Nothing's new at PHS

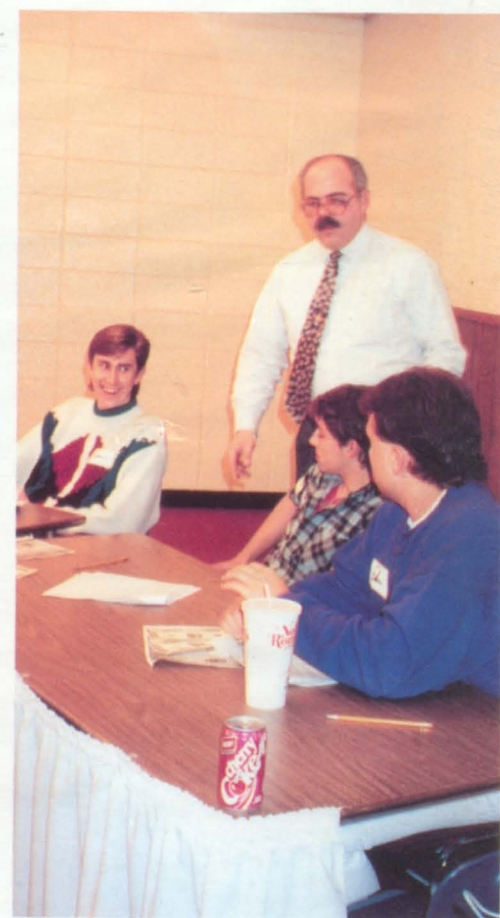

So it seems with classes, homework, tests and practice. BUT, looking back at the year gives a new perspective. In the world the Soviet Union dissolved into independent countries, the winter Olympics were a huge success and Mike Tyson went to jail. Popularity hit the cast of Beverly Hills 90210. Genesis and John Cougar Mellencamp came to Indy, and plaid and BUM were the fashion rage.

At PHS changes were evident as well. A lot of new graphics gave the building a new appearance. New programs like an interview seminar, gold cards and the ten minute reading period created change. These, combined with the many other activities such as spirit weeks and spirit nights, two homecomings, competitions from band and music to sports and academics, field trips and just going to class and being with friends, made 1991-1992 unique.

The library doors are enhanced with a red, white and blue stained glass window by Mrs. Jeanette Steck.

The week before the Friday night homecoming game included lots of activities. Not the least important of these activities was the construction of floats by the four classes. Sponsors and students alike spent numerous hours not only building the floats but getting locations and supplies lined up in advance. For the second year, floats were on the backs of pick-up trucks, allowing for smaller but better built floats. The freshmen worked with the Hollywood theme to create a float with the theme "Honey, I Shrunk the Warriors." The sophomore entry was titled "Quakers Take the Warriors." The winning junior float was "PHS Projects a Victory," and the senior float entry was "Walk Over the Warriors."

The first annual fall spirit night sponsored by Student Council and chaired by Beth Reynolds featured class competition. A giant group of musical chair participants started the evening. Some of the "big boys" participated in a no hands Jello eating contest. The three legged race featured many teams. The width of the football field was the length of the wheelbarrow race. A balloon toss and class line up led to the evening's finale, the tug-of-war over a pit of flour and water. The final result was flying "paste."

Point totals found the juniors winning with 25 points and the freshmen with 17 points for second.

