies life.

The life, or pulse, of PHS has many dimensions. School is books and classes, pens and pencils, rules and restrictions, tests and quizzes and homework, tardies and detentions, clubs and sports and plays and practices and lunch "hours" and report cards and finally, students and teachers-friends. People.

People: the real pulse of PHS. They are the students and teachers, coaches and cooks, administrators and substitutes, bus drivers and aides, janitors and friends. The people who walk in at 7:40 each day are the lifeblood, the heartbeat, the pulse of PHS.

Heath Helgason, freshman, doesn't appear shy when approached by the photographer. Timing at the swim meets are Stacey Lundy, Angie Jones and Erin Mossman.

Grant Schlegel appears otherwise occupied while the expressions of Scott Frisbie and Amy Fanning show dissatisfaction with the long bus trip to Wisconsin.

From the moment the first beat of the heart is heard, a child learns. This being comes into the world to be guided, led and taught by others so that some day, this child will be capable of the same. Through infancy, childhood, grade shoool, and now high school, an individual develops. More than text book learning is acquired. Our parents gave us the foundation, the values and personality. Being in classes taught students punctuality, responsibility and respect in addition to the subject matter. Clubs and sports taught teamwork, working with others, cooperation, and again, responsibility. Our successes taught pride while our not so successful ventures taught humility.

Whether parents, teachers, students, administrators or friends, the "others" were responsible for teaching and nurturing and guiding us. Through the highs and lows of it all, the heartbeat, the pulse, the people of PHS kept us going. And this is just the beginning.

New addition to PHS, Coach Schwanekamp points a finger and expresses his displeasure with a play on the gridiron. Sophomore Suzanne Pyatt emerges wet and exhausted after a quick race.

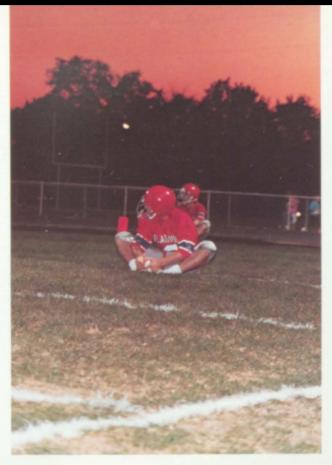

Concentration is the name of the game for senior John Gouge during the county spell bowl competition held at PHS. Not entirely content with his predicament, senior Joe Hammond demonstrates his perserverance.

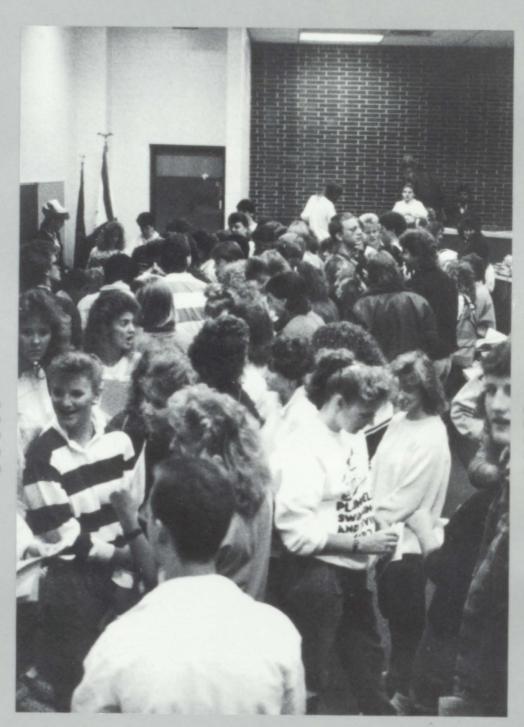

Pregame warmups are highlighted by a spectacular sunset. This Hawaiian version of wigged cheerleaders, Larry Heckathorn, John Hall, and Curt VanWanzeele appear apprehensive about recording their dress on film.

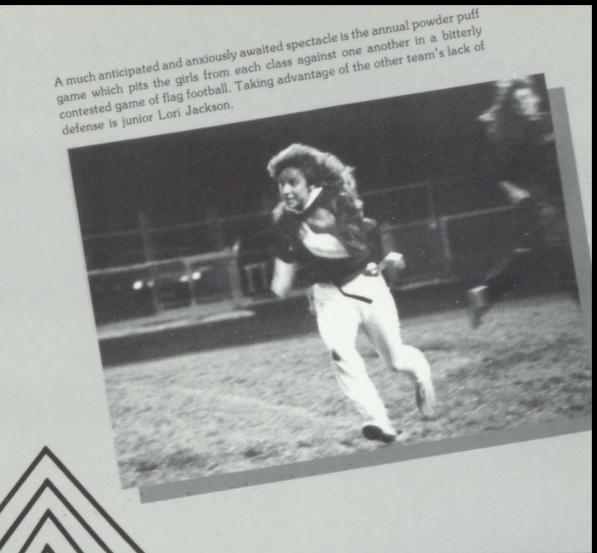

Sporting spring break attire during sectional week, these seniors braved freezing March winds to heighten their team's spirits. With a definite lack of professional cake decorating technique, Ralph Western is coaxed by his teammates.

What looks like total confusion is the first of many steps undertaken during the senior year. The Class of '88 is placing orders for announcements, name cards, personalized stationery and most importantly, being measured for the red or blue cap and gown for the long awaited graduation night.

Student Life

Pep sessions this year included wrestling bears and a test of physical skills performed by teams from each class and the faculty. The best pair of legs contest featured the hidden bodies and exposed legs of David Jordan, Ralph Western, Mark Satterfield, Joe Hammond, and
Brooks Mitchell. The cheerleaders assist with the competition.

Pirates of Penzance

Rollicking Band of Pirates Hits Plainfield's Stage

Major General Stanley regrets the errors of his ways while the swashbuckling pirates celebrate their good fortune.

Prior to the curtain call, sophomore Spencer Beaman applies senior Matt Theobald's beard. Mabel, Nicole Crager, shows her dismay at the actions of the wards and pirates.

Frenzied by the approaching attempt to capture the pirates, the Keystone Kops unite in song.

The many young wards of Major General Stanley share a light moment before discovering they share an island with pirates.

The 1987 fall musical featured a fierce band of pirates, an innocent group of pretty wards, and a bunch of zany cops in The Pirates of Penzance by Gilbert and Sullivan.

The large cast began work in September and went through two months of hard rehearsals under hot lights. Practices frequently began at 5:30 and often lasted until 10:00 P.M.

The roles were varied with a large support cast including three large groups: the Keystone Kops, the pirates, and the young ladies left in the dubious care of Major General Stanley. The lead roles were aptly filled with the acting skills and strong voices of Steve Cobb as Frederic, Nicole Crager as Mabel, Eric Graves as the pirate king, Julie Kennedy as Frederic's guardian, and Rob Pyatt as the Major General.

"Songs" Theme for 1987 Homecoming

The juniors "jump for joy" when they receive the first place float award thus shutting out the seniors in float competition. On route to the football field for a memorable evening is junior princess candidate Christi Andrews.

The weeks of preparation on the part of the Student Council conclude with the parade line-up at the plaza; the band leads the parade down Simmons Street; a huge crowd gathers to see the Quakers dominate the line of scrimmage against the Whiteland Warriors in a 17-0 victory.

