NOTE: This index is not meant to be a comprehensive listing of all the information that was included in the marriage application—you should always consult the actual entry in the marriage application book.

BACKGROUND: In May 1905, a new Indiana law took effect, requiring the recording of detailed information about the bride and groom (such as their birthdates and birthplaces, as well as their occupations and information about any previous marriages) as well as information about their parents.

In Hendricks County, the information from the marriage applications was initially kept in a separate set of books from the marriage record (which only recorded the names of the bride and groom, the date the marriage was performed, and the name of the person who performed the marriage). This separate set of marriage application books was used in Hendricks County from May 1905 through May 1950; then beginning in June 1950, the application information was recorded in the same set of books as the marriage record.

The Archives section of the Hendricks County Government website (www.co.hendricks.in.us) has digital versions of these 1905-1950 marriage application books. The digital versions are also available as part of an Indiana marriage database on FamilySearch (www.familysearch.org). Additionally, these marriage application books have been microfilmed, and that microfilm is available locally at the Plainfield library, as well as the Indiana State Library in Indianapolis and the Family History Library in Salt Lake City, Utah. The original books are kept in the Hendricks County Clerk's office at the Hendricks County courthouse in Danville, Indiana.