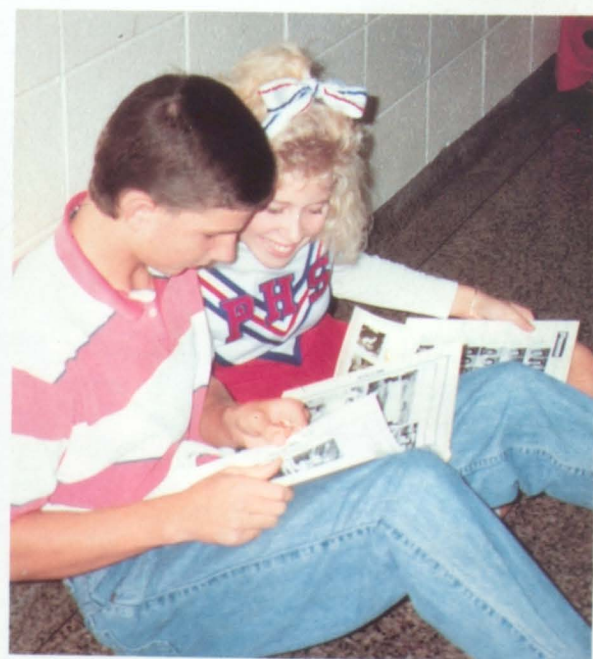

While Brian Sloneker and Darryl D'Amato cheer, Mr. Conley watches Rick Kimmell, Chad Master-son, Jeff Hartman, Dale White, Joe Smith and Jason Stewart slurp Jello.

A busy week featured float building, spirit week dress-up days, spirit night and a bonfire. The pregame festivities included the parade, the band and a sky diver. Halftime activities featured the announcement of the junior class float as the winner. Freshmen chose Ashley Plagman as princess; Allison Hardin and Laura Smith were the other two nominated. The sophomores nominated Bree Harbin, Stacy Wignegar and Stacy Wubbolding with Bree Hardin receiving the crown. For the juniors Ryan Dodds was selected from a group including Cher Gallagher and Sarah Jennison. Jennifer D. Miller was chosen as queen with Angie Freije and Andrea Goss being the other nominees.

The game featured a Quaker victory over the Whiteland Warriors 17-6. A post game dance was held in the cafeteria.

After the sectionals are over, the girls take to the football field, along with their dedicated coaches. The evening features a freshman and sophomore half of football. The sophomore girls were victorious in the competition. The second part of the action features a full four quarter game by the juniors and seniors. The junior girls pulled off a victory.

Halftime activities focused on crowning the powder puff princes and king. The freshmen nominated Todd Frazier, Dave Schaible and J.T. Volz, with Schaible receiving the traditional weed bouquet. The class of 94 chose Mike Mason after nominating him along with Scott Chittenden and Jim Holsclaw. Chad Masterson, Matt Mendenhall and Mike Plummer represented the juniors, and Plummer was elected. Senior Chad Briggs was deluged with "well wishers" when his name was announced as fellow nominees Brad Ferrell and Tony Haak escaped the crowd.

and Garth Brooks top trends list

Sweatshirts of all varieties, along with the ever present jeans, are daily attire for Mike Click, Dale White, Ryan Krogh, and Jason Cummings.

Jeans remain an ever present fashion and hi-top Nike tennis shoes remain most popular. A new style for jeans is to tightly roll them around the ankle. Sweatshirts, a long lasting craze, included IOU and BUM. At Plainfield, the PHS sweatshirt was in, and monogrammed college wear arrived. Other fashions included nylon windbreakers and UMBRO shorts, spandex and stirrup pants, leather jackets, Zubaz and Hypercolor.

Fads aren't restricted to clothing. TV news was the hit Beverly Hills 90210. Music meant something different to everyone but Garth Brooks moved up in popularity. Movies were topped by Wayne's World. Favorite activities remained sports, friends and the telephone, and going to the mall.

Cars, along with gas and insurance, dates, including the prom, and just having some cash were reasons for part-time jobs. And the jobs were varied. Fast food businesses and pizza restaurants were the biggest employers. But students found other jobs in gas stations, hardware stores and beauty shops. The theater and clothing stores also employed a number of PHS'ers along with other "eateries" about town. Working as cashiers, stockboys and sackers in the grocery stores also ranked high in the employment ranks. Despite the reason or the location, many Plainfield students found the time to pick up a little cash.

Rodgers and Hammerstein's ever popular Oklahoma!, as performed by the Plainfield High School music department, was a great success on November 22 and 23. The play featured Mike Hartley as Curly, Janeen Taylor as Laurey, Parke Lucas as Will Parker, and Dia Daniel as Ado Annie. Other featured performers included Doug Margason, Dave Boulware, Jo Dee Williams and Paul Helpinstine. Famous musical numbers like "Oh, What a Beautiful Morning", "The Surrey With the Fringe On Top", "I Cain't Say No", "People Will Say We're In Love", and "Oklahoma" pleased near sell-out audiences both nights. The large cast, crew and band worked with Mr. Peter Sims, producer and director; Mr. Jeff VanParis, choreographer; Mrs. Pam Murphy, technical director; and Mr. Brad Roberts, pit band director.