It was a wonderful 79 degree evening as the parade began and by nightfall, a warm atmosphere was generated by the crowd. As the evening progressed, the spectators didn't have a lot of cheer about and in the first half, neither did the seniors. For the fourth straight year, they failed to bring home a blue ribbon in the float competition, although the float was impressive. The juniors celebrated all evening having won after two unsuccessful years. And in the second half those in attendance enjoyed watching the Quakers scalp the Whiteland Warriors with a final score of 17-0.

Amy Gossman was selected as the homecoming queen while junior Lori Jackson, sophomore Lisa Cangany, and freshman Amber Groninger were selected to serve as princesses by their classmates.

Denim and Name Brands Still Popular

As the school day got shorter, so did many of the fashions. 1987-88 was the year of miniskirts, cropped shirts, and short hair. Denim was as popular as ever with frosted, acidwashed, stonewashed, and traditional blue jeans. Popular designer names included Guess?, Pasta, Camp Beverly Hills, and Liz Claiborne.

Sweats bearing college logos also became more popular. Not only were the traditional I.U. and Purdue sweats worn, but also Arizona, Yale, Harvard, U.C.L.A., West Point, Notre Dame, and Alabama appeared.

On the entertainment scene, the top movie hits seemed to be "Dirty Dancing" and "Three Men and a Baby." Hot concerts included U2, INXS, and the four-time sold out John Cougar Mellencamp concert. Also more popular in music were CD's.

Collectibles from fast-food restaurants also seemed to be popular. Leading the list of collectibles were the California Raisins. Poundpuppies, Christmas reindeer, folk bears, Garfield mugs, and Gus and Jacques, the Cinderella Christmas mice, were also collected.

Senior econ classes also started their own fads by peddling their merchandise to the underclassmen. They sold Quaker tanks, mugs, buttons, and notepads and entertained the student body with their "special announcements."

Marla Lich and Keri Hemphill model some of the year's popular fashions by Pasta, Liz Claiborne, and Camp Beverly Hills.

Flag Football Raises Prom Money and Delights Fans

Sophomore Curt VanWanzeele looks on in dismay at the action on the field. Senior Tonya Saulsbury has the support and blocking of teammates Suzette Reed and Carolyn Lane. Topping off the senior pyramid is cheerleader Chuck Winkle.

Freshman Clint Nelwin celebrates his appointment as freshman prince with a hug from his escort. Shelley VanWanzeele, sophomore defense, anticipates the direction for the freshman run.

To encourage his senior squad, Mark Satterfield calls out plays to the victorious senior players.

Tapani Varjas smiles proudly at the large audience after receiving the most votes as the king for the 1987 Powder Puff game. Steve Cobb, senior cheerleader, looks on as well.

The night of the annual game was filled with high tension. The sophomores were victorious over their freshmen rivals. Brooke Wittell and Kim McMains were among their scorers. The senior girls arrived on the scene chanting battle cries. The juniors were determined to foil the senior victory plan but after a close game, the senior girls came out on top. Although the competition was serious, it was all in good fun. Commentator Howard Conley gave the play by play from the press box.

Halftime activities featured the selection of the powder puff king and his court. The freshmen candidates were Jeff Ebarb, Damon Leach, Jason Mead, Clint Newlin, Ernie Spradley and Bobby Western; Clint Newlin was the choice of the Class of 91. John East, Jett Ewing, Chad Snyder, Tim Sweeney, Doug Teany, and Mickey Welsh represented the sophomores with Chad being awarded the ceremonial weeds. Darren Whaley was chosen from the junior group including Eric Schafhauser, Marc Hamm, Jeff Chenault, and Darby Carmichael. Exchange student Tapani Varjas was overwhelmed by his class when his name was read as the 1987 powderpuff king.

Night Life Activities Entertain PHS Students

The weekend of a Plainfield teenager has basically been the same for the past few years. After a football or basketball game, teens usually headed to one of several pizza places to socialize with friends and "chow down." The new Pan Am Plaza has several ice skating rinks which some PHS students have enjoyed.

Since the Plainfield Village closed down, teens have to drive to a mall to watch a movie. A very popular late night favorite seemed to be the "Rocky Horror Picture Show." Union Station, Olivers and shopping at the malls were still fun pastimes.

There were more dances this year, many sponsored by the very active Plainfield Youth Forum (PYF). But, the "in-thing" to do still was cruising the Plaza to see friends and be seen. This pasttime met serious town opposition when the town board passed an ordinance banning cruising in an attempt to help local merchants maintain their customers.

-Vacations

National and International Destinations for Students

Wading in the waters of the Gulf of Mexico seems to be a relaxing pastime for Joe Hammond.

Another culture enjoyed by Plainfield students is Russia.

Tiffany Norris, Jenny Reeves, and Angle Sanderson pose in front of a picturesque fountain in Germany.

Taking a break from his chaperoning duties, Mr. Sweeney finds time to enjoy the scenery of Germany.

Ft. Meyers, Florida is another popular vacation spot, as shown here by a rather large group of PHS students.

Sun, snow, or sleep?

Breaks and vacations from the routine of the school year, to students and teachers alike, seemed few and far between. Students, especially, looked forward to major vacations as well as the smaller ones. The major vacation of the year, looked forward to and counted down to for two months, was Spring Break. PHS teens spent their week (or more in some cases!) of vacation in Florida, Montana, or California just to name a few destinations. Other students chose to explore new cultures and traveled to Mexico, Germany, or the Soviet Union. Besides vacations, some students spent their free time catching up on sleep, shopping, spending time with family and friends, or working. All in all, vacations seemed to be a time for rest and relaxation. How many days until Spring Break '89?

Signing in at the prom is just the beginning of a fun filled evening for Tarry Schabel, Darby Carmichael and their dates.

On Friday, April the 29th, 1988 the attendance office was packed with students signing out, excused or not. Girls were off to their last tanning appointment or to the hair dresser. The guys, on the other hand, had to pick up their tuxes and make last minute arrangements. After a long picture session with parents, it was time to head for that "classy" dinner that only happens once a year. Some of the popular restaurants were the Cattle Company, Red Lobster, Alexanders, and the Waterfront. Some guys decided to take their dates "first class" and rented a limo, while others borrowed their parents' car for the night. Indianapols was swarmed with police patrolling the city, since Vice President George Bush was in town campaigning for next fall's elections. This year the prom was held at the Convention Center. "Just You and I" was the prom's theme and the band "First Impression" provided entertainment for the night. Somewhere between eleven and twelve o'clock teens started to leave the prom and head for the post prom, which was held in the high school gym. The night for Plainfield's students was just beginning!!

David Jordan and friends really cashed in on the prizes at post prom.

Over 300 students enjoy the games, prizes, food, and fun at post prom.

Games, Prizes, Food, Fun

After prom many prom goers attended post prom. "Under The Big Top" was the theme of the event, which over 300 students attended. Those who went enjoyed a variety of activities ranging from a casino, to dozens of different games, to the splendid food available. A very popular event was the raffle. Dozens of prizes were awarded in the raffle, including Kings Island tickets, radios, and a cassette disc player.

After two or three hours sleep dozens of PHS students ventured to Kings Island. Many who didn't go to Kings Island went to various parts of the state. Some popular sites were Brown County, Eagle Creek, and the state parks.

"It Happens Every Summer"

Tod Colbert and Jennifer Truex (Aaron Arnold and Julie Kennedy) share a romantic moment in the spotlight.

A few of the "Debutante" guest editors compare their daily gossip about fashion, men, and so on.

Lucy Woodruff (Mary Ava Nease) reprimands Tod as an angry Jennifer looks on.

M.K. Roberts (Kina Pithoud) discusses his novel with Mr. Sands (Matt Theobald).

Pudgy Roulette (Rob Pyatt) tries to win back Flippy Wonder (Stacy Lundy).

The acting talents of Plainfield High School students were brought out in this year's dramatic production, "It Happens Every Summer." The play dealt with eight young ladies who were invited to be guest editors of "Debutante" Magazine in New York City. Jennifer Truex and Tod Colbert, played by seniors Julie Kennedy and Aaron Arnold, were two of the main characters. The pair had to learn to deal with their pride and stubbornness before they could admit their love for one another. Another main character was Annabelle Ames, played by freshman Kelly Judd. Annabelle was a flirtatious young lady who enjoyed stringing men along although she was engaged to the boy back home. Some of the many objects of her affection included Zachary Bryan, played by freshman Andy Hylton, and the Count Marcello di Giacomo, played by junior John Kelly. All worked out well though, when the boy from home, Custis Gaylord Oglethorpe, came to New York City for Annabelle. This year's play was a great success for the cast and crew and was a hit with the audience on both performance nights.

Valedictorian Jennifer Zuber and Salutatorian Jeff Ferrell prepare to lead their classmates into graduation.

Taking a moment to relax are Josh Kendall, Jerry Williams, Brian Livingston, Shawn Cooper, Troy White, Jason Castetter and Mike Nay.

Mr. Goldsberry assists Alisia Miller and Marlene Bridges with caps and gowns.

The finale of all the good times and memories at PHS was finally here upon us on graduation night. It was a time for the Class of '88 to do what they've been practicing for the past week, because tonight was the real thing. Before the ceremony began, students were signing each other's memory books and going to a bathroom mirror every so often to check their hair and gowns. This year's valedictorian was Jennifer Zuber and salutatorian was Jeff Ferrell. Music was provided throughout the ceremony by the band and members of the Chamber Choir. Graduation night for seniors was an hour filled with both happiness and sadness. Class president Rob Jones ended the ceremony by leading the class in the turning of tassels.

Posing for a memorable picture are exchange students Patricia Serrano, Anna Nystrom, Katherine Ottsen and Tapani Varjas.

Tapani Varjas is 17 and a senior from Vantaa, Finland. At home he lives with his mother and father, Sirrka-Liisa and Teuvo, and his sister Satu. He likes to ski and run track. He also likes to listen to Def Leppard, U2, and the Scorpions. He says school is about the same except in Finland it's harder. In America Tapani lives with Mr. and Mrs. Bob O'Hare. After some serious thought, Tapani stated that what he likes best about the United States are the cars and especially the weekends.

Katherine Ottsen is 17 and a junior from Esbjerg, Denmark. At home in Denmark she lives with her mother and father, Brigitte and Paul, and her sister and brother, Anna and Marcus. She likes to swim, do aerobics, and be with friends. She also likes to listen to U2, the Cure, and the Smiths. She says in Denmark the students stay in the same class and the teachers come to the rooms, and classes are chosen for you. In America she lives with the Chilcoates. When asked to name her favorite things about this country, she mentioned watching football, the cars and the tall buildings.

Anna Nystrom is 17 and a senior from Vetlanda, Sweden. She has a sister, Agneta, who is 19, and her mother's and father's names are Lill-gerd and Gert Nystrom. In Sweden she spends her free time skiing, watching TV and running. Her favorite groups include U2 and Simple Minds. She really likes animals. Anna finds three things about America very interesting: skyscrapers, meeting the American people and M&M's. In Plainfield, she is staying with the Goods.

Patricia Serrano is 18 and a junior from Ciudad Obregon, Sonora Mexico. She has two brothers, Carlos, 19, and Sergio, who is 12. She also has a sister named Karla who is 16. Her interests include jogging, aerobics, TV, basketball, and she had previously attended boarding school. She enjoys meeting Americans and experiencing a different culture. Her favorite groups are Chicago and Timbiriche, a Mexican group. In Plainfield, Patricia is staying with Carolyn Klueg.

Seniors Steve Cobb and Nicole Crager seem to really enjoy their jobs at Plainfield Bowl.

Work after school hours seemed to be typical for a vast number of PHS students. Whether by choice or necessity, many teens left the halls of PHS just in time to rush to a part time job that kept them occupied. In Plainfield many teens turned to the fast food restaurants for employment: Hardee's, Burger King, Wendy's, McDonald's, Clancy's and Taco Bell. Some found work with other food establishments including the many pizza places or even busing dishes at the Elks Club or Laughner's. Beside the restaurants, the food industry provided other types of jobs as cashiers, sack boys, and stock boys in area grocery stores. Not everyone found employment eating. Other jobs included work at clothing stores, hardware stores, the library, gas stations, and even the bowling alley. Obviously, the duties varied as did the various skills acquired.

Most of the teens who worked did so not because they liked missing games, cruising or fun but because they needed the money for activities, cars, or clothes.

Celebrating a great powder puff performance by the sophomore squad are Michelle Chaille and Shelley VanWanzeele. This demonstration exhibits the enthusiasm shared by the teams, coaches, "cheerleaders," announcers, and especially the crowd that is always on hand for the female version of the clash of the classes.

Although school spirit wasn't overly obvious during the regular season of any sport, this enthusiastic crowd stood and cheered their support for the entire game when the boys' basketball team met the Brownsburg Bulldogs in the final game of the sectionals. The Quakers, however, came up a few points short when the final buzzer sounded.

A new PREP requirement is an oral report on a career; Rob Pyatt discusses acting.

The French, Spanish and German Clubs do a variety of activities throughout the year. The clubs usually plan on dining at restaurants which coincide with the languages they are learning. This gives everyone a chance to experiment with new native food and culture. Sometimes, the clubs attend performances to see native dances and historical events. The French and Spanish and German clubs are optional to all foreign language students who wish to join them.

In the English department, changes abound this year. What used to be an optional fourth year of English became a state mandated requirement for seniors. Freshmen still faced writer's gallery, fiction, speech and ELS. Sophs braved two quarters of writing and two of American lit or opted for the English-history combo of CHAP. The juniors found themselves facing a half year of British lit along with advanced comp and the ever-worrisome PREP. To fulfill their new requirements, seniors chose AP or the academic track. Of course, all grades had the basic curriculum as an option.

Dissection and Experiments

The Plainfield High School Science Department offered a variety of classes to PHS students this year. Some students studied plants, animals, and microbiology in the required freshman class, Biology 1/2. Others continued their study of life science with the dissection of a fetal pig in Biology 3/4. Other PHS science classes performed various experiments in chemistry, physics, and advanced chemistry. Courses in geology as well as meteorology/astronomy were offered to students who were more interested in physical science. Science research was another class offered by the PHS Science Department. Students in science research developed a science project of their choosing and entered it in the regional science fair at Indianapolis. In all, science students had a productive year.