Boosting school spirit and the teams' morale were two purposes of pep sessions. Many were glad just to get out of class, but the morale and school spirit at PHS showed marked improvement in 1991-92.

Activities at pep sessions varied. Some games and competitions happened but with spirit nights, most pep sessions featured skits or performances and even a slide show. The cheerleaders and pep band performed at each while the teachers made several appearances. The Quaker mascot enjoyed the company of the PCMS wildcat on several occasions. Still, the overall effect was positive — positively more school spirit.

The Honor Society members dressed and visited the elementaries for words on safe trick or treating. To celebrate Christmas, red and green appeared not only in clothing but in decorated classrooms and hallways. Christmas activities included a children's play by the Plainfield Players, a food drive for the FCA and Christmas shopping for needy families by the Honor Society. Valentine's Day brought flowers and stuffed animals and balloons to school. By St. Patrick's Day, the number of participants dwindled, but green was the predominant color of the day.

Wednesday, January 29, 1992, was a scene of bedlam in the gym as the four classes competed in Plainfield's version of Double Dare. Games and races were put together in this first winter spirit night. Student Council organized the event under the careful supervision of Jessica Gillespie. The activities included a number of races, some on air mattresses and others with balloons tied to shoelaces. Other activities include toothpicks between the teeth used to pass Life Savers from one team member to another. A piggy back competition and a Kool-Aid drinking contest were held. The number of participants was not as large as was hoped, but the competition was intense nonetheless.

The sophomores elected Steve Keeton after nominating him along with Josh Epling and Mike Mason. No sophomore girls chose to participate. Jeff Fine and Kathy Wright reigned for the juniors with other nominees being Brett Smith, Bobby Williams, Andrea Wood and Libby Yell. Red and blue was the game day standby. But many other fashion statements were obvious during spirit weeks. Hat and college sweatshirt days were popular, but these were normal attire anyway. But the variety of hats expanded to include helmets, cowboy hats, sombreros, golf and baseball caps, etc. Another popular day was spring break day where tie dyed shorts and spring break shirts were in evidence. Two new and very popular days this year included pajama day and hippie day. Boosting school spirit was the goal, but whether that effect was achieved or not, students and teachers really enjoyed the change of pace.

Performances began with The Border Breakers, a rock group comprised of David Brandgard, Dave Gouge, Rose Johnson, David Loy, Kent Meier and Scott Nield. The next act featured Hiley Smallwood in a solo, followed by Heather Kenney on the piano. "Rodeo" was the title presented by Amber and April Hacker, along with April Howell. "We All Need" was sung by JoDee Wallace which led into "Low Life Productions" featuring Plainfield 46168. Below: Beside her date and a handsome balloon doorman, Prudence LecClier flashes a smile.

By 11:30 P.M. on Friday, April 24, the 1992 prom was over. Since 8:30 students had spent a wonderful evening in the Murat Shrine's Egyptian Room, danced to the music of DJ Danny Masariu, ordered and posed for pictures from Lifetouch Studio, and collected the favors of a gold embossed wine glass and a gold key chain. Although the dance itself lasted only three hours, planning had begun in January when a committee of all interested juniors and seniors met to choose a theme — Wonderful Tonight — and select colors — emerald green, black and gold. Mr. Balloon Man created a giant canopy of balloons attached to balloon columns while table decorations of gold stars, green foil, and gold Hershey kisses along with green and gold napkins carried out the color theme.

Having the day off, prom-goers had plenty of time to prepare. The day of preparation paid off when parents took endless pictures before the couple could leave for an evening of dancing and fun.

Apparently enjoying the evening's festivities are Chad Masterson, Laura Schaible, Garry Fathauer, Kerri Sims, Dave Gibbs, and Alana Looker.