Dissection is a major part of Biology 3/4 as seniors Amy Fanning and Sabrina Bryant appear to be finding out.

"The sum of the legs squared equals the hypotenuse squared," is only one of many commonly heard statements that came from the classrooms of the Plainfield High School Mathematics Department. PHS students were found taking algebra classes and learning about equations, polynomials, synthetic division, and the dreaded story problems, while other students enrolled in Geometry and concentrated on remembering postulates and theorems. PHS students also took general or business math, problem solving, or introductory statistics. A SAT/PSAT review course was offered for students preparing to take this important test. Students willing to take advanced math classes took advanced math, college algebra, trigonometry, or analytic geometry. A wide variety of computer courses were also offered, ranging from computer grahics and BASIC classes to a PAS-CAL course.

CHAP, World History, etc.

Kings and presidents, monarchies and anarchies, wartime and peacetime . . . these were just a few of the many things studied by Plainfield social studies students this year. Some PHS students took Indiana History and learned not only about the history of our state, but also the history of Plainfield and Hendricks County. Other teens chose to take World History and study European, Asian, and African histories. The requirement of a U.S. History course was fulfilled by some student. CHAP met that requirement for sophomores who were willing to put forth a little extra effort. CHAP, Culural Heritage of the American People, is a unique class that combines the study of U.S. History and sophomore English. PHS students also chose to take thinking skills, sociology, or psychology. Government and economics courses were taken by the seniors to fulfill the requirement for graduation.

Vocational

Vocational classes included the areas of shop and home economics. Students can study photography, mechanical and architectural drafting, auto mechanics, graphic arts, machines and woodworking. Home ec students could choose from classes in clothing, foods or relationships. Vocational and home ec students caring to study a class not offered at PHS can attend Ben Davis High School.

Business

Many classes were offered in the business department; among these were typing, accounting, and marketing. DECA is a marketing education club that most marketing students join. The bookstore and competitions were two of their projects. Senior Scott Morris won first in the state DECA contest and went on to finish well in the national competition at Salt Lake City, Utah.

ebate & Drama Students Shine

Debate

In debate, students learn to logically defend their opinions on issues. Tools of reasoning, organizing information, and building cases are some important aspects of debate. Students use these devices in debate competitions around the state. Topics for these debates are chosen nationally. A few competition winners included Hoda Badr, Rusty Hughes, Steve Viehe, and Jim Wilson.

Drama

The drama department consists of the drama club, the members of the play, and the communictions arts class. Each year the drama club chooses a play to organize and invites students to try out for parts. The play chosen for this year was "It Happens Every Summer." It is the story of a summer internship at a popular magazine. Performers included Aaron Arnold, Julie Kennedy, Mary Ava Nease, and Rob Pyatt.

Speech

Speech is a class dreaded by most freshmen, but it doesn't turn out to be so bad. Students learn to write an outline for their speech, the importance of and reasons for communication, and how to deliver speeches on various subjects. Some examples of these speeches are biography, opinion, and demonstration. Speech informs freshmen that communication is a very important aspect of life.

Art

The art department offers a variety of classes to give students a taste of different areas in art. Commercial design lets students create logos and advertisements for a fictional product. Ceramics class lets students learn various techniques in clay. Metalsmithing allows students to design and sculpt in metal and wood. Drawing and painting gives the student experience in different areas of two dimensional art. Many choices are available for the PHS student with an eye for the creative.

Concert Choir

Plainfield High School Concert Choir had a very successful year. With a large group of singers, the choir learned to work together to achieve a blend of four and five part harmonies. The choir performed a variety of Christmas melodies at Union Station during the holiday season, as well as at the annual PHS Christmas concert. In January, many members of the choir attended Solo and Ensemble Contest at Lebanon High School. The choir received a majority of first place ratings on both solos and ensembles. In April, the choir attended another contest at Greenwood High School. This contest judges the group on their performance as a whole and on their sight reading abilities. Concert Choir received a very high first place rating on their performance and a second place in sight reading. The group ended the year with a performance at the PHS Spring Concert.

Chamber Choir

Plainfield High School Chamber Choir, the combination of Men's and Women's Ensembles, also enjoyed a very successful year. This group performed a variety of challenging musical pieces. They performed at Union Station during the Christmas season, as well as at the Plainfield Christmas concert. Men's and Women's Ensembles received a high percentage of first place ratings at Solo and Ensemble Contest. Chamber Choir attended Organizational Contest at Greenwood in April. The group's first place rating placed them in the top sixteen choirs in the state and they went on to state competition at Southport High School. They performed very well. This was the first time a Plainfield choir had been invited to perform at state contest. Chamber Choir performed at the Spring concert and ended their year with a performance at graduation.

Giving It Your Best Shot

Under the direction of an entirely new staff, the Plainfield Red Pride Band went through many adjustments. With a determination to be the best and a constant push for perfection, directors Teresa Elliott and Mike Cummings blended the young talent of junior high musicians, the color of the flag waving auxilary members, and the experience of high school bandsmen into a unit that earned honors, applause and respect whenever they performed.

"Take it back one more time!" was the decided recording among the band students. Marchers devoted two weeks in August, from 8 to 4, to practicing in 90 degree weather. Fundamentals became a favorite pastime to the students.

While the contests came and went, trophies and awards travelled home with the band. But the most noticable difference in the program came in the new attitude held by the members. They had learned they didn't to be in first place to win, because "success lies not in being the best, but in doing your best."

With only ten members, the Plainfield Red Pride Color Guard did an exceptionally good job. Though the guard was extremely small, Debbie Newlin, the guard captain, drilled them long and hard during pre-camp and band camp in August. Then the guard practiced, along with the band, from three to five o'clock every day after school to jump into hot jackets and skirts every Saturday to perform at places like Greenwood. The Winter Guard didn't compete in any competitions, but they did perform for the three elementary schools. and for one of the last home basketball games. Then, in the Spring Concert, the Winter Guard danced to the tune "Yes" from the very popular movie "Dirty Dancing." With the tryouts early this last spring, the marching season is already looking brighter with a possibility of seventeen members.

While many senior members of Belles & Beaux were thinking about how to raise money for the big spring break trip or for college, they also had to think of Belles & Beaux expenses. The group had many trips and outfits which were costly. In order to help pay some of these costs, the group had many fund raisers. They earned money through bake sales, car washes, Avon sales; they also sponsored a dance and did many other things to help raise the necessary money. A lot of help from parents and part time jobs were also helpful.

From Wisconsin to Ball State University, Belles & Beaux performed in many competitions. They earned a first runner up award at the Delta Show Choir Competition, an outstanding vocal and instrumental performance at the Ball State Invitational, and they also received two fifth runner up awards at competitions in La-Crosse, Wisconsin and Chicago at the Showstoppers Competition. They ended the year with Sensation, a final presentation for the fourteen members.

The Student Council is more than just a form of government for the students at PHS. Besides planning dances and rec-nights throughout the school year, they do many other things also. All their dances were big successes. At the Post Spring Break Bash recnight and dance, they had volleyball and basketball contests and gave out prizes to the winners. They also passed out Hawaiian leis to everyone. They organized Homecoming, Powder Puff, counted the votes for the Queen and her court, and also for the king and his court. At Open House they passed out programs and showed people around the building. During Christmas, they bought food and gifts for a needy family from their treasury and also donated a microwave oven to the Community Center at Hummel Park. This year the officers of Student Council were Mary Ann Wubbolding, president; Christy Wallace, vice president; Christi Andrews, treasurer; and Tim Sweeney, secretary. Under their leadership and Mr. Pelkey's advice, the Student Council had a very successful and active year.

Honor Society is a club that recognizes top students of their class. Unlike most clubs, members of Honor Society are invited to join. Student selection is based on leadership qualities they possess, good citizenship, service to school and community, and the maintenance of a grade point average of 3.5 or higher.

The Society, sponsored by Mrs. Bowman, gets together during the year for different activities, such as going to Union Station. The members also have two mandatory projects to complete within the year. One is a group project which in the past has been to visit elderly people in the community, or to send food packets to the poor. They also have to do an individual service project which can be anything from babysitting once a week to mowing someone's lawn. The only stipulation is that they can't be paid for their service!

newspaper Upgrades Publication

The journalism staff, under the supervision of Miss Hunt, published the RSVP newspaper monthly. In their first year of journalism the staff members learned ethics, editing, writing and other fundamentals of journalism. With these techniques in mind, the students gather information, write and produce the paper. After the first year of journalism, students may return to the staff to serve as editors of various sections of the paper.

Aside from working on the paper, the RSVP staff was occupied with other events as well. On April 15, the staff traveled to Ball State for Journalism Day. Long hours of hard work were offset by newfound friendships and some good times including a trip to Kings Island.

Super Bowl Teams Place

For the second year PHS students participated in Academic Super Bowl Competitions. Sponsored by the Indiana Academic Competitions for Excellence (IACE), these competitions were designed to create a more favorable attitude among Indiana's communities toward the state's educational system.

This year's Super Bowl focuses on the theme "Hoosier Heritage" and tested teams in the five subject areas of social studies, English, math, science and fine arts. A sixth category, all-around, contained material from all of Team members prepared by studying prescribed subject matter. At competitions twenty timed multiple choice questions made up a round. Tie-breaker questions insured a round winner.

PHS squads did well in three preliminary competitions, and both the social studies and English teams qualified for the state finals held in April. The social studies team placed second; the English team was third.

Valedictory Address

In the past few weeks as we approached this end of our high school career, we thought about what will happen to us in the future. We have had many experiences and have gone through many changes. Graduation marks a change in our lives. It is time to move on to the unknown, the future.

We are starting a new section of our lives whether it be a job, college, or marriage. We are relatively uncertain about what we will be doing in five years. The future is unpredictable, but we can influence it by the decisions we make now. We must continue to strive towards goals and mature in the process.

Occasionally, we will fail in obtaining a goal, but we will succeed in others. Both success and failure are valuable lessons. Be prepared for either one.

Be prepared also for change. Change involves sadness and happiness both. Although we will no longer see all of our close friends on a daily basis, we will have the opportunity to form new friendships. We have built up a stronghold of experiences to draw from to form future decisions.

Our relationships and experiences with friends and family have helped form our personalities to help make us who we are today. Future experiences and changes will influence who we are tomorrow.

A tree can be used to symbolize the essence of an individual. A tree starts off small and dependent on the environment just as a person is dependent on his parents. In time, each grows stronger and larger. The branches form the appearance of a tree just as parents and friends influence a person's outlook on life. Finally, there is the wood, the inner core of the tree. It is comparable to a person's qualities, characteristics, and personality.

A person is similar to a tree in many ways. But unlike the tree, a person has the opportunity to make decisions and influence the direction of the path he or

As we head out into the uncertain future, we bring with us our memories and ideas. Alfred Lord Tennyson wrote a poem called "Ulysses" that dealt in part with past experience and future expectations. Ulysses was a Greek hero from the Trojan War. According to legend, Ulysses spent ten years after the war trying of get home. In those ten years the had many the periences and adventures.

In this poem Ulysses is an old man relating what he learned in the past and planning what he will do in the future. In it Ulysses states:

Yet all experience is a land where

Gleams that untraveled world, whose margin fades For ever and for ever when I move."

He is scally said that although he has learned from all the rine has done, there is always something in the future for him to do. As he progresses through the architely perience, the cannot see the end for there is always partiething in store for him in the future.

We are like Ulysses for we, too, always have a path to follow. Now we must say goodbye to what we have known for the past twelve years and travel on to a new episode of our lives.

Salutatory Address

The time is finally upon us. It's a time to say good-bye, a time when individuals get the chance to head out on their own; and it's a last chance to make the claim of being a student at Plainfield High School.

This ceremony tonight marks the last time we will all be together within the friendly confines of PHS. In these last few hours together as a group, time seems to have frozen in a frame of excitement and adventure. We have shared one-third of our lives, thus far, with a group of people we may never see again. As tough as it may seem, each of us now faces a time in our lives when we must make some very important decisions with seemingly no experience to judge from.

The issues of college, marriage, and work will weigh heavily upon us over the next several years. We will find, however, that our high school years have taught us valuable skills to assist us with these tough decisions. We have learned to communicate with others, to adjust to unexpected changes, and, more importantly, we have gained confidence in ourselves.

These past six years have also taught us a valuable lesson in responsibility. The time management skills we have practiced, successfully or not, have been training exercises for what lies ahead. No longer will someone be telling us that we have to go to class in the morning, or that we should really be working or studying instead of watching TV or playing ball. No one else is pushing us to succeed.

That desire must come from within. Each of us has the potential to achieve his own goals. The determining factor is the internal drive to succeed.

As we practice these skills in the future, we will undoubtedly meet with some failures. It is through a failure of some kind that the most valuable lesson of all will be learned. In order to move on, we must believe in ourselves and not give up. The desire to overcome failure is unique to each individual. We all possess it, just in different amounts.

The old adage about trying and trying until success is met is true. When placed in a tough situation, stick to your guns. The majority of the great successes in the world are born from many failed attempts. Just keep reminding yourself of what has already been accomplished and what still remains.

Somewhere in the numerous challenges that lie ahead is the one that is the payoff, the one that means the most to each of us individually. As a group, we have made some accomplishments. but each one of us individually has a challenge and success that belongs to only the individual. way to find and meet that challenge is to make a total effort all of the time. Don't be content to settle for something less than the best effort possible from yourself. By doing this, no one can take away your special success.

Regardless of what anyone says or does, there is nothing wrong with your absolute best effort falling short of someone else's expectations. If a total effort is made, then success has been met. John Wooden.

famous coach and teacher from UCLA said, "Success is peace of mind which is a direct result of self-satisfaction in knowing you did your best to become the best that you are capable of becoming."

For those of you who still have doubts, take a look around. We are here tonight to celebrate a great accomplishment. We have made it through high school successfully. Your friends and relatives bu being here tonight, are say ing how happy and proud for you they really are. We don't realize that all of these parties, openhouses, and congratulations are actually for us. We are caught outside ourselves in this unexplainable change to something new. Accept their congratulations with sincerity; because if you have worked at it hard, you have earned it.