Late at night, after the hours of preparation, formal dinner, the limo and/or carriage ride, the dance, and all the pictures and favors, junior and seniors with their dates headed back to Plainfield for the annual post prom. Puttin’ on the Ritz was an informal and fun way to spend the early morning hours. Parents provided spectacular decorations, a wide variety of games, including a casino, and lots of free food. Entering via the ramp, students arrived in the gym lobby to red, black and silver balloons with streamers, stars, tables and park benches. The east gym was filled with prizes to purchase and to be won in the raffle alongside the casino, featuring blackjack, chuck-a-luck, roulette and horse racing. The west gym provided entertainment such as the quarterback pass, toilet paper throw, bean bag toss, Win, Lose or Draw, shuffleboard, ping pong and hop scotch. The second annual Quaker Leadership Camp was held Saturday and Sunday, May 2nd and 3rd at the FFA Leadership Center in Trafalgar, Indiana. Forty-seven students and eight faculty members spent the weekend working through activities designed to develop leadership skills. Activities included values assessment, learning style awareness, communication techniques, goal setting and cooperative working skills; all of these skills are necessary leadership tools among peers.

These skills were taught through a number of fun activities done by members of teams. Seven teams were formed, each assisted by a faculty member. The spirit of cooperation was essential, as well as leadership, to put together the winning team.

Students were selected from approximately 150 freshman, sophomore, and junior nominations by a committee of faculty members. Originally funded as part of the Indiana Incentives Awards Program, this year's camp was made possible by a grant from the Post 71 Youth Foundation.

Series of nine playlets

In the scene entitled "Blood," Annette (Brandy Weaver), Marsha (Kelley Spanton), and Lola (Janeen Taylor) spend their slumber party lamenting how their lives will change after high school and choose to become "blood sisters."

Love, Death and the Prom, a series of nine playlets written by Jon Jory, was performed in Milo Aiken Auditorium on May 8 and 9. Mrs. Pamela Murphy served as the director, and Melissa Combs was the assistant director.

Featuring a large cast and crew, the play was a series of scenes about teenage life. Topics included the prom, popularity, divorce, suicide, cheating and dating. In between these scenes, a large screen featured quotes about various stages of growing up and the social issues faced during those difficult years.

Performances were by "veteran" PHS actors and actresses as well as a number of newcomers. Support jobs were performed by a large stage crew, along with a strong back up team to do publicity, tickets, ushering, and various other jobs.

"Reverse English" is the title of the scene performed in part by Stacy Leach and Misty Van Jelgerhuis about being popular and choosing one's own friends.

May 31, 1992, a sunny and breezy day with white puffy clouds dancing across the sky, was the background for the most important day in the lives of the seniors. After thirteen years together, the long road was ending, with a new one before them.

Clad in the traditional red and blue gowns with band accompaniment, the seniors paraded to the football stadium. Following the invocation by Rev. Richard W. Clevenger, Mike Hartley delivered his salutatory address. "Friends" was performed by the PHS Symphonic Band, followed by the valedictory address by Dave Boulware. The combined high school choirs sang "Home" and "Everyone Rejoice." Remarks by Dr. Jerry R. Holifield were followed by Principal R. Dale Jackson presenting the class and school board member Mrs. Pam Hall presenting the diplomas. Class of '92 President Ryan Schafhauser directed the turning of the tassels, and Rev. Clevenger closed the ceremony with the benediction.

Although the reason for the field trip is ice skating at Pan Am Plaza, Scott Nield, Chad Barton, Aimee Schwartz, Michelle McCrary, and David Brandgard seem to be having a good time off the ice.

Above: Dr. Ann Bleakley, who has been the English department chairman for 20 years, grades masterpieces for Writer's Gallery. Dr. Bleakley retires with many contributions to PHS, such as AP English, reading and writing labs, and contributing to the introduction of computers into the curriculum. Right: After 21 years of administration work at PHS, Miss Pat Lawrence is retiring. Her contributions have been in scheduling, creating new classes, and making Plainfield a nationally recognized leader in computer education.

Right: Principal R. Dale Jackson leaves PHS to join the central office as an assistant superintendent. During his 29 years at Plainfield, Mr. Jackson served as the band director, the junior-senior high principal, and finally as the high school principal. During his tenure, a number of physical facelifts and additions have taken place. His leadership has been both valuable and effective. Below: Mrs. Geraldine Carpenter leaves PHS after 24 years of custodial service to the school district.