There is a whole new world out there just waiting for us. It will present to us many challenges in the short span of the next four or five years. The experiences we have lived here are invaluable help for the challenges that lie ahead. As we leave here tonight, and move on into the rest of our lives, many challenges will have to be dealt with — many successes will be recorded.

If failure comes before success, keep trying harder. That's all anyone could ever ask from you, and all you should ask of yourself. I would like to leave you with a thought from Theodore Roosevelt. And as he did, I also encourage each and every one of you here tonight to "Keep your feet on the ground, but reach for the stars."

Seniors Receive Basketball Honors

Skill at driving down the court and working under the basket earned Mark Satterfield and Ralph Western spots on the Indianapolis Star All-Suburban Basketball team named in March. Western finished his career as Plainfields' all-time leading scorer with 1296 points. He had set a goal of 1000 points his freshman year.

Satterfield had 985 points in his career and is Plainfield's leader in assists. Both players started on the varsity squad for four years. (Adapted from Amy Sukay in March RSVP.)

Working for the Others

Led by officers Melissa Loy, Cindy Bowen, Connie Thomas, and Lori Ping, SADD sponsored a Christmas dance and the "Tie One On" campaign. For this project, the group sold colorful wrist bands and took pledges from the buyers not to drive while intoxicated or to ride with someone who was intoxicated.

Auditorium crew members. Front: Lee Randolph and Jon Christl. Back: Steve Boles, Mr. Neal, Mike Vaughn, George Hopper, Brian Dennison, Leslie Snyder. Working behind the scenes is sometimes a thankless job; just ask an auditorium crew member. As Mr. Neal, faculty sponsor, said, "After the play is over, all the actors get all the attention, but not the stage crew." So why would the stage crew want to be behind the curtain instead of claiming the attention on stage? According to junior Jon Christl, "It's more interesting to be behind the scenes. You get to see the back of everything before it happens." The stage crew was also assisted by Bob Bowling and Heath Wines who worked the light board, spotlights, and sound. (Adapted from Kristie Moffett in the April RSVP.)

Local News Stirs Student Interest

For two days in October, Indianapolis residents were glued to their radios. On Monday, Oct. 19, Iran bombed a US tanker in the Persian Gulf, and on Tuesday a US military jet crashed into the airport Ramada Inn. Ten persons died in the accident.

Mall Development Planned at I-70 and 267

Plainfield may become home to another office park, a shopping center, three large motels, and several restaurants if the Cambridge Development Group has its way. The company plans to develop 220 acres on the east and west sides of 267 at I-70.

The first business to definitely commit to the development was Frisch's Big Boy, a sit-down restaurant. It will employ 62 persons.

The developers plan to build a 200,000 square foot mall on the east portion of the project. It is to include a variety of tenants, from large department stores to small boutiques. A medical, professional, and corporate office park will also be located to the east of 267. The western area of the development will include a large residential section, a family restaurant, and more stores and businesses.

For students, the development will mean increased employment opportunities and easier access to shopping.

Ordinance to Stop Cruising

by Greg Mayo

On Jan. 22, 1988, the Plainfield Town Board passed an ordinance to control parking and traffic problems in Plainfield. The ordinance is set to go into affect 60 days after the above date.

The traffic ordinance is not directed at cruising. It is directed at traffic control. The problems it deals with are things such as: littering, yelling obscenities at people, not yielding the right of way to pedestrians, and things of this nature.

According to John Pickerel, co-president of the Plainfield Youth Forum, "What we do here in Plainfield is different from cruising," John feels that we have more of a "car congregation." In other words kids don't drive all over the place and cause trouble.

Many people in the community are wondering where the teenagers are going to go when the ordinance finally does go into effect. The PYF has already begun to start some things to satisfy immediate needs. One thing is installing a concession stand in either Hummel or Swinford park. They have already installed six lights in Hummel Park at this time.

On May 1, Pat Liddle is planning to bread ground on a both '50's drive-in restuarant and a garage where you can rent stalls and tools to work on your car.

Mike Bullard, co-president of the PYF is applying through another youth program to get a $70,000 federal grant. The money from this grant would be used to build a youth center with basketball courts, billiards, and other recreational activities.

Tony Mongan wants to develop the land out by Mongan's softball diamonds on Moon Road into something for teens in the community.

These are just a few of the ideas of some of the people in the community. In order to get any of this accomplished, there must be support from both the adults and the youths of the community.

Cults Plague County

by Greg Mayo

Satanic cults operating in Hendricks County seemed to be responsible for the disturbances at several cemeteries in September. The fifteen distrubances were in the outlying areas of Plainfield, Avon, Brownsburg, and Pittsboro.

According to Lieutenant Steve Golden of the Hendricks County Sheriff's department, this was "not a prank" and although it was believed to be satanic groups, they were "secret groups."

In October, the School Board accepted a proposal ot build a new middle school. The new facility will house up to 900 students and will be located at Anderson Park.

Middle School Underway

The school will contain grades six, seven, and eight and will ease overcrowding in the district. Space vacated by the junior high will be used for extra high school space and for a kindergarten center which will operate on a separate schedule.

The Anderson Park site was chosen because the highly-populated area will allow for the largest percentage of walkers and will lower the cost of school buses.

Completion of the middle school is planned for 1990.

Soccer OK for Varsity

First there were the lengthy debates. Then the frustrated parents went to the school board meeting in force. Then the school's athletic council gave a thumb's down vote to soccer; they cited lack of insurance and the fact that soccer is not sanctioned by the IH-SAA as major obstacles. Then the Optimist, who has sponsored high school soccer for the past few years, offered to assist with the start up costs. Finally at a March school board meeting the board approved soccer for the 1990-1991 school year. Plans are underway to implement soccer with a limited schedule prior to that time.

Scott Morris Competes in Utah

By Kim Bloomer

PHS Senior Scott Morris took first at the DECA State Career Development Conference on the weekend of March 18. His first place in General Merchandising sent him on to the National Competition held in Salt Lake City, Utah. His performance also won a $1,500 scholarship from Ivy Tech.

Also competing at state were: senior John Pickerel and juniors Gene Renihan, Jason Callahan, and junior Kelly McDaniel.

The Plainfield chapter of DECA (Distributive Education Clubs of America) performed well at the District-8 West competition held at Decatur Central High School.

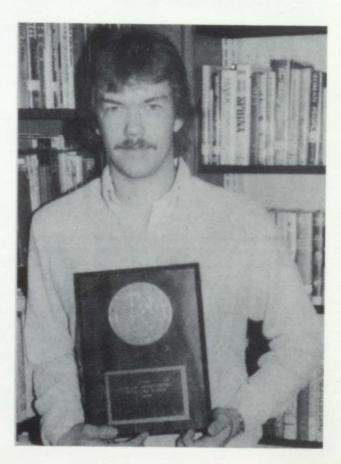

Thirteen Plainfield students placed and received certificates for their performances. Pickerel, president of DECA's Plainfield chapter, placed second in General Merchandising. Placing third were Seniors Kim Bonham, Restaurant Full Serve, and Mark Gladson, Sales Demonstration.

In Advertising Services, senior Nancy Earles placed eighth. Junior Jason Callaham collected sixth place in Restaurant Quick Serve. Senior Scott Reeder finished seventh in Finance and Credit Services.

Junior Greg Gould held eighth in Food Marketing. Senior Scott Morris placed sixth and junior Lisa Gross seventh in General Merchandising. General Marketing winners were senior Dave Jordon (eighth), junior Gene Renihan (eighth), and junior Darren Whaley (fourth). Senior Melissa Ewing came in fourth in Advertising Layout.

DECA's competition and activities serve to prepare the students for jobs in marketing and distribution. "Series events in DECA are so attuned to career knowledge and skills that successful performance in one should lead to successful performance in the other," Pickerel said.

According to Pickerel, preparations for such events include lectures, classroom practice, demonstration, and intense study. The events themselves consist of tests and role-playing situations.

Asra Ali, freshman, was named runner-up in the district competition at the Optimist Speech Contest that included students from the southern half of the state. Prior to the district competition, Asra, who spoke on the theme "Destiny: Choice Not Chance," won at three levels. In her speech, she defined the difference between individuals who make choices and those who take chances.

ISTEP Test Results Good

ISTEP is the Indiana State Test for Educational Progress. It is the state mandated test created by the legislature and Governor Robert Orr to alleviate the passing of students to the next grade when they really weren't prepared. Tests were administered to all students in grades, 1, 2, 3, 6, 8, 9, and 11 in March. Classes were disrupted and scheduling was a nightmare but after two weeks of on again-off again schedules, the tests were sent to California for evaluation.

The final results arrived in June. After months of worrying if summer school was in their future, students learned that only 19 students corporation wide failed the exam and required the summer school remediation. Plans progressed for driver's ed and jobs and vacations after a sigh of relief. But, the testing program will continue next spring.

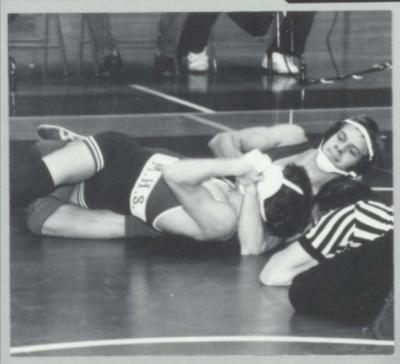

Although this may look like an effortless shot on the part of freshman Joy Williams, the facial expression lets the audience know otherwise; she has anticipated well and returns the volley to assist her teammates on the road to a victory.

Besides cheering for the basketball and football teams, cheerleaders had a variety of other jobs to do. Cheerleading sponsor Ms. Masariu, along with the cheerleaders, put together the pep sessions and painted signs to fire up the teams and promote more spirit throughout the school. ## Winning Season for Runners

The cross country team had one of their best seasons yet due in large part to the seniors on the team. The team finished with an 8-6 record. They also performed well in the county where they placed second. They also performed well in the invitationals where they finished 2nd, 3rd, and 8th. They also placed 6th in sectionals where senior Steve Viehe advanced to regionals.

7-8 for Young Team

Coach Baker gives a few last minute instructions to his team before the start of the match in hopes of taking a few strokes off their scores.

A very young golf team ended with an almost .500 season with a win loss record of 7-8. The team, coached again this year by Mr. Bruce Baker, consisted of only two seniors, one junior, three sophomores and six freshmen. The team's home course was the Plainfield Elks.

The season featured great play by senior Jerry Williams who won a number of awards. He was the Hendricks County champion with a 78, Mid-State champion with 77, and sectional champ at Martinsville with a 74. Jerry was selected as the MVP and received the season putting award. Other individual honors went to Scott Hamby as the mental attitude award winner. The six lettermen were seniors Jerry Williams and Kevin Helser; junior Scott Hamby; freshmen David Abplanalp, Mike Daum and Matt Rhoden.

As a whole the team finished fifth in the sectional at Martinsville, fourth in the county meet at Prestwick, and tied with Speedway for a third place conference finish.

Season Scores Fall

Short

The Freshmen football team final record of 1-5 left something to be desired, but this record does not indicate the kind of season the team had. The twenty plus team members worked hard both at practice and game time but didn't seem to be able to put it all together at game time. The team had some big losses but Coaches Ford and Meunier enjoyed a sweet victory of 8-0 over the Greenwood Woodmen. The Franklin game was a tough contest with the Quakers suffering a two point loss with a final score of 8-6.

The reserve football team suffered some really tough defeats. Three of the four defeats were only by one or two touchdowns. The three wins were exciting games as well with Quaker victories over Danville, Whiteland and Mooresville. The reserves are called on for double duty with some team members filling in on the varsity squad from time to time. The reserve players are coached by Mr. Teany and Mr. Muston.

Whether looking intently or shouting plays to his team, Coach Ford is active on the sidelines. Mark Galloway searches for an open man before passing downfield.

Season Falls Short of Expectations

It was a learning experience and a building year for this year's football Quakers. With the end of long time Kermit Davis teams, Coach Chuck Schwanekamp had to build a team to suit his style of play. Even with the able supervision of assistant coaches Conley, Greene, Muston, and Teany, the sixty plus team members never seemed to be able to put it all together. As always seems to be the case, injuries plagued the starting line up, but the season was not without excitement. The wins over Greenwood and Whiteland were high points but the 17-16 overtime win over Avon's Orioles was the season's high point.

The members of the team selected three seniors to serve as captains. The 1987 tri-captains were Joe Hammond, Jim Lautenschlager, and Troy White. Offensive and defensive players awarded MVP honors were junior Steve Krieger and senior Mark Satterfield, respectively.

Freshmen & Reserve Volleyball Great Season for Both Squads

Beth Holzknecht and Gina Laban combine to return the shot as Brooke Wittell and Michelle Chaille make sure it clears the net.

Ten sophomore girls teamed up for a great reserve season. The girls, under the leadership of Coach Sharon Warren, enjoyed a 12-7 season. In the seven team losses, the Quakers took their opponents to three games in five of those matches, demonstrating a real desire to win. The girls put in a great team effort and were rewarded with a fine final season record. The girls won four straight before dropping a match to Scecina and then winning four straight again for a fine start in their season.

The ten players representing the freshmen class concluded with an outstanding 13-3 season. Coach Don Dones found his team in some tough spots throughout the season when his team had to go to three games in nine of their sixteen matches. The defeats were scattered throughout the season. The Lady Quaker volleyballers fell to tough teams from Fulton, Roncalli and Beech Grove. The girls battled back to take two of the three defeats into three games.

Strong Start — Disappointing Finish

Shawnna Edwards goes to set it for a spike as freshman Angie Kalb concentrates on serving an attempted act.

According to coach Beth Masariu, some of the varsity volleyball team's goals were not attained. A reason for this, according to the coach, could have been because of a late season low. Says Miss Masariu, "The girls were extremely successful early, but stumbled in October." Looking at the team's record, this proves to be true. They burnt up the nets starting out 5-0 and then went to 10-2. But from an 83% winning percentage, they went 2-12 fro a final record of 12-14 and a 46% average. The season wasn't a total loss. The team had good leadership by the seniors. Suzette Reed, one of the captains, received the MVP. Mary Ann Wubbolding, another senior, received the Mental Attitude Award. Not only senior leadership but the rest of the team contributed greatly including freshman starter, Angie Kalb. The reserve team who went 12 - 7, caused us to believe that the future for Plainfields volleyball team is promising. The freshmen went 13-3 and had a very good year.

Hope

Another season for the boys' varsity tennis team came to a close this fall. With a young team consisting of two seniors, seven juniors, seven sophomores, and three freshmen, they had nothing to complain about of their 7-9 season. Included was a second in county and fourth in Mid-State. When asked about the season, Coach Muston had a lot of positive things to say. "We are a young team with only two seniors. We will have eight returning lettermen and we are looking forward to a good season next year. Mark Hamm has played #1 singles for two years and most of the other team members have a lot of experience. We think we will have a much improved record and will have a shot to win the county and the conference."

Spectacular 12-1 Season for Swim

The girls varsity swim team completed an awesome season this year by finishing 12-1 overall. Included in their victories were a first in the Mid-State competition and a second in the county competition, missing first by one point. There were two strong relay teams this season. The free relay consisted of senior Jennifer Hickam, junior Debi Edmondson, and sophomores Sherry Click and Suzanne Pyatt. The medley relay had junior J.J. Williams, sophomores Courtney

Benson and Shelley VanWanzeele and freshman Amy Rogers as members. Captains Jennifer Hickam, J.J. Williams and Julie Wright all proved to be valuable team swimmers. Four year members were Shelly Dowden, Jennifer Hickam, Tresa McClain and Amy Sukay. Many successful seniors left the team but strong underclassmen proved valuable. The team was coached by Mrs. Julie Bradshaw.

Taking aim to insure the extra point, freshman Darla Dierkes shoots her free throw. Sophomore Gina Laban decides which way to avoid her opponent.

The reserve girls' basketball team had a good season, finishing 9-4. The team was young as the ninth grade team was combined with the reserve team to form a strong union with a strong season. Highlights included the routs of Northwest, Danville and Whiteland. Key players included the freshmen guards Jenny Hughes and Heather Clapp, both who filled in for the varsity. For such a young team they handled themselves very well, especially under pressure. Janet Giles, freshman, was a fine contributor, leading the team in scoring. Janet and Joy Williams, another freshman, led the team's rebounding. Each girl seemed to carry her share of the load and contributed to the team effort; team work made them very successful. Mr. David Haskell was the coach for this team.

The varsity girls' basketball team played better than their record may indicate this season. Finishing 7-11, their playing improved greatly over last year. The team improved their free throw percentages, their rebounding and their assists. Senior Tonya Saulsbury led the team in rebounding and assists. For leading the team in free throw percentages, junior Angie Smith and sophomore Angie McCool both received awards. Angie McCool was also named to the All-Conference team in addition to being a key player for the team. Receiving the mental attitude award was Dena Welsh for assisting her teammates in practice and games. Tonya Saulsbury was named most valuable player for leading the team in various aspects of the game. Although the Lady Quakers were a young team this year, they gained experience for next year's basketball season.

Some highlights included victories against Speedway, Northwest and Franklin. The girls opened their season in the county tournament at Tri-West. In the first game of the tourney, they played a tough Danville team. The girls played well, finishing just shy of a victory. In the sectionals, the varsity girls played Tri-West in their first round game. After gaining a victory in their first game, the girls headed to the final round of the sectional championship. The Lady Quakers played exceptionally well, staying close the entire game, but ended up one point short of Brownsburg's Lady Bulldogs at the buzzer. The girls were coached by Mr. Lynn with the assistance of reserve coach Haskell and assistant coach Barber.

Up & Down Season for Teams

The Plainfield reserve boys' basketball team had an up and down season. They began their season by winning six out of eight games. Some highlights included a 13 point victory over Greencastle. The reserve team then headed to the county tournament. The Quakers played an outstanding first game against host Danville, winning 43-37. The team played a strong second game but Brownsburg ended up on top in the final minutes. From that point the season went downhill. Overall the boys' reserve team finished 8-12. Junior Curt Van Wanzeele proved to be an important asset for the reserve team this year. He led the team in both scoring and rebounding with an average of 8.75 points per game and 5.2 rebounds per game. Another junior, Gary Parker, was also a key player this season. Leading the team in assists, Parker averaged three assists per game. The thirteen man team worked hard and although the record didn't reach the .500 mark, the boys put forth an all out effort throughout the entire season.

The reserve team was coached by Mr. Dana Greene.

The Plainfield boys' freshmen basketball team had a disappointing season with the A team finishing 5-14 and the B team finishing 4-5. Highlights of the season included the Mid-State tournament. The freshmen boys played a good game in their first round, defeating Mooresville by three points. In their second game of the tourney, the freshmen Quakers lost to a tough Greenwood team. A few key players for the season included Jason Ellis, Andrew Hammond, Damon Leach, and Bobby Western. The leading scorer for the team this season was Jason Ellis. The duo of Andrew Hammond and Damon Leach led the frosh in rebounding during the season. Leading the team in assists was Bobby Western. The freshmen team was coached by Mr. Jud Wolfe.

Season Record is "Pretty Good"

In boys' varsity basketball the seniors made this a memorable season with Mark Satterfield and Ralph Western both breaking school records. Coach Bullington wanted to play longer this season, but says "the 14-7 record is pretty good." He thought they were good kids and said the team members were very dependable. Mark Satterfield broke the school record for assists and Ralph Western broke the career scoring record. Ralph had 1296 points, while the old school record was 1278. The most valuable player award, given as a co-award this year. and four year awards also went to this senior duo. The mental attitude award went to senior Jeff Ferrell. In addition to these three award winning seniors the season record was enhanced by the team play of their classmates including Josh Kendall, Rashid Kourany, Jim Lautenschlager and Travis Shadwick.

The season was not without exciting moments. Highlights of the season included games against Decatur Central and Zionsville, an overtime against Northwest and a double overtime with Avon. Tournament play found the Brownsburg Bulldogs on top at the end of the first game of the county tourney. At sectionals the defending champs opened against Danville. We then went into the final game against Brownsburg, being defeated by a single point to put an abrupt end to the season.

Girls Mature Throughout Season

The gymnastics team had a good season. Before they even started their meets, they lost two girls to injuries. The girls ended up having a record of 4-7. Coach Rink said a lot of the girls matured a lot during the season. Most of the gymnasts were up to full difficulty in their routines by the end of competition. Other than the two girls lost early, injuries were minimal. Debi Edmondson was picked as the most valuable competitor and Lori LaRoche received mental attitude honors. The underclassmen have shown that they can work hard and handle pressure so the future looks bright for next year's gymnastics team.

Phil Tuna from the Shakespeare troupe presents his version of Shakespeare's life for the junior class. Double checking the scores of the cross country meet are Mr. Wilhelm, Mr. Baker and Mr. Bradley. Chuck Porter peers out to the camera.

Powder puff shophomore quarterback Michelle Chaille prepares to pass. Freshman Jennifer Lane poses next to the family "to be"Christmas tree.
